Our Mission...

The Friends of the Montana State University Libraries' mission is to support The Libraries in its efforts to build the collections. Friends support provides information resources to prepare our students for a lifetime of learning as well as quality scholarly resources for our faculty. The Friends of the Libraries also are ambassadors, marshaling support for the library on campus, in the community, and around the state.

The library is the heart of any university. It represents the doorway to the cumulative record of knowledge. It is a refuge for the mind
whether it be that of the student, teacher, or researcher.

Today The Libraries at MSU-Bozeman continue to provide collections and services in support of the instruction, research, and service missions of the university. With almost 600,000 volumes, 3,500 periodical subscriptions, and 1.3 million microforms, The Libraries support the activities of over 11,000 students and 700 faculty members. Technology has made The Libraries an information center for an ever-growing community of citizens and businesses via computer access to an expanding network of information and databases.

Renne Library, the main library, was finished in 1961 and is located in the heart of the campus, across the Centennial Mall from Montana Hall. Plans are underway for a major renovation.

Special Features...

The Merrill G. Burlingame Special Collections of the Montana State University Libraries features the world's preeminent historical collection devoted to Yellowstone National Park. Other areas of emphasis include the Yellowstone ecosystem, Montana history, Montana agriculture and ranching, regional Native Americans, Bozeman, the Gallatin Valley, Montana architecture, and prominent Montanans. Primary and secondary research materials are collected in all formats, including original papers and documents, publications, maps, photographs, and videotapes.

MSU reference librarians possess excellent academic and technical credentials and are available to assist you Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Electronic visitors can find detailed information on library collections and services at our web site:

Friends Support Makes a Crucial Difference...

Maintaining The Libraries' leading role in research and public service has been and continues to be the result of both public and private funding support. Increasingly, it is private support that helps us achieve "that extra edge" to maintain our high standards.

Endowment highlights

$ Collection endowment

The goal is to build the world's greatest collection of books, gray literature, and manuscripts devoted to trout. Funds produced by the endowment will permit the library to purchase or bid on items for the collection. It is important to recognize that the more successful we are in building the collection, those items that we desire to acquire are likely to be more expensive.

$ Lecture Series endowment

The goal is to fund an annual lecture series. Funds produced by the endowment will support honoraria and travel-related expenses for two to four speakers per year. It is expected that not all presentations will be in Bozeman, but that at least one per year will be elsewhere in Montana. Topics are limited only to the extent that they will be trout-related; so, they might be about angling, fisheries management, trout ecology, literature, anthropology, politics, etc.

$ Faculty endowment

The goal is to put in place a member of the MSU Libraries' faculty whose primary responsibility will be the development and management of the trout & salmonid collection, the provision of information support to various trout constituencies, and the extension of the intellectual resource embodied in the collection to a variety of audiences ranging from scientists, in-the-field resource managers, anglers, teachers, and students across the university to kindergarten spectrum.

$ Support for holder of the chair

The goal is to enable the holder of the chair to attend appropriate professional meetings as well as to travel on buying trips to build the collection. There will also be funds to support student workers who will assist in the processing of the collection and web site(s) maintenance.

Dear Russ:

As a member of the MSU Libraries' Trout and Salmonid Steering Committee, I would like to invite you to join me for a meeting, dinner, and day of fishing on August 5th and 6th. We have scheduled cocktails at 6:00 p.m., followed by dinner at The Livingston Bar and Grille. Bruce Morton, the Dean of MSU Libraries, and I hope to share our program outline and goals for the Bud Lilly Chair in Trout and Salmonid Bibliography with you at that time.

The following morning we will convene at 9 a.m. at the Livingston Buttreys parking lot for a day of fishing on privately owned spring creeks, hosted by the Dana Ranch (lunch will be provided by the MSU Libraries).

Please let us know if you would like complimentary accommodations at my Angler's Retreat in Three Forks.

I do request the courtesy of your R.S.V.P. by June 15th in order to help us plan accordingly. Please, contact me at 406-284-9943 or The Libraries at 406-994-3340.

Dana Ranch and Nelson Spring Creek will be reserved for our exclusive use only on August 6th.

Looking forward to your reply.

Sincerely,

Bud Lilly

Friends of the MSU Libraries "Focus on Friends"

by Patricia Denison, Director for Library Development and Relations

Some time back, I met Anne Barnaby, a local radio personality and a member of a wide variety of community organizations (Jazz Montana, Battered Women's Network, Campfire Youth, Humane Society, etc.) It didn't take me long to figure out this was someone I really wanted to know.

Anne grew up near the Sierra foothills of Northern California in a household where her parents were both accomplished pianists—her mother played classical music, and her father jazz. Surrounded by music from a very early age, Anne has fond memories of the two side-by-side pianos in their home where she and her family members would play beautiful music together.

I watched the gold in her eyes sparkle as she spoke of the bond she shares with her Cajun/French father and Irish/Scottish mother. She spoke of her mother's love of books. Apparently a voracious reader, her mother would escort Anne to the local public library to gather books on current affairs and politics, encouraging Anne to be an informed and well rounded young woman. (Anne pointed out that her mother continues to devour five or six books a week.)

Anne grew up in the 50s and 60s during a time of significant cultural pressure and change. Her lazy summer days were spent watching "I Love Lucy," listening to the sounds of Joan Baez and Bob Dylan, practicing her music and escaping into the adventures her books provided her.

"Books, writing and libraries—city, community, university libraries—are the foundation for everything I have ever done or accomplished," says Anne. "From the late nights with a flashlight under the covers as a child, to the first creative writing class, to the J.R.R. Tolkien series, and the beautiful children's classics, it has all helped me discover who I am. I was a fast reader, without great retention, but enough imagination to bridge the gap. I would build pictures in my mind which were helpful to create a theater in my mind in terms of broadcasting it to others. Books helped to build a mental world that was very enticing to me as I was a bit of a reclusive kid. The books were my playmates—all of my playmates were in the books."

Anne goes on to quote Edward R. Murrow who once said, "Speak every word as if it were your last. Make your words count." Every word does count. I still believe it. The root of everything comes from proper writing skills that translate to speech. If you can't write, you

Dean's Office

After dominating our thought and time for the better part of two years, the renovation of MSU's Renne Library is nearing completion. Those who have recently entered the building will have immediately noticed the difference. Perhaps the most striking thing is the bright light that ties the circulation counter and main lobby with the elevated reference area and the Heathcote Court. The Heathcote Court, formerly ponds and planters, is now a relaxed seating, new book display, and beverage bar ("The Brewed Awakening") area--an indoor version of the village green. We expect the entire renovation project to be completed by the end of November. Certainly, after 20 months of renovation, staff and students will be ready to move in and on. I must say, students have been extraordinarily patient, civil, and adaptable and staff have been stalwart and perseverant in enduring the confusion, disruptions, dislocations, and din of the last 20 months. The result will be a library that looks fresh and vibrant and which will be a far safer and more comfortable working and study environment for both students and staff.

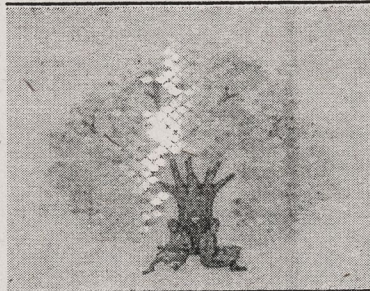

Also, new and prominent in the library's main lobby is a major donor recognition installation. The form is a tree sheltering male and female students reading books. The foliage of the tree is composed of copper, silver, and gold colored metal plates symbolizing various levels of giving. We hope that through this beautiful piece of functional art our major donors will feel both appreciated and honored to be so recognized and that potential donors will be inspired to give.

While the renovation has moved forward, we have not lost sight of our commitment to continuing to build quality paper-based collections. At the same time, we continue to make impressive progress in building a quality electronic resource environment for our students and faculty. In order to accomplish both of these goals successfully in an information marketplace that routinely sees eight percent or higher annual inflation, building endowments to support collection growth as well as access to electronic resources is absolutely essential. I am convinced that our success in building quality collections and access in the face of limited resources contributes directly to student and faculty achievement. Today's library remains central to the university's missions of teaching, research, and service.

Bruce Morton
Dean of Libraries

FOL Board Approves High-impact Project

At its June meeting, the Friends of MSU Libraries Board of Directors voted to commit the FOL to funding the renovation of the west landing area, which is off the main stairwell between the first floor and the basement. This area was left unimproved by the 2001-02 renovation project. The FOL commitment will be for $30,000 to be paid in three equal installments in 2002-03-04. We expect the 10 booths (tables and bench seats), five on each side of the west landing, to be installed in the first or second week of January 2003. We are confident that this unique seating environment within the Renne Library will be heavily used and greatly appreciated by students.

Scott Levandowski, President of the MSU FOL Board of Directors

Special Thanks to All Those Who Gave to the MSU Libraries from July 2001 through June 2002

This list includes cash gifts made to support MSU Libraries, Friends of the MSU Libraries, Library Endowments, Library Memorials and Collections. If you should find any inadvertent errors or omissions in our listing, please bring it to the attention of the Director for Library Development & Relations, Patricia Denison, at 994-3340. A special thanks to all our library supporters who donated books, monographs, and papers for the library collection.

Personnel Updates

- Two Adjunct Librarians joined the Reference Team this Fall. Kornelia Dormire joins us from the Ridgewood Public Library in New Jersey, and Mary Keefer joins us from the University of Wisconsin at Oshkosh.
- New Classified staff include Allison Robbins and Jill Gregoire, new members of the Information Resources Development Team. Sally White joined the Resource Sharing/Document Delivery Team, and David Dunbar joined the AV/Copies Team.
- Additionally, two searches are underway for tenure-track faculty. Screening will begin Oct. 15 for the Associate Dean of Libraries position, and Nov. 7 for the Electronic Resources Librarian.

Blakely Acquisition

It would be difficult to find a more colorful narrative of the frontier than the life reminiscence of Charles P. Blakeley, a Missouri-born ex-Confederate soldier who literally escaped the Civil War to participate in the 1864 Montana gold rush. Finding the life of a miner at Virginia City too difficult, Blakeley became one of the first settlers on the West Gallatin River and embarked on a remarkable career as a lawman, territorial legislator, town promoter, and county assessor. It is with no small amount of hyperbole that Leeson's 1885 History of Montana describes the tale of Blakeley as one "fraught with vivid and interesting incidents and sorrowful and thrilling anecdotes."

Fortunately, for present day historians and scholars, Blakeley felt moved to record some of those "thrilling anecdotes" shortly before his death in 1912 on over 400 handwritten pages which have recently been acquired by the Montana State University Libraries' Special Collections. Blakeley's remarkable autobiography is accompanied by a scattering of legal documents, letters, and memorabilia, which help put this outstanding pioneer story into context.

Students Welcomed to Campus with a Helping Hand and a Party!

On August 28 – 29, library faculty and staff participated in the second annual Move-In Day and the first annual CATapalooza, assisting students as they moved into their dorm rooms and welcoming them to campus with helpful advice and free goodies. CATapalooza, two days of festivities and information-sharing for students held on the Centennial Mall, drew about 80 local merchants and agencies to campus to promote their goods and services. The library joined numerous campus offices in staffing a table to give out information and freebies [magnets, bookmarks, pens and candy], and offered library tours as well.

Participation Best Ever at Annual Tribal College Librarians' Professional Development Institute

Thirty-one participants and two special guests attended the 2002 Tribal College Librarians' Institute, a yearly week-long event for library personnel from tribal college libraries throughout the United States and Canada to learn new skills and knowledge, as well as to network and do some group problem-solving. Programs this year included planning for library buildings and renovations, health literacy for Native Americans, preservation of library materials, and conflict management. The MSU Libraries has sponsored and hosted this event for ten years.

L.3 HARLEQUIN NOVELS COME TO LIFE

Are you living vicariously through Harlequin novels to put romance in your life? Put the books back on the shelf and write your own chapter for romance and intrigue! Take that special someone for a two night hideaway at the Cottonwood Inn. A welcome bottle of Italian wine and fresh flowers in the room, nightly turndown service with pillow amenity, plus a full breakfast each morning of your two-night stay in the Yellowstone Suite will set the mood for a fabulous, romantic weekend. Step aside, Fabio!

Donated by Joe & Debbie Velli      Value: $295

L.4 A ROOM WITH A VIEW

View the MSU Libraries' special collections of rare and historic books, letters, manuscripts, farm & ranch papers and architectural drawings covering people and places such as architect Fred Willson, Burton K. Wheeler, Yellowstone Park, the library's trout & salmonid collection and Lewis & Clark. The successful bidder will receive an intimate catered reception for up to ten people in the Special Collections area of the Renne Library. This unique event will be moderated by university archivist and special collections librarian Kim Allen Scott and hosted by Libraries Dean, Bruce Morton (not available until fall 2002 due to the renovation project).

Donated by Renne Library

Value: Not available anywhere else!

L5. KING OF CABS

L.6 RACK IT UP IN STYLE

You can be the first to own Montana Furniture Galleries' premier wine cabinet. This is an exclusive opportunity as they are not yet in production. This beautiful, hand crafted oak cabinet is another example of why Montana Furniture Galleries continues to offer new and innovative fine furnishings for your home. The size 51.7" high x 25.3" wide x 20.1" deep cabinet comes complete with wine glass and bottle racks and beveled glass doors.

Donated by Greg Metzger

Montana Furniture Galleries Value: $1,100

L.7 UNLIMITED FISHING TALES

Cast away the day on a blue ribbon trout stream. You and a friend will spend your day in the company of fly-fishing legend Bud Lilly and MSU President Geoffrey Gamble. This rare opportunity, complete with a gourmet picnic lunch, will make your fly-fishing fantasies come true!

Donated by Bud Lilly & Geoffrey Gamble

Value: Priceless

L.8 GRAPES OF VINE

This hand-crafted, hardwood sofa table is a one of a kind piece specifically crafted for this evening's event by local artist Debbie Moeller. You can see the influences of her worldwide travels in the exotic and colorful style of her art. Deb's unique style is to transform ordinary things into functional, exquisite art using color, shape and light. Her bold and creative designs have displayed and sold at galleries throughout western Montana, Oregon and California.

Donated by Debbie Moeller

Value: $1,200

L.9 CALIFORNIA HERE I COME!

A visit to the rocky, hilly terrain and vivid blue sky of the Napa Valley in California can be yours! You and three others can experience a relaxing two-night stay at the Pine Ridge Winery Cottage. This rustic, small two-bedroom and two-bath cottage includes a kitchen, dining and living room area and patio. You'll be surrounded on all sides by vineyard views and a seasonal creek in the heart of the Stag's Leap district wine growing region. You will also enjoy a VIP tour and barrel tasting in their caves, with a current release tasting in the winery's hospitality center. Dining, shopping and touring are all conveniently available in nearby Yountville and all up-valley locations. Reservations are subject to availability. This package comes complete with two round-trip domestic airline tickets. Some restrictions apply.

*Donated by The Travel Station, Ed & Carol Schmidt
& Pine Ridge Wineries*

Value: $1,200

L.10 TOUR DE FRANCE

Drink in the art or drink the wine. Experience the traditions of France with its fascinating regions, each with a different personality. From the sidewalk cafes of Paris to the beaches of Normandy; to the Old Town and Saturday market of Dijon in Burgundy; to the hills of Provence. Experience the historic monuments, castles, abbeys and medieval towns, drink the wine or cruise the rivers. This intoxicating package includes two round-trip Northwest Airline tickets from New York to Paris with a $500 lodging credit for your personal choice of any chateau, manor house, hotel, or canal bateau. This package is good until April 2003. Restrictions apply.

Donated in part by Montana Travel, Sue Leigland

Value: $1,600

L.11 CAST AWAY YOUR TROUBLES

The brochure explains it best: "Anyone who has spent time on a trout stream with a fly rod knows just how therapeutic that can be. All the pressures of the real world tend to fade away for the few hours you are casting a fly to rising, wild trout. At Healing Waters Fly Fishing Lodge, we believe every ingredient of your fly fishing vacation should contribute to the "healing" of your soul. Healing Waters Lodge is located in the heart of southwest Montana's finest fishing. You will have the choice of fishing the Big Hole, Beaverhead, Ruby, Madison or Jefferson Rivers. The lodge is nestled in a grove of Cottonwoods on thirty-seven acres between Twin Bridges and Sheridan, Montana. Views from the decks of the guest rooms and the main lodge are of the Ruby, Tobacco Root, Greenhorn and Pioneer Mountains." This fishing package includes two nights and two days at the lodge for two people, all meals, beverages and two days of guided fishing on the rivers of southwest Montana. Equipment available.

Donated by Greg & Janet Lilly Value: $1,900

L.12 IT'S AN ORIGINAL!

By Mary Cassatt - impressionist artist (1845-1927), "Sarah Smiling" is an original drypoint by Cassatt. In this work, the unique style is evidenced by the fine pure line and keen observation of character. Without elaboration, she has given the maximum of expression with a minimum of detail. It is for this subtle yet intensely perceptive technique that Cassatt holds her place among the world's greatest artists. This impression is the Delatre edition of 1923 listed in the Breeskin catalogue as No. 195. Cassatt never accepted commissioned portraits, and she used family, friends or paid models. By placing her models in backgrounds of which she was most familiar - a garden, the theater, various rooms of a house - the people always appear at ease in their surroundings. This is your special opportunity to own a piece of art by one of the greatest Impressionist artists.

Donated by Allen & Anna Lee Roush

Value: $2,000

L.13 PICK OF THE LITER

Start your own wine cellar or add some incredible wines to your own existing collection. Twelve bottles plus one from some of the most serious wine collectors in the Gallatin Valley. Each collector has hand-picked and signed one bottle to add to this collection: a 1993 Emidio Pepe Montepulciano d'Abruzzo donated by Denys Slater; a 1985 Camp Gros Martinenga Barbaresco (92 pts) donated by Joe Dittmar; a 1987 Chateau Lynch Bages Pauillac Grand Cru Classe (87pts) donated by Chuck and Kathy Rinker; a 1974 Sebastiani Cabernet Sauvignon donated by Jim Kack; a 1985 William Hill Reserve Cabernet Sauvignon (92 pts) donated by Bill Brown; a 1995 Chateau Duhart-Milon Domaines Barons de Rothschild (Lafite) Pauillac Grand Cru Classe (90 pts) donated by John Langenheim; a 1999 Santa Julia Mendoza Torrontes donated by Darlene Siedschlaw; a 1995 Capitel de Roari Amarone del Valpolicella Classico donated by Steve Barrett; a 1987 Hess Collection Cabernet Sauvignon (94 pts) donated by Lew Zimmer; a 1986 Chateau Mouton Rothschild (100 pts) donated by Tim Barnard; a 1986 Chateau Gruaud Larose Saint Julien Grand Cru Classe (93 pts) donated by Howard Davis; a 1989 Domaine Cayron Gigondas (90 pts) donated by Harry Hughes; and a bonus Champagne Veuve Clicquot Ponsardin donated anonymously.

L.14 YOU'LL BE DRAWN TO IT

A signed original charcoal by artist Ned Mueller. Mueller grew up in the beautiful Gallatin Valley and has held a number of prestigious positions including being a guest artist at the National Academy of Western Art in 1988-89 and participating in an artists' exchange in China in 1990. He has won many awards both regionally and nationally and gives workshops throughout the country. To own an extraordinary piece of original work by this gifted artist is truly a rare opportunity.

Donated by Allen & Anna Lee Roush

Value: $500

L.15 BRING IN THE NEW YEAR

You'll be the toast of the town with this luxury, six liter, cuvée of rich, toasty, creamy flavorful sparkling wine. Celebrate any special occasion in style when you serve this fine bottle of Champagne Bollinger Special Cuvee. Rated 90 by Wine Spectator, this champagne is from one of the few remaining family-owned Grande Marque houses. Located in Ay, in the heart of the Côte des Noirs, it is renowned for the high percentage of Pinot Noir it uses and for the extra aging on the lees that its champagnes receive. You will easily entertain a large group of guests with this six liter Methusalem.

Donated by Bronken's Distributing

CHOOSING AN APPROPRIATE WINE

Wine, like a small boy, is not at its best after even the very shortest of journeys. From the wine shop to home, it gets shaken up and ideally needs several days or even weeks to recuperate and reassemble itself. It would be a pity to buy a great bottle of wine, bring it home, pour it into a glass and expect it to be sensational. Even beer protests movement, and froths and foams in great agitation if it is not handled with care. Wine does not appear to behave with such obvious indignation, yet because it is far more complex than beer, it is even more fragile.

If you just feel like having a bottle of wine for dinner, or with some cheese, it would be better to choose an inexpensive regional wine like Beaujolais rather than something from a grand château which will cost two or three times as much, and taste like a regional wine anyway if it does not have time to rest.

The general idea behind choosing the wine is that it should match the occasion. A heavily magnificent Bordeaux is best saved to be served with a touch of reverence and some beef. Not that it would be wrong to drink it out of a mug in the dormitory; it would simply be a waste when a gallon of █████ would do the job at hand better!

SERVING THE WINE

Though Beaujolais, the red wine from southern Burgundy, is sometimes served slightly chilled, ALL OTHER RED WINES ARE ALWAYS SERVED AT ROOM TEMPERATURE. Draw the cork from the red wines an hour before they are to be served. (If the wine is more than ten years old, the cork should only be drawn half an hour before it is served, as the older the wine, the greater the tendency for it to disintegrate on being exposed to light.) If you doubt the efficacy of opening the wine for an hour before serving it, taste it as soon as it is opened and then every fifteen minutes until it is served. As the wine comes into contact with the air, the gases which have been trapped in the bottle are released and the wine softens and becomes more mellow.

White wines are chilled for two hours before serving (not two days!) The cork is drawn just before they are served.

Unless the wine contains a heavy deposit, it is not necessary to decant it.

WINE GLASSES

Wine glasses should be clear and either large or enormous! Of course any glass is better than none at all, and so much the better if you happen to own a glass designed for a specific type of wine, such as a hock glass for Rhine wine or a Bordeaux for a Bordeaux. These glasses have been made in such a way as to enhance to the fullest possible degree a particular characteristic of color or bouquet of the specific wine. Assuming you do not already have a series of glasses, then select one which will be suitable to all wines. A clear glass will enable you to see what you are drinking, and to judge the brilliance of a young American wine, the variation of color (from gold to straw) of a German wine, and the red depth of a well aged French red wine. Smoked glass tends to distort all colors, and though it looks pretty enough when it is empty, it does not permit you to see the wine as it really is.

Small glasses should be scorned in direct relation to their diminishing capacity. The smaller they are, the more they seem to imply that their contents are a dose, rather than a generosity of giving. A wine glass should be only half filled in order that the wine may come into contact with the air and be able to "breathe." Small wine glasses filled tremblingly to the brim are inevitably half empty with the first tentative sip, and the reply to the third suggestion of "more?" evokes a predictably negative response, based more on moral compunction rather than gastronomic fulfillment.

Chimney shaped glasses and those which curve inward at the top concentrate the escaping bouquet, holding it like a child cupping a rose lovingly in her hands, so you may breathe in all the escaping fragrance in one precious moment.

"That's all very well," you may say, "having a great glass for a great wine, but I only plan to drink inexpensive wines from gallon jugs from here to eternity." All the more reason to buy a good glass; if the glass can improve the greatest of wines, imagine how much it can do for those wines whose need of help may be considerably more acute!

For some, it is enough simply to drink the wine provided. Diogenes was once asked which wine he liked best, and he answered with no small degree of honesty, "I would as soon have someone else's..." (Montaigne). Yet, he who thoughtlessly gulps the wine down is like a man who embraces a beautiful woman without first having seen her enter the room and admired her style, her color and her fragrance...

WINE EVALUATION

Wine evaluation relies on three basic senses: sight, smell and taste. So the standard procedure for wine tasting involves three easy steps:

1. looking closely at the wine to evaluate color and clarity,
2. swirling and sniffing the wine to evaluate aromas,
3. sipping the wine to evaluate body balance and flavors.

Wine evaluation requires attention to four basic areas:

- color and clarity
- aromas and bouquet
- body and balance
- and flavors and finish

Color & Clarity

Wines should be clear, bright, and free of sediment and cloudiness. (Older red wine may be an exception to this, as they tend to throw off sediment during aging. After settling and decanting, however, the liquid should be free of particles.) Colors will vary according to the grape varietal, the style and the age of the wine.

Aroma & Bouquet

Often used interchangeably, these terms refer to the complex set of smells resulting from the grape varietal, wine making techniques and aging. For tasters who like to get technical, the aromas result from the grape and wine making process, while the bouquet results from the aging process!

Body & Balance

The overall feel of the wine in the mouth—light, full, round, heavy—is referred to as body. Balance refers to the relationship between fruit, acidity and oak. In a well-balanced wine no single element will overpower the rest.

Flavors & Finish

Like many fruits, wine grapes have flavor elements characteristics of each varietal. The length of time these flavors remain in the mouth after swallowing (or spitting—whichever you prefer!) is called the finish.

Wine, like people, is alive and constantly in a state of change, either improving or deteriorating. Buying wine is like buying stock; the trick is to be there at the right moment, neither drinking the wine prematurely nor holding it until it dies or you do!

NATURAL PARTNERS

As with all food-and-wine matching, many cheeses can go deliciously with a specific wine. But certain types make natural partners, either because they share regional associations or they have worked well in personal experience. The age of a wine is less of an issue than its level of subtlety. Because strong cheeses can rob more complex wines of their nuances, simpler wines generally go with a wider range of cheeses. Use the following list as a starting point.

WINE	CHEESE
Bordeaux (red)	hard types, especially Pyrenees mountain cheese
Bordeaux (white)	soft & goat types & other aged goat cheeses
Burgundy (white)	hard types, especially Garrotxa and Comté
Burgundy (red)	hard types, especially Tomme de Savoie
Cabernet Sauvignon	hard types, especially dry Jack or aged Cheddar
Champagne &amp; sparkling wines	soft types, especially Brie, Camembert, Reblochon
Chardonnay	see Burgundy (white)
Chianti (and other Sangiovese-based Tuscan reds):	hard types, especially Pecorino Toscano
Merlot	hard types, especially dry Jack
Pinot Noir	see Burgundy (red)
Port	blue or extreme types, especially Stilton
Riesling (dry)	soft types, especially Reblochon
Riesling (sweet)	soft or extreme types, especially Epoisses
Sauternes, Barsac and late-harvest Sémillon and Sauvignon Blanc:	blue types, especially Roquefort
Sauvignon Blanc (dry), Sancerre and Pouilly-Fumé:	goat types, especially fresh chèvres
Sherry (dry)	hard types, especially Cheddar and Garrotxa
Sherry (sweet)	blue and extreme types, especially Cabrales
Syrah	hard types, especially Pyrenees mountain cheeses
Very sweet dessert wines (such as Australian liqueurs, Pedro Ximénez Sherry):	extreme types, especially Taleggio
Viognier	soft or hard types, especially Camembert or Tomme
Zinfandel	hard types, especially dry Jack or aged Gouda

Dear Mr. Schmookler,

Bud Lilly mentioned to me that you are using Angling Journal to assist with our Bibliography here at Montana State. I will provide you with some information, along with a copy of a local paper.

This project is very dear to Bud in terms of a legacy of a lifetime of work and commitment. He is setting out to raise $2.5 million. Help us accomplish this goal.

MSU is extraordinarily well positioned as a preeminent library for trout studies that I know you will appreciate. In addition, its habitat affords ample and quality trout and quail, and their economic impact, and are the stuff of creativity, whether it be in the arts, sciences, or sports. We reflect all of this in addition to the studies in trout ecology, pathologies, and fisheries.

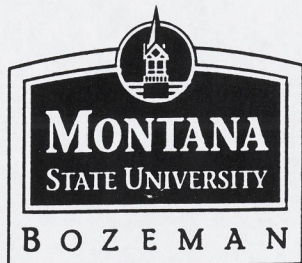

Enclosed you will find a prospectus that is both inspiring and that your co-members in the American Medical Fly Fishing Association will appreciate as well. We have already made a very significant advance toward our goal of establishing THE trout & salmonid library. It is important that we use our momentum to propel us forward. I very much appreciate your willingness to help us do so.

Hi Bud -
Here is our most recent letter sent out!

See You -

Dear Mr. Schmookler,

Bud Lilly mentioned to me that you are interested in crafting a written piece for the Art of Angling Journal to assist with our promotion of the Lilly Chair in Trout and Salmonid Bibliography here at Montana State University. Per his request, I am forwarding you some information, along with a copy of some publicity the project has received in our local paper.

This project is very dear to Bud in that it is located at his alma mater and embodies the legacy of a lifetime of work and commitment. Indeed, these are challenging times to be setting out to raise $2.5 million. However, looking at a three-year window I believe that we can accomplish this goal.

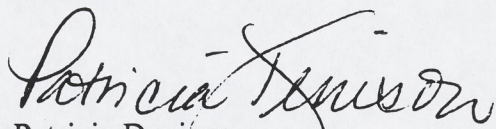

MSU is extraordinarily well positioned to carve out a unique niche for itself as the preeminent library for trout studies. The trout is practically a totem in these parts; a fact that I know you will appreciate. In Montana, especially southwestern Montana, the trout and its habitat afford ample and quality recreational opportunity, provide considerable economic impact, and are the stuff of "serious" politics. Of course, it also inspires creativity, whether it be in the arts, belle lettres, or in the culinary sphere. It is our goal to reflect all of this in addition to the scientific foundation that will focus on the fish itself, ecology, pathologies, and fisheries management.

Enclosed you will find a prospectus for the Bud Lilly Chair. I hope that you will find it inspiring and that your co-members in the American Medical Fly Fishing Association will as well. We have already made a very significant advance toward our goal of establishing THE trout & salmonid library. It is important that we use our momentum to propel us forward. I very much appreciate your willingness to help us do so.

After you have had an opportunity to review this material, please feel free to call me with any questions.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Prosek,

This is just a quick note to let you know that the art insert that you contributed to the prospectus for the Lilly Chair in Trout & Salmonid Bibliography has certainly been a hit. Bud recently told me that it is hanging on the wall of a DC attorney. It has universally received admiring comments.

Also, my compliments on the very interesting "Tigris Trout" piece that appeared in last Sunday's New York Times. I have forwarded it to several of our supporters.

I look forward to meeting you when you are in the Bozeman area. Perhaps you may even have time to visit the library and see what we have accomplished with the collection. I honestly believe that we are on the way to establishing the preeminent trout-focused collection in the U.S.

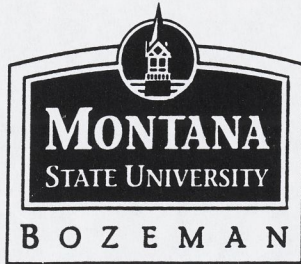

All best wishes.

Mr. Bud Lilly
Mrs. Esther Lilly
13013 Frontage Rd.
Manhattan, MT 59741-8026

Dear Bud and Esther:

In recognition of your support of the Bud Lilly Trout Initiatives at MSU Libraries, it is my pleasure to extend a personal invitation to attend the inaugural lecture of the Trout and Salmonid Lecture Series.

Please join us on November 8, 2007 at 7pm in the Museum of the Rockies' Hager auditorium for a presentation by Dr. Robert Behnke. Known as "The Trout Doctor", Dr. Behnke is our nation's pre-eminent authority on trout biology and professor emeritus at Colorado State University.

A conservationist and superb fisherman, Behnke writes about topics such as native species introductions, genetic markers, endangered species, improving habitats, angling tips and successful rejuvenation of freshwater fish.

Dr. Behnke's research interests include genetics and biology of endangered, threatened and rare fishes. He uses his research experiences to illustrate current topics in conservation and environmental issues, including writing a popular column for Trout Magazine. His selected columns have now been compiled and published in the book About Trout: The Best of Robert Behnke from Trout Magazine.

This event marks a joyous milestone in the development of the MSU Libraries' Trout and Salmonid Initiative. Although the lecture series endowment has not yet reached its fund raising goal, it has grown sufficiently to allow for the start of a lecture series devoted to trout-related topics. It is through the generosity of many that we are able to make these lectures free and open to the public.

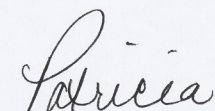

Dr. Behnke's talk is indeed cause for celebration. I hope you will be able to attend and to join us for a reception following the lecture.

Most sincerely,

Tamara Miller

Nathaniel P. Reed
P.O. Box 1213
Hobe Sound, FL 33475

Dear Mr. Reed,

Thank you so much for the gift of 79 your fishing books. We have carefully inventoried the books that you sent us against the Bud Lilly Trout & Salmonid Collection. We will add 34 of the volumes to the Lilly collection. The majority of the rest, as duplicates, we would add to the general library open-stack collection. In a few cases we decided to buy a better copy to add to the Lilly collection. A very few of the volumes in poorest condition would be sold at our annual book sale.

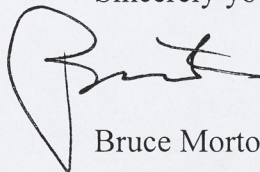

The ten years of your fishing diaries, which arrived under separate cover, have already been added to the Lilly collection; they are absolutely wonderful.

We would appreciate it if you would please confirm for us that the aforementioned plan of disposition of your donation meets with your approval. You can reach me at the address on this letterhead or via email at 6922bristol@gmail.com.

Bud sends his regards. Thank you for your continuing support for our efforts to honor and preserve Bud's legacy.

All best wishes,

Bee!

Dear Mr. Lilly,

Thank you for attending our recent reunion reception! I hope that you had a nice time! It was so nice to meet your wife! I just wanted to let you know that I contacted Jane Goodall's people by email. They said that if we would like to have her sign the book, we can mail it to them, but she will not be in town again until late October, so that will be the earliest we could get it signed. If you don't want to wait that long, he suggested that you check on E-Bay and Amazon for signed copies on sale. Please let me know what you would like to do.

Again, I hope you and your guests enjoyed the reception! It was nice meeting you! I don't get to meet a legend every day!

Best,
Sara Amy

1. Diary of a Whistleblower
James Alderson, C.P.A. Join Alderson and his wife Connie as they share their 13 year journey in pursuing the largest Medicare fraud case in history; this historical case against Hospital Corporation of America and Quorum Health led to a pay back to the U.S. Treasury of $1.7 billion.
2. Your Montana Constitution
Karla Gray, First Woman Elected to the Montana Supreme Court and Montana's First Female Chief Justice Delve into Montana's Constitution and find out how it is the most progressive constitution in the nation, why the Preamble captures the essence of our great state and how the structure reflects our people and government.
3. Bozeman in the Year 2025: Where do the next 55,000 people go?
Chris Saunders, Assistant Director of the Bozeman Department of Planning and Community Development At a 6 percent development rate, Bozeman will reach 90,000 in the next 20 years. Saunders gives insight into how this growth will affect the natural and cultural setting of Bozeman.
4. Elective Surgery: Commonplace, Commonly Misunderstood Risks
William Mealer, M.D., SW Montana Plastic Surgery Today's drive-through mentality about elective surgery minimizes the impression of risk, thus leaving us vulnerable to them. Dr. Mealer will help us understand what the inherent risks are in elective or any surgery and how to minimize them before, during and after your procedure.
5. The International Fabric of the Future Cannot be Woven in Conflict
Ross Rodgers, Retired Diplomat and Officer of the Foreign Service of the U.S. Department of State A former Diplomat, Rodgers will facilitate a healthy discussion about the United States as a continuing center of conflict in a world that is increasingly interdependent.
6. Wings of the World
Doug Badenoch, Owner of The Wine Gallery Thirsty for wine knowledge? Join Badenoch as he takes you on a private tour from Italy to Argentina by sampling and discussing wines of the world.
7. Books that Didn't Make the Bible
Christopher Fuller, Ph.D., Professor of Theology, Carroll College Controversial and highly debated are the large number of books that did not make it into the Old and New Testament. Fuller explains why these books didn't make the cut and if they apply to our society today.
8. Making His Point on a Bed of Nails – Active Learning
Gregory Francis, Ph.D., MSU Physics Professor Laying on a bed of nails and turning water into wine are not the usual teaching practices of a physics professor, but Francis knows what will get students attention and it's not by lecturing! So, leave your note-taking materials at home and join this celebrated physics professor for an in-depth look into the MSU classroom and how he has brought active learning to the forefront of college instruction.

18. Eponyms: The People Behind the Words
Chrysti Smith, Author and Host of Chrysti the Wordsmith The Ferris Wheel, Phillips screwdriver, Barbie doll, frisbee, bloomers, chauvinism and fallopian tube were named for the individuals associated with these items and concepts. Join Smith in this fascinating discussion of the people behind the words.
19. Health Matters
Rachel Rockafellow, MSN, RN, CWOCN, MSU Professor, Yellowstone Public Radio Host From hot flashes to heart burn, arthritis to allergies, Rockafellow is here to answer our burning medical questions and explain why health matters.
20. Yellowstone Without Wheels
Mark Miller, Independent Scholar and Writer What was it like to visit Yellowstone before cars were allowed inside? Miller remembers traveling through Yellowstone before the vehicular invasion began. Mark will share his impressions and stories of Yellowstone as it was in the early 1900's using historical photographs and diaries of the park's early visitors.
21. A Doe with a Calling Still Making House Calls
Douglas Raines, D.V.M., Faithful Friends Animal Clinic Dr. Raines is a rare breed, a Doctor who cares about all creatures, from ferrets to felines. He rescues, rehabilitates and even makes house calls. In today's increasingly hectic society, he's rare and wonderful animal caregiver.
22. Why Hizballah Matters
Clay Scott, Emmy Award Winning News Writer Find out what Hizballah has in common (or not) with other Islamic movements, why the group continues to be popular and what the implications are for U.S. policy in the Middle East — It's not all bad news!

Greetings from a New Dean

As I sit in the Library Dean's office, the view is much the same, but the Dean is different. My name is Tamara Miller, and I am delighted to introduce myself to the Friends of the MSU Libraries. I have held faculty or librarian positions at Michigan State University, University of Wisconsin, and the University of Tennessee. I grew up in Great Falls, and I served as the Associate Dean of the MSU Libraries from June 2003 until July 2007. I am delighted that Patricia Denison has rejoined the Libraries as Director of Development. Brian Rossmann, former head of the Reference Team, is now the Associate Dean. As with all new jobs, there are always unexpected challenges.

Water and Books: A Bad Mix!!

On January 22nd and again on January 29th, the library suffered flooding from broken pipes. Although the circumstances were slightly different in each case, cold air, water pipes, and the building ventilation system each played a sinister part in dumping water in the building, and on the collections.

In the first flood, the pipe was small, and about 4,000 gallons of water was mostly contained in an elevator shaft. However, some of the water fell into the Third Floor Study Area, and then flowed into Special Collections one floor below. Fewer than 300 special collections items were affected. Some of these were frozen immediately; others were air dried or dried with blotters, and handled as delicately as possible. We will continue to work on conserving, restoring, or replacing these valuable materials for some time to come.

The second flood was larger and more widespread. It is estimated that over 10,800 gallons of water poured into the second floor in about eighteen minutes. It could have been worse, and we thank the emergency and facilities personnel who responded quickly and got the water turned off in the wee hours of the morning. The water moved quickly down to the first floor Reference, Circulation, and Documents areas, then moved on to the basement Audiovisual, Oversized, and other stack areas.

The library staff responded quickly to cover bookshelves with plastic, unplug and cover computers, and begin moving those books that were already wet.

is the intellectual heart of the university community*

Archivist Travels to Australia

After more than thirteen years of service to the MSU Libraries, Special Collections librarian Kim Allen Scott has been awarded a semester's sabbatical. This spring he will be traveling to Sydney, Australia where he will be doing research on Royal National Park. Royal National Park bills itself as the world's second national park, having been established in 1879, just a few years after the United States Congress set aside Yellowstone National Park. Kim became interested in Royal National Park after discovering that its history is quite different from Yellowstone's. Early Australian managers of Royal cut down native trees and planted English oaks. They also altered the landscape to facilitate fox hunting by planting hedgerows and spacious lawns. This led Kim to believe that there may have been a problem in translation of the National Park "idea" during the 1870's, and his determination to do a comparison study between Yellowstone and Royal.

Kim's recent publications have included a number of works on Yellowstone National Park, including Yellowstone Denied: The Life of Gustavus Cheyney Doane, published by the University of Oklahoma Press last year. In addition, he edited the extensive correspondence and diaries of Montana pioneer Peter Koch, one of the founders of Montana State University. His sabbatical will also allow him to work with copy editors on the Koch manuscript and facilitate its publication later this year.

Inaugural Trout and Salmonid Lecture

On November 8, 2007, a crowd of nearly 200 gathered at the Museum of the Rockies' Hager Auditorium for a joyous kick-off to the Trout and Salmonid Lecture series. This event marks a milestone in the development of the MSU Libraries' Bud Lilly Trout and Salmonid Initiative. Due to the generosity of many, this lecture was free, and open to the public.

The highlight of the evening was the presentation by Dr. Robert Behnke. Known as "The Trout Doctor," Dr. Behnke is our nation's pre-eminent authority on trout biology and professor emeritus at Colorado State University. A conservationist and superb fisherman, Behnke writes about topics such as native species, genetic markers, endangered species, angling tips and successful rejuvenation of freshwater fish habitats. His collected columns from Trout Magazine have been published in the book About Trout: The Best of Robert Behnke from Trout Magazine. Many enthusiasts were able to purchase a copy of the book and have it autographed by Dr. Behnke during the reception that followed the lecture.

Dr. Behnke's papers have been added to the MSU Libraries' trout collection. This important research collection includes a vast array of created and collected material representing his many years studying the trout and salmonid families of fishes. Organized into two series, the collection contains subject files about genetics, water conditions (limnology), and management of fisheries, with a concentration on the Northwest regions of the U.S. The second series is based on Dr. Behnke's research, professional and personal correspondence, and studies by universities, fish and wildlife agencies, and other related groups.

Comings and Goings

The Friends of MSU Libraries Board recently welcomed new board member, Susan Ferrin. Prior to her move to Montana, Susan was a California Epsilon Pi Phi, and was employed in the investment banking and venture capital industries in California as a marketing and communications specialist. She currently owns Q Wine Marketing, a distribution management company for ultra-premium wineries, and is an independent sales consultant for Doncaster, a private line of women's clothing. Her enthusiasm and dedication is apparent, and we look forward to working with her.

Terms expired for several members in December including Randy Durr, Debbie Fields, Chad Lippert, Bernie Mitchell, Celia O'Connor, and Tom Stonecipher. The time and effort they invested over the past few years is greatly appreciated. We enjoyed working with you, and you will all be missed!

Several new librarians have recently joined the Library as well. Michael Sutherland joined as Web Services Librarian; Timothy Donahue is our new Instruction and Outreach Librarian; and Victoria Heiduschke is an Adjunct Librarian. Welcome all!

After 37 years, longtime Library staff member Nancy Williams retired in December; however, she continues to fill in periodically on a part-time basis.

Koch's Heartfelt Generosity Augments Libraries' Endowment

"We get by with a little help from our friends..."—or so the song goes, and indeed that holds true for MSU Libraries. In my experience, I have found our MSU Library friends to be a very committed group of individuals who understand the importance of education and how it impacts the world we live in, on both a local and global scale.

Additionally, most are familiar with the funding struggles we face as a Montana public education institution. Dwindling financial support from state coffers has left us challenged with securing external—or private—funding to allow us to keep up with the educational resource demands necessary to continue our commitment to "Excellence in Education" for all Montana students, faculty and citizenry.

Our longtime friend, Charlotte Stafford Koch, was a native Montanan, born and educated here, earning both bachelor's and master's degrees at MSU. She spent her life actively involved in political, educational, and community issues until her death in November 2006. Clearly, Ms. Koch understood the value of education and the urgency of securing sustainable funding as, through her estate planning, she generously provided endowment monies for MSU Libraries. Her educational investment of over $1.6 million will provide collection resource materials in perpetuity, helping to assure the quality of education for generations to come.

No gift to the university touches more lives than a gift to the Libraries. Ms. Koch's gift is impacting the education of tens-of-thousands of individuals well into the future, spanning all disciplines, at graduate and undergraduate levels, as well as faculty and citizens throughout the entire state. What an inspiration! Any gift to MSU is a demonstration of confidence and hope for future generations, and we are profoundly grateful for each and every investment. Along with hope comes responsibility—the responsibility to affect change in the world around us.

Please consider how your gift might continue to provide a future of excellence for the students, faculty and citizenry of Montana. For further information on structuring a gift to MSU Libraries, please contact Patricia Denison, 406-994-3340, pdenison@montana.edu, or Montana State University Foundation's Office of Planned Giving at 1-800-457-1696.

Greetings from the new Dean, continued...

During the two days that the Libraries were closed, the staff moved and boxed more than 500 cubic feet of books. These 380 boxes of books were placed on the loading dock to freeze, and then loaded into a freezer truck for transport to a freeze-drying facility in Texas. We estimate that over 7,000 books and documents were shipped. In addition to the damage to the collection, six staff offices were inundated, a large area of carpeting was stained or came unglued, and over 700 ceiling tiles had to be replaced. It is a minor miracle that we were able to reopen with limited services only 48 hours after the pipe broke. Students rushed back into the building and consumed nearly 25 gallons of free coffee, courtesy of the MSU President's Office and the Libraries.

We know that the Libraries' spaces are more important than ever, and we are well on our way to recovery. The Library is central to the MSU learning community and has become the primary informal learning space on campus. One's education is the journey of an entire lifetime, and we are pleased to welcome students, faculty, and all Montana citizens through our doors, and into our information-rich spaces, even as they are still drying out.

As always, I invite you to visit the library and join in the activities of the Friends of the MSU Libraries. I believe that each Friend makes a real difference in the everyday lives of the students at MSU. Your support, in so many different ways, is necessary for the library to continue to help Montana students and researchers to be successful.

Please Join Us for the Annual MSU Author's Reception

The Friends of MSU Libraries and President Gamble will recognize recently published MSU authors on April 3, 2008 from 4-5:30 in Renne Library's Burton K. Wheeler Reading Room. Please join us as we celebrate the MSU faculty who have been published over the past year. Authors will be available to discuss their publications and autograph copies of their books. Refreshments will be served. The MSU Bookstore will have a select inventory available for purchase.

Dinner Dialogues: Delicious Food, Fine Wine, and Fascinating Conversations

The annual dinner, on October 11, was very successful! The evening included engaging discussions with local experts on a variety of topics including government, medicine, wine, nature and the local economy, and was complimented by delicious food and fine wines. The event was enjoyed by all, and we encourage you to mark your calendar for this year's dinner on October 16th!

Please Volunteer - We Need Your Help!

The Friends of the Libraries are recruiting new board members. The board meets once monthly as a group, and various committees meet regularly throughout the year. Appointments are available for 1, 2, or 3 year terms. If a board position doesn't interest you, but you would still like to lend a hand, please consider volunteering on one of our many committees. For more information, call Sara Terry at 994-6857.

Ryan Hall, Dathan Ritzenhein and Brian Sell won the three spots on the men's marathon team, prevailing in a field of 131 that included Meb Keflezighi, silver medalist at the 2004 Olympics.

This was an unusual format for the trials, which began at Rockefeller Center before heading to Central Park for five loops. The aim was to maximize attention a day before the New York City Marathon, where millions usually line the streets.

A recreational runner died during last month's Chicago Marathon. This death, however, was especially startling considering Shay was an elite athlete.

"He was a tremendous champion who was here today to pursue his dreams," said Craig Masback, chief executive of U.S. track and field's governing body. "The Olympic trials is traditionally a day of celebration, but we are heartbroken."

It was in New York two years ago while watching the marathon that Shay met his future wife, Alicia, also an elite distance runner. Alicia was a college teammate at Stanford with Hall, and his wife, Sara. Sara Hall was a bridesmaid in their wedding in July.

1. Deciphering the Miseries of Modern Myanmar (Burma): A Legacy of Colonialism and Military Dictatorship Envisioned by George Orwell
Bob Reed, Ph.D., retired professor, UC Berkeley. Bob made five research trips to Burma to study its history from the onset of British rule to the present. He will highlight key climatic and human ingredients of the recent environmental catastrophe south of Rangoon. This lethal mix will be assessed through the eyes of George Orwell whose visionary novels were all born of experiences in Burma.
2. The Aging of Montana
Larry Swanson, Ph.D., Director of the O'Connor Center for the Rocky Mountain West. Over the course of the next 20 years, the number of older Montanans will roughly double in size, while other age groups grow very little or decline. Montana's aging population has implications for trends in housing, health care, personal income, and labor force. Larry will outline these trends and explore their implications.
3. A Journalist's Perspective — Reporting on War
Clay Scott, Emmy Award Winning News Writer. We will look at some of the ethical and moral challenges journalists face while covering wars and conflicts. Why are some conflicts "news" while others are ignored? Is it possible to report on a war without taking sides? What ethical dilemmas do journalists face?
4. Failed National Park Proposals in Montana
William Wyckoff, Ph.D., MSU Professor. We'll explore all of the national parks proposed for Montana that never made it. Why did they fail? What were the benefits of the proposed parks and are they worth fighting for? The list includes Badlands National Park, Flathead National Park, and many more.
5. The Social Value of the TV Sitcom
Walter Metz, Ph.D., MSU Professor, Interim Department Head in Media and Theatre Arts. A discussion of his book on the 1960's sitcom, Bewitched, will cover the historical shifts in the television sitcom, including representations of race, gender and social class.
6. Dining With the Living, Dining With the Dead: Roman Banquets in the House and in the Cemetery
Regina Gee, Ph.D., MSU Professor. Our discussion will focus on Roman food, customs, and settings in two significant spaces, the house of a well-to-do Roman as exemplified by those found at Pompeii and the meal carried to and eaten at the tomb side of the beloved dead.
7. Living With Our Inconsistent Values
Marvin Granger, Former General Manager and Program Director, Yellowstone Public Radio. The Russian-born English philosopher Isaiah Berlin urges us to accept the fact that our basic values will not be consistent with one another. One could even say that trying to make our values consistent can lead us away from critical thought and toward ideology.
8. Engineers Without Borders at MSU: A Journey From Bozeman, MT to Khwisero, Kenya
Jordan McNaught, MSU Student, Vice-President of Engineers Without Borders @ MSU. Twenty five EWB members have traveled to Kenya on six separate trips and have installed five wells and two composting latrines. More than 2500 children in Khwisero now have access to clean drinking water and a better education as a result of these efforts to date.

9. To the Ends of the Earth: The Adventures of an Expedition Photographer
Gordon Wiltsie, Photographer. Based on his book, "To the Ends of the Earth," Gordon will talk about his expeditions around the world and share photos that have been featured in publications like National Geographic. He will discuss the transition from film to digital photography, and how this has affected the modern-day marketplace for anyone selling imagery.
10. Understanding Native Americans
11. All About Montana's Amazing Yogo Sapphires
Don Baide, Owner of The Gem Gallery. The hunting and history of Montana Yogo Sapphires is vast and varied. Learn about these captivating creatures of blue and why so many are in search of these beautiful treasures.
12. Get What You Want Out of Life!
John Brandt, Owner of the Brandt Group. John will help you acquire new skills to deal with stress in day-to-day interaction with others. No matter what your age or occupation, we will discuss how to get what you want during this

 Captivating Conversation

13. A Baseball Player Stuck in a Chamber of Commerce Job!
David Smith, President/CEO of the Bozeman Area Chamber of Commerce. David Smith is traveling around the country studying baseball stadiums in a research project related to economic development. He will share some of his experiences as a Baseball and Business hero.
14. Drug Abuse: What a Meth!
Dale Chamberlain, D.D.S. Does everyone who uses methamphetamines develop the dreaded "meth mouth"? At what age do people start using meth? Who uses meth and why? This discussion will examine the physiology and physical effects of meth.
15. God, Evolution, the Universe and Everything—Science, Scripture and an Astronaut's Perspective
Loren Acton, Ph.D., MSU Professor, retired Astronaut. Reconciling scriptural revelation with scientific knowledge and personal experience is a tough road to navigate. We'll discuss our own journeys with honesty and an appreciation for other views, in light of Michael Dowd's recent book, "Thank GOD for Evolution." No offering will be taken.
16. A Double WWAMI? Medical Education in Montana
Linda Hyman, Ph.D. WWAMI is Montana's medical school. Join me to learn about the program, how it works and the future of medical education in Montana.
17. Bridger Bowl: A Nonprofit Corner Stone of Local Recreation and the Bozeman Winter Economy
Doug Wales, Director of Marketing, Bridger Bowl. Join a discussion of Bridger Bowl's 53 year history as a private nonprofit community ski area. Get up-to-date news on this season's first expansion in 30 years. What is the value of Bridger Bowl to Bozeman and southwest Montana?
18. Photography—Its Role in Conservation
Daniel J. Cox, Outdoor Photographer. Daniel is an advisory board member with Polar Bears International. His photography is being used to help educate the public about how climate change affects polar bears. Join Daniel as he discusses his experiences in the high Arctic and his volunteer work with Polar Bears International.
19. Exploring the World's Rainforests for New Microbes and Their Products
Gary Strobel, Ph.D., MSU Professor in Plant Pathology. A dramatic increase in world health problems caused by certain cancers, drug resistant bacteria, parasitic protozoans, and fungi has caused alarm. An intensive search for more effective treatments is now underway. This conversation will deal with novel and interesting rainforest microbes, their biology, biochemistry and potential promise.
20. Here Today, Changed Tomorrow!
Chris Saunders, Assistant Director of the Bozeman Department of Planning and Community Development. Bozeman has seen dramatic change in the past 10 years. What will it be like in 20 years and how soon will it reach a population of 90,000? A new long-range plan for Bozeman is under development. Come discuss the trends and direction shaping the future of Bozeman.
21. Fly-fishing and the River God's Daughter: Fisheries Conservation in Mongolia
Betsy Gaines-Quammen, Director, The Tributary Fund. Join Betsy for a discussion on conservation and Buddhism in Northern Mongolia. Betsy has been working in the Eg-Uur Valley for five years. The Tributary Fund, has rebuilt a Buddhist monastery, developed the first environmental education school in Mongolia, and trained monks to be environmental spokespeople.

23. Photography—Its Role in Conservation
Daniel J. Cox, Outdoor Photographer. Daniel is an advisory board member with Polar Bears International. His photography is being used to help educate the public about how climate change affects polar bears. Join Daniel as he discusses his experiences in the high Arctic and his volunteer work with Polar Bears International.
24. Exploring the World's Rainforests for New Microbes and Their Products
Gary Strobel, Ph.D., MSU Professor in Plant Pathology. A dramatic increase in world health problems caused by certain cancers, drug resistant bacteria, parasitic protozoans, and fungi has caused alarm. An intensive search for more effective treatments is now underway. This conversation will deal with novel and interesting rainforest microbes, their biology, biochemistry and potential promise.
25. Here Today, Changed Tomorrow!
Chris Saunders, Assistant Director of the Bozeman Department of Planning and Community Development. Bozeman has seen dramatic change in the past 10 years. What will it be like in 20 years and how soon will it reach a population of 90,000? A new long-range plan for Bozeman is under development. Come discuss the trends and direction shaping the future of Bozeman.
26. Fly-fishing and the River God's Daughter: Fisheries Conservation in Mongolia
Betsy Gaines-Quammen, Director, The Tributary Fund. Join Betsy for a discussion on conservation and Buddhism in Northern Mongolia. Betsy has been working in the Eg-Uur Valley for five years. The Tributary Fund, has rebuilt a Buddhist monastery, developed the first environmental education school in Mongolia, and trained monks to be environmental spokespeople.

Mr. Bud Lilly
Mrs. Esther Lilly
13013 Frontage Rd.
Manhattan, MT 59741-8026

Dear Bud and Esther:

Greetings supporters of the Bud Lilly Trout Initiatives at the MSU Libraries.

As I have done each of the last two summers, I want to update you on the progress the MSU Libraries has made on its Bud Lilly Trout initiatives.

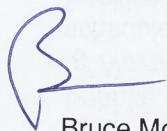

As I write this, the Trout & Salmonid collection stands just a few titles short of 7,300; it continues to steadily grow thanks to the availability of funds generated by the endowment. The collection has truly reached a point of critical mass that gives it (and MSU) status as a library collection of preeminence in the world of trout and salmonid literature.

Phase 2 of the Lilly Chair initiative is the establishment of an endowed annual lecture series. Although thus far we have made only partial progress toward our goal for the lecture series endowment, I am pleased to announce that the inaugural Bud Lilly lecture by Dr. Robert Behnke, professor emeritus at Colorado State University and author of Trout and Salmon of North America (2002) and Native Trout of Western North America (1992), is scheduled to be given at 7 PM on November 8, 2007 in the auditorium at the Museum of the Rockies on the MSU Campus. Please, mark this date on your calendars.

My other news is personal. After 22 years at the MSU Libraries, the last 14 as dean, I have decided to step down and do something a bit less "executive." My last day at the library will be June 30th. Next academic year, my time will be split between being associate director of the University Honors Program, including teaching a freshman seminar each semester, and working on a team in the provost's office preparing the university for its decennial accreditation in the Fall of 2009. Tamara Miller, our associate dean, has been named my successor for a term of three years. Kim Allen Scott, our special collections librarian, will take on the responsibility for continuing to build the Trout & Salmonid Collection. I am absolutely confident that there will be continuity of effort and commitment to bring the Bud Lilly collection, lecture series, and chair to fruition. President Gamble has asked me to assure you that this is not just an MSU Libraries commitment, but a Montana State University commitment.

We have made great progress over the last seven years; we shall continue to do so.

I am
Sincerely yours,

Bruce Morton

Dearest Bud -

Thank you so much for your help as we launched the lecture series. It certainly was a wonderful evening. Now, it is high time that we find some time to sit down and map out our next steps. I am only now becoming aware of all that I do not know about this important initiative. Patricia & I will be in touch - all the best -

Thank you for joining MSU Libraries for the Trout and Salmonid Lecture Series

Evening Program:

Welcome by Tamara Miller,
Dean of Libraries

Introduction by Dr. Robert Gresswell,
Research Biologist

Lecture by Dr. Robert Behnke

“Native Trout of the West: A Changing Perspective”

Please join us for a reception to follow in the lobby.

In 1952, Behnke was drafted into the U.S. Army and then served in Korea and Japan. Upon his return to the U.S., Behnke earned a bachelor's degree in zoology in 1957 from the University of Connecticut and then went to the University of California-Berkeley, where he earned a master's degree in zoology. His Ph.D. was also from the University of California-Berkeley, where his thesis focused on trout of the Great Basins.

After graduate school, Behnke spent 10 months researching salmonids in the Soviet Union and learning Russian, then moved to Fort Collins, Colorado, in 1966. He recently retired as a professor at Colorado State University, where he taught fisheries, aquatic biology and conservation courses.

Dr. Behnke's books, "About Trout: The Best of Robert J. Behnke from Trout Magazine" and "Trout and Salmon of North America," will be available for purchase in the lobby during the reception.

Bob Gresswell has been studying habitat relationships and population dynamics of cutthroat trout for more than 30 years. He is currently a research biologist with the USGS Northern Rocky Mountain Science Center in Bozeman, Montana, and he is an affiliate assistant professor in the Department of Ecology at Montana State University and an adjunct assistant professor with the Department of Watershed Sciences at Utah State University. His interests concerning the influence of land-use activities on forested ecosystems have led to research on the relationships among landscape-scale environmental features, instream habitat characteristics, and coastal cutthroat trout abundance and distribution in watersheds in western Oregon. Bob became involved with research on the effects of fire while working in Yellowstone National Park, and his current research reflects a continued interest in the role of disturbance in shaping the aquatic systems.
