The Trout Shop's Of FISHal FISHGUIDE

YELLOWSTONE LAKE: YC. METHODS: Bait, lures, flies, trolling. HOW & WHERE: Famed Fishing Bridge needs no description. Spinning or fly casting from shore may reward you with rare Yellowstone cutthroat, averaging 14". Specimens up to 20" not uncommon. Trolling: rent a boat or bring your own (obtain free permit from Park ranger). Boats under 16' long must stay within 1/4 mile of shore - storms, violent but usually brief, are common.

YELLOWSTONE RIVER: YC. METHODS: Bait, lures, flies - latter provide best results. HOW & WHERE: This is a trout fisherman's river in every sense. Try to be on hand for copious fly hatches, usually short but fairly frequent. When fish aren't rising, try Yellowstone Woolly Worm wet fly. Area near Dragon's Mouth recommended.

SHOSHONE LAKE: EB / B / L. METHODS: Trolling, bait, spinning, flies. HOW & WHERE: You can hike to Shoshone Lake, or reach it easier by launching your own boat in Lewis Lake (2 1/2 mi. south, not shown on map), then boating up Moose River, which links the 2 lakes. Trolling big spinners and flatfish sometimes effective in Shoshone. Fly fishermen: the mouth of Moose River as it enters Lewis Lake is often good. Immense mackinaw sometimes taken from Lewis. Explore, experiment on both lakes.

COUGAR CREEK: EB / R / B / RW. METHODS: Bait, flies. HOW & WHERE: This small stream isn't easy to fish, due to brush, snags and occasional moose, but provides fine sport, particularly to worm fishermen. About 6 mi. north of The Trout Shop, turn off Rt. 191. Small winding dirt roads will show you the stream.

DUCK CREEK: R / B / RW. METHODS: Primarily a fly stream, but deft lure lovers may score by fishing upstream on long casts, generously donating lures to roots, snags. HOW & WHERE: Early season: fish stream west of Rt. 191. Hike downstream to juncture of Duck, Cougar Creeks. Fish your way back. Lunger-class browns find Duck ideal spawning grounds, may stay and set up housekeeping. Upstream fishing provides challenges, frustrations, occasional big fish.

GRAYLING CREEK: R / C / G / RW. METHODS: Bait, lures, flies. HOW & WHERE: Downstream from Hebgen Lake northshore road the creek makes continuous bends with some deep pools. Early season spin and bait fishing suggested. Upstream from same road, stream borders colorful Parade Rest guest ranch. Further north, Rt. 191 parallels stream, sometimes good fly fishing here. Very few grayling, for which this stream was named, remain.

GALLATIN RIVER: R / B / C / RW. METHODS: Bait, lures, flies. HOW & WHERE: Paralleling Rt. 191 for several miles within the Park, this is a small stream. Continuing north on 191, you'll have this handsome water within a stone's throw for 40 miles. Tributary streams add to its flow to form a clear, quick, moderate-sized river. A great dry fly stream. Average size of rainbows: 8 - 14", occasional lunkers. Famous guest ranches, well-kept campgrounds down Gallatin canyon.

HEBGEN LAKE: R / B / RW. METHODS: Trolling, bait, lures, flies. HOW & WHERE: Trollers may rent boats at spots shown on map. Local trolling favorites: pop gear, flatfish. Bait and lure fishermen: try shore casting anywhere along northshore, also Mormon Point, Rainbow Point, both old reliables. Fly fishermen: casting to rising fish with size 14 - 18 dry flies often brings in bragging-size browns and rainbows. In late summer, schools of trout can often be seen surface feeding along Madison Arm, the Narrows, and elsewhere within fly casting distance off shore.

SOUTH FORK: R / B / EB / RW. METHODS: This cold, gin-clear stream is a fly fisherman's dream, but worm fans do alright, too. Only 1st-class spin fishermen can toss hardware here, because of brush, succession of hairpin curves. HOW & WHERE: Entire length of stream usually heavily stocked with 6 - 10" rainbows in spring. Lower stretches often harbor huge browns and rainbows, moving up from Hebgen Lake. Fine gravel bottom attracts spawners. Favorite wet flies: Muddler Minnow, Woolly Worms. Dry flies: Goofus, Adams, Renegade.

LOWER MADISON: R / B / C / G / RW. METHODS: One of the world's great fly streams. Bait, lures also effective. Rocks will take their toll of lures. HOW & WHERE: This fabled stream is a succession of hot fishing spots from Quake Lake to Ennis Lake, 60 miles further downstream. Fast moving water, slippery rocks, tricky wading. Dry flies tied to float in fast, rough water are terrific: see us for recommended patterns. Fish wet flies deep. Spin fishermen: try Daredevils, wobblers, Mepps-type lures. A famous stream for many reasons. Annually produces 6" to 6# trout. The West Fork, a small tributary, is off-again, on-again, but offers fine fishing when it's on.

CLIFF AND WADE LAKES: R / B / L. METHODS: Worms, lures - often fine fly fishing. HOW & WHERE: Boats for rent on both of these nearby lakes. Monster trout in the 10-20 lb. class are taken from Wade often enough to make you nervous. Cliff Lake trout known as North American piranha. Fishermen advised to wear bite-proof waders, carry heavy defense weapons.

HIDDEN LAKE: Brilliant rainbows only, averaging 2 lbs. METHODS: Worms fished deep, dry flies when trout are surface feeding. HOW & WHERE: To reach this small, deep lake you must drive to Elk Lake Resort or Neely's Ranch. At Elk Lake Resort, you'll pay for boat, car transportation to Hidden. At Neely's, you'll rent horses, or hire boat transportation across Cliff Lake, hike 2 remaining miles. Best fishing on Hidden usually early a.m. and just before sundown.

ELK LAKE: R / C / L / G. METHODS: Trolling, also shore fishing with lures, bait, flies. Very deep in spots, reputed to harbor sea-monster-size mackinaw trout.

HENRY'S LAKE: EB / R / C. METHODS: Trolling good from opening day until around July 1, after which heavy aquatic grass is a problem. Lures, bait good thruout season. Once they learn the house rules, wet fly fishermen will catch lunkers. Brook trout, 3 lbs. and up, are plentiful. 4 to 15 lb. rainbow and hybrid cutthroat caught regularly.

QUAKE LAKE: R / B / C / RW. METHODS: Bait, lures, flies. HOW & WHERE: The Madison River between Hebgen Dam and Quake Lake is often excellent fishing - trout feed here. Fish Quake Lake itself where Beaver and other creeks enter, constantly pouring food into the lake. Exploring the shoreline often pays off. The lake was born August 17, 1959, when an earthquake toppled a mountain top into Madison Canyon, damming the river. Heavy equipment cut a channel thru the slide area, allowing the Madison to flow once again, but the lake remains for several miles above the slide (an attraction every visitor should see).

For years now, writers in FIELD & STREAM, OUTDOOR LIFE and SPORTS AFIELD have been bragging so loud about the terrific fishing hereabouts, it's sort of inspired the fish, given them something to live up to. And around this neck of the woods, The Trout Shop is generally recognized as official fishing headquarters. In fact, FISH KNOW if you've been here first, and if you haven't they're likely to fin their noses at you.

So first thing to do when you arrive in West Yellowstone is visit The Trout Shop. Get your license (no license required in Park), get free current fishing regulations, swap lies, etc. NOTE: I will listen to all your fish stories with a straight face. No other tackle shop can make this claim. I promise not to pressure you into buying a single doggone thing. You're welcome if all you want is free directions, advice, or to escape from a charging moose. (No moose can charge in the Trout Shop, and neither can you. Cash only.)

BUT if you want something, need something - I've got it. Everything from rods, reels and waders to flies and lures with built-in sex appeal for trout hereabouts.

WARNING: Fishermen find that flies, lures and gear that never miss in California, Texas and other foreign lands often aren't worth a ¢ here.

Fish giggle & sneer at 'em. Our big voting-age fish just don't get that way without picking up a liberal education en route. Local lunkers retch at gunk that innocent itty bitty trout gobble. This makes sense: would you come out from behind a rock for a bowl of baby food? So if you haven't got a complete outfit, your best bet is to HOLD EVERYTHING, WAIT until you get to The Trout Shop, let me fix you up with flies, leaders, stuff made especially for this area that you'll need to bring back the big ones.

If you're interested in guide service, I'm available. I can personally escort you to some unusual fishing adventures not covered on my fishmap - but write or phone well in advance. Good luck and good fishing!

Our custom-made Fishmap shows principal waters within a 50 mile radius of The Trout Shop. Fishletters on the map correspond to descriptions below, and mark some of our favorite fishing spots. Scores of others exist. If any route isn't completely clear, come in to The Trout Shop and ask us—we'll even tell you names of all the gopher holes along the way. In our brief words below, we're hitting only the highlights. Come in and sit a spell and we'll be happy to elaborate. Good fishing!

- R Rainbow trout (Salmo gairdneri)
- B Brown trout (Salmo trutta)
- C Cutthroat trout (Salmo clarkii clarkii)
- YC Yellowstone cutthroat (Salmo clarkii lewisii)
- EB Eastern Brook trout (Salvelinus fontinalis)
- L Lake trout (Cristivomer namaycush)
- G Montana grayling (Thymallus signifer)
- RW Rocky Mt. Whitefish (Prosopium williamsoni)

A UPPER MADISON: R / B / C / RW. METHODS: Fly fishing only in Park. Below Park: anything goes except eggs, minnows. HOW & WHERE: From Park boundary downstream to Hebgen Lake usually produces well early and late season. Try big streamers, large nymphs. More hot spots further upstream: explore and experiment. Brown trout up to 8 lbs. often take here. Upper Madison is entirely different from rough, rugged lower Madison. River here moves slowly—long flat glides, tricky eddies, easy wading, well-defined pools. Starting with May Fly hatch in early June, dry fly men have a ball. Try to match the hatch, cast to slurping trout. Yellowstone Woolly Worm and bucktails a must for all wet fly addicts.

B FIREHOLE RIVER: R / C / B. METHODS: Fly fishing only legal here. HOW & WHEN: Fish primarily with dry flies, nymphs. Best times: June, early July, September, October. Brown trout, up to 24", are real challenge here. This famous stream makes champions out of duffers one day, duffers from champs the next. Read chapters 8, 9 of TROUT by Ray Bergman for more on this great stream.

G GIBBON RIVER: R / C / B. METHODS: Fly fishing only below Gibbon Falls. Above Falls: anything. HOW & WHERE: Fine fish water from Madison Junction upstream to where river parallels highway. Some large browns under cut banks. Trout here are smart, water clear, small flies good.

HENRY'S FORK

E. doddsi male dun. Photo on Henry's Fork by talented photographer Fred Arbona Jr.

From its outlet at Island Park Dam, downstream to Upper Mesa Falls, the Henry's Fork of the Snake River is restricted to barbless artificial lures. In this section three trout may be kept. In this limit, one trout must be 20" or longer and two must be 12" or under.

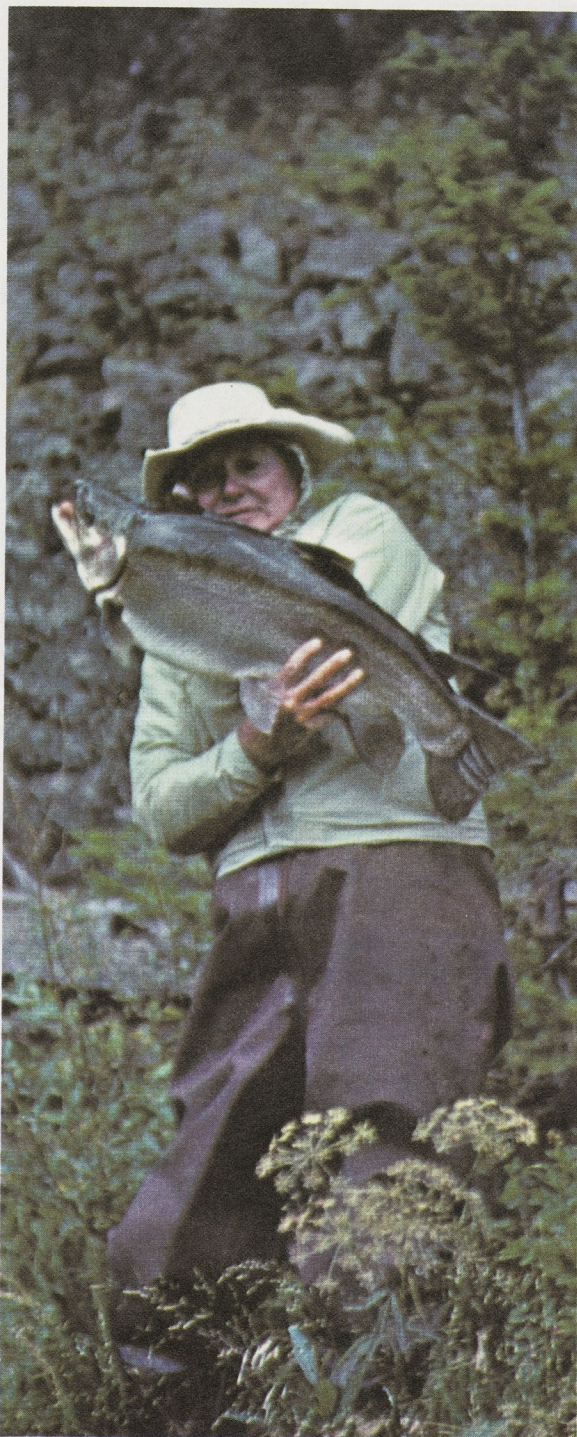

A stretch of the Henry's Fork courses through Harriman State Park. This portion, known as the "Ranch" waters, produces incredible hatches and many fine trout. A Green Drake hatch occurs about June 20 and persists for several weeks.

The Henry's Fork is formed by a spring that produces a full blown river. The "Big Springs" of the Henry's Fork is a sanctuary for big rainbows and is closed to fishing. Downstream from the sanctuary the river is alternately a big meadow river and rushing, rocky stream through canyons.

The meadow sections of the river provide classic dry fly or nymph fishing from early June to October. The Canyon runs have their Salmon fly hatches in late May and early June. Huge rainbow rise to large dry fly imitators.

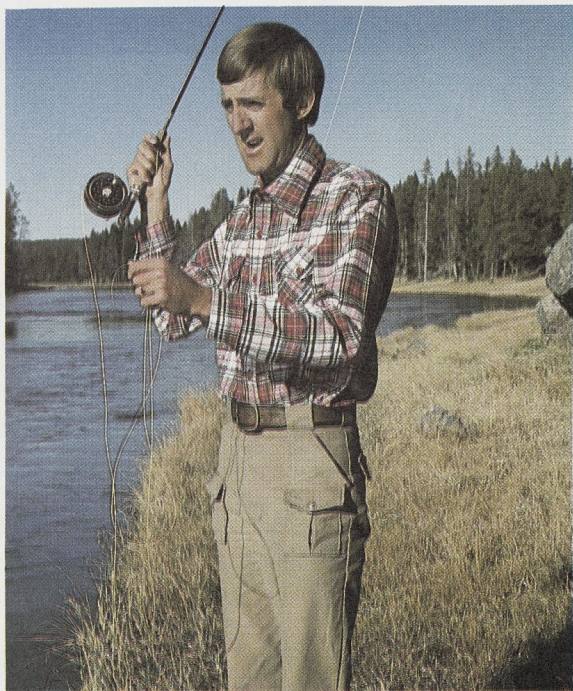

Hatches on the meadow sections are very heavy, often small flies and selective rainbows. Nymph fishing here is also extremely good, but challenging at times. Trout population is heavy.

Canyon waters seem to harbor large fish. Prior to and following salmon fly hatches, large nymphs fished deep on a sinking fly line account for good sized trout. Rainbows to 15 pounds have been caught.

FLY FISHING INSTRUCTION

With many years experience teaching anglers to fly fish, we know how to teach for positive learning. This is best accomplished on a tutor-pupil basis. Individual attention is the key.

Register for tutoring any time you wish. Instruction is conducted for your convenience.

FIRST DAY

Fundamentals of fly fishing tackle and essential knots. Mechanics of casting, on lake and stream.

SECOND DAY

Student will proceed to the stream. Instruction will include streamside entomology, how to wade safely, how to present the fly to feeding trout.

Student anglers will be instructed individually in casting the fly and the techniques of dry fly, nymph and streamer fishing.

THIRD DAY — Optional

After two days of intensive instruction you are ready to go on the stream and fish. You can do so on your own or take a guide for additional help and direction.

Instruction, tackle to use, lunches, transportation and a fishing license are all included in the instruction fee.

Two days basic instruction $140.00

Two days instruction and a day with a guide . . . $200.00

NOTE: Tuition fees are based on a minimum of two students. Prices quoted for individual instruction.

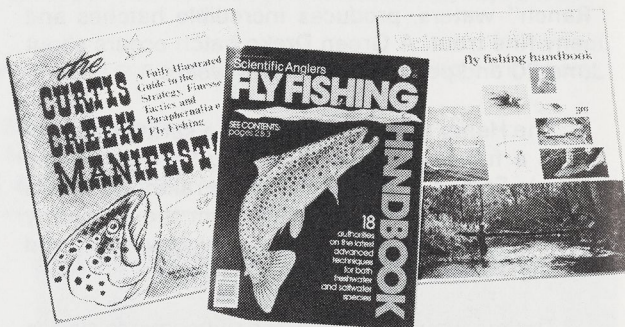

LADIES ONLY INSTRUCTION

For several years now Bonnie Lilly and Annette Schaplow have given on-the-stream instruction exclusively for women. This year Lynn Corcoran will join them as an instructor.

This is individual one-student-per-teacher instruction. You will get a full day of fly fishing fundamentals along with your instructor on the stream.

We provide tackle if needed, waders, lunch, and instruction. $70.00 per day

1981 Bud Lilly Reports

WESTERN TROUT FISHING

Plans have been proposed to move the permanent headquarters for the Federation of Fly Fishermen to West Yellowstone, Montana. The American Museum of Fly Fishing is considering the possibility of a museum at West Yellowstone.

The Montana Council of Trout Unlimited and Foundation for Montana Trout are constantly at work to preserve and improve trout fishing.

All of these efforts require membership support and funds. Write us for information. We will send details for membership applications and contributions.

1980 was a banner year again on streams in Yellowstone Park, Montana and Idaho. Special regulations along with good stream flows accounted for the outstanding angler success.

The Madison River in Montana, in its second season of special regulations, showed the most dramatic improvement. That section designated catch and release, lures only, produced greater numbers and larger trout than previous years. That part of the river with drastically reduced size and bag limits was very productive also, but may need some changes to keep larger fish in the river.

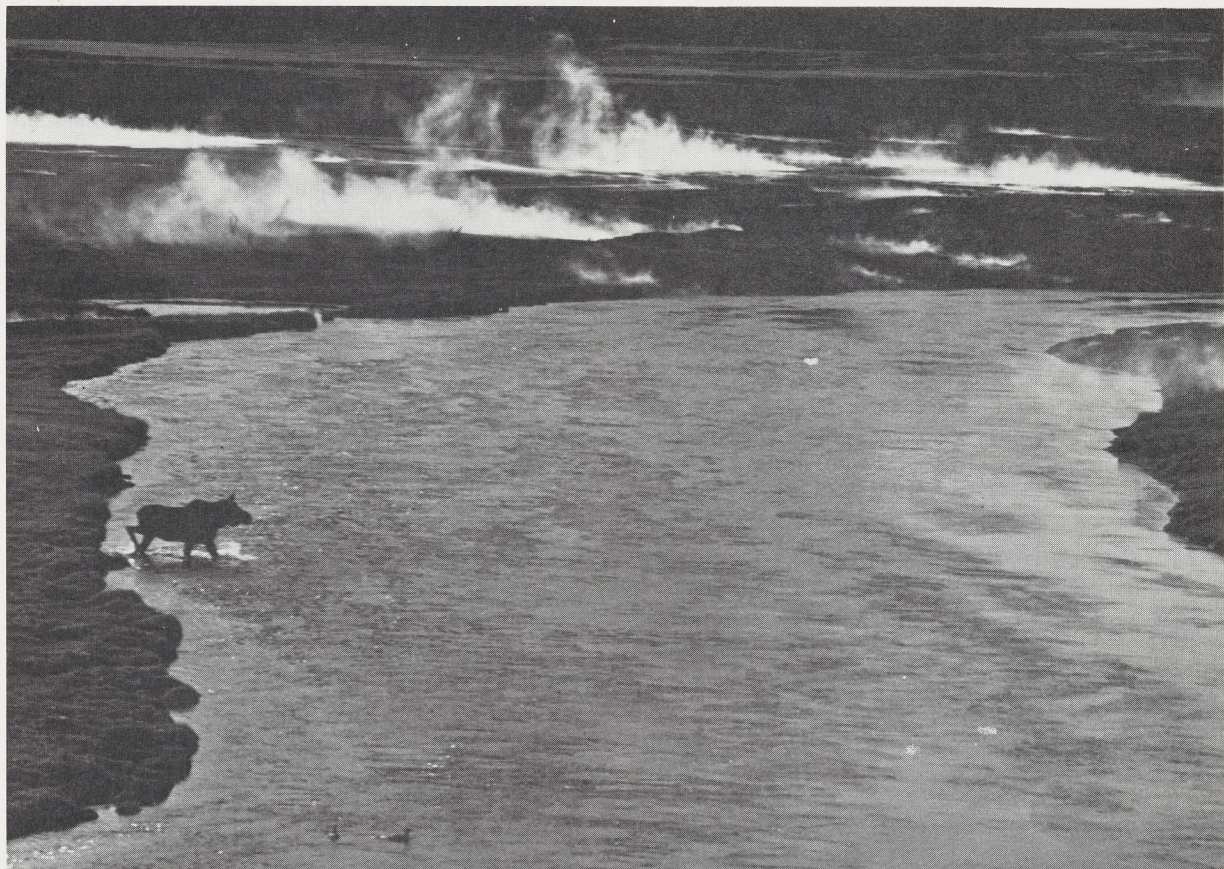

The tentative fishing regulations in 1981 for Montana streams are asking that this program be continued on the Madison and extended to the Gallatin and Big Hole rivers.

Yellowstone Park continues to include more and more water in catch and release regulations. The grayling and cutthroat have responded extremely well to this policy. The brown and rainbow trout are not presently included in this regulation.

The Henry's Fork of the Snake River in Idaho was threatened by extremely low stream flows during repairs of Island Park Reservoir. However, with a history of special regulations, this river again demonstrated its vitality to quickly recover to almost its old self again.

Catch and release, restrictive size and number of trout kept, lures only, and good clean water with normal stream flows will help all of our trout waters to thrive. Your support of these management practices will help too.

FIREHOLE

The Firehole River is one of the great "Total Experience" rivers of the West. This small river, by western standards, is fly fishing only. The Firehole headwaters near the famous Old Faithful geyser in Yellowstone National Park.

Rarely will you fish the Firehole without seeing elk, buffalo or other wildlife. The influence of warm geyser water in the river produces fabulous insect hatches.

Rainbow and brown trout from 10 to 16 inches are found in the greatest numbers. Two trout over 16" may be kept. This river does not produce many large trout, but has a good number 16-20 inches.

Wading is not difficult in this river. The trout are abundant but not easy to catch. Best fishing is late May and June, then again from late August until the season closes October 31. During these periods there will be good mayfly and caddis-fly hatches. Trout will also feed on grasshoppers and other terrestrials.

The Hiker's Guide To Montana by Bill Schneider

For the hiker, Montana offers tremendous diversity - snow-capped crags and austere divides to gentle forested swales to semi-arid prairie peaks to cedar forests. There are famous hiking areas such as Glacier National Park, the Beartooth Plateau, and the Mission Mountains. But even more significant are the dozens of hidden, almost-unknown mountain ranges with outstanding scenery, fishing, climbing, and other rewards.

The Hiker's Guide to Montana covers both the well-known and the uncelebrated mountain ranges. In this handy guidebook, twenty-four veteran Montana hikers offer their experiences and advice on hiking some of their favorite trails.

The eighty hikes included represent almost all of Montana's finest hiking areas. Some of the hikes are short day trips and overnights appealing to families while others are week-long expeditions more suitable for the rugged and experienced hiker. BUD LILLY'S CATCH AND RELEASE CLUB

MORE WESTERN WATERS CATCH and RELEASE FISHING

Releasing a hooked trout unharmed to be caught again is good conservation and a special thrill.

Western angling is a total experience of wild trout, wild flowers and wildlife in wild country. "Catch and Release" enhances this experience.

Catch and release fishing continues to be extended on streams and lakes in Yellowstone Park to protect the wild, black spotted cutthroat trout. Grayling is fully protected as none may be kept.

Montana designated "Catch and Release" on twenty miles of the Madison River from the outlet at Earthquake Lake to MacAttee Bridge. Fishing with artificial lures only. Additional Montana streams are being considered.

Changing environment with increasing numbers of anglers dictates a stronger program to preserve our "Western Angling, a Total Experience."

ABOUT OUR FLIES and CUSTOM FLY TIERS

Again this year we offer exquisite flies custom tied for us by the most talented tiers in the west. All of these people live in the west or spend considerable time fishing western waters. Of course, fly patterns are universal and catch trout wherever they are found in the world.

We add new patterns to our offering after they prove to be effective, consistent producers. In addition to those shown on this page you will find others in the following pages of this handbook.

Although all of the flies we offer are not custom tied, the standard patterns are of the highest quality to be found.

You can expect to meet our famous custom fly tiers at our shop. They each will take a few hours to demonstrate their skills for you. You will recognize them from reading about their original patterns, new techniques and new tying materials in angling literature.

Steelhead in the Pacific Northwest, Canada and Alaska are often found in many streams with other trout. We are adding flies to our handbook that have done well for us and our friends for steelhead. Many of the dry flies, nymphs and streamers so effective for western trout are equally as good for steelhead too.

Our custom tiers are available to tie any pattern to your specifications.

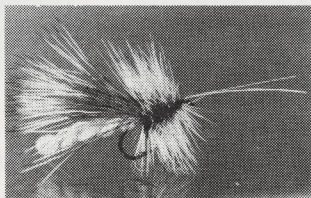

When ordering flies you may take a discount on flies by the dozen. One size and pattern only in each dozen. $50.00 order or more, less 5%. $100.00 order or more, less 10%.

GIANT FLUTTERING STONE

There are periods late in a "salmon fly" hatch when trout become selective. The fluttering stone will often take those finicky trout.

Sizes 4 & 6 $1.25 ea.

FLUTTERING YELLOW STONE

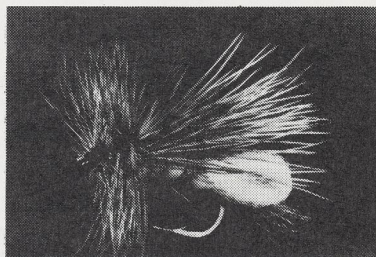

Trout often become selective to the smaller yellow stonefly adults which follow the larger "salmon flies." This pattern will do the job.

Sizes 6-10 $1.25

 Sizes 14-18 $1.00

ELK HAIR HOPPER

This grasshopper fly must take a place with other fine imitation grasshoppers. Elk hair wing and "polypro" body provide excellent flotation and visibility.

Sizes 2-4-6 $1.25 ea.

WOOLY BUGGER

A newly discovered "older" pattern. The woolly bugger is a very versatile fly, imitating stone fly nymphs, small minnows, or leeches, all effectively.

Sizes 2 & 4 $1.00

HUMPED CADDIS LARVA

Latex and weight added with fuse wire makes the body. Subtle coloring is achieved by marking pen. Configuration and small size is important to match caddis larva commonly fed on by trout. Tied by Michael Delaney.

Green — sizes 16, 18, 20 $1.00
 Gray — sizes 16, 18, 20 $1.00

DRY FLIES

Western rivers and western trout have moved anglers to create dry flies that are great floaters in fast water. Time proven standard patterns have their purpose, but the "floaters" can be good medicine.

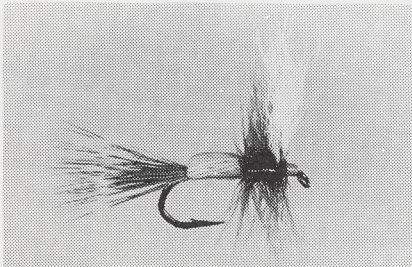

Hair Wing Variant — Known by several names, House and Lot, Ike's Fly, it is a favorite with our guides. Easy to float, easy to see and catches trout. Size 14, 16 $1.20

Wulff Dry Flies — Originated by Lee Wulff, these flies are devastating on the swift, boulder strewn rivers of the mountains in the west.

STREAMERS

Large streamers fished deep and with the proper action will move trout when other methods produce nothing. For those that find the thrill of the strike, and a struggling unseen trout exciting, try streamers.

MUDDLER MINNOW

This fly can be fished as a dry fly to simulate stone flies and grasshoppers. Fished as a wet fly or streamer, it is unsurpassed in attracting trout.

Size 2-4-6-8-10-12 $1.20
Size 2-4-6 Weighted $1.25

The White Muddler (Mizoolian Spook) and the Yellow Muddler are two fine variations on the original.

Mizoolian Spook Size 2-4-6 $1.20
Yellow Muddler Size 8-10-12 $1.20

Muddler Minnow Marabou

The marriage of two streamer patterns resulted in these flies. There are times when they outshine their parents.

SPRUCE FLY

Dark size 2-4-6 $1.20

POTT'S HAIR HACKLE FLIES

Vari-Color Marabou Muddler

Marabou feathers impart an action to a streamer fly that is deadly for big fish. Al Nelson taught this to me almost twenty years ago. I have since caught and released some very large trout with marabou streamers. A slow pumping action as the fly sinks and swings works well for me in attracting big trout.

Vari-Color #1 Combination of brown, orange, yellow and white marabou with peacock herl median line, silver mylar body, weighted.

Vari-Color #2 Same fly except combination of olive, yellow and white marabou, weighted.

Vari-Color #3 Same fly except combination of black, white and gray marabou, weighted.

STONE FLIES — "SALMON" FLIES

Salmon Fly or more properly, a variety of the Stone Fly, is the "bug" that excites big trout on western rivers. These large stone flies emerge as adults on rivers in the west from May through the first days of August.

The Henry's Fork, Clark's Fork, Rock Creek experience these large stone fly hatches the latter part of May and into June. These streams are followed in succession by the Big Hole, Madison, Blackfoot and Yellowstone rivers.

The time of emergence is fairly predictable on each river, but will vary a week with high water, cold winds and cold water. This is a progressive hatch, moving up river each day.

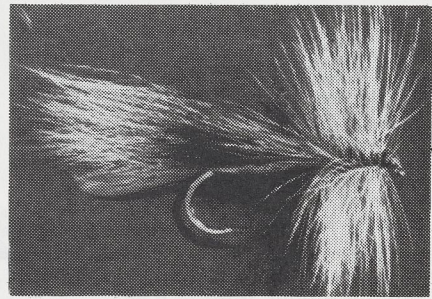

NEW

BIRD'S STONE FLY

A superior version of an old pattern. Our tier "Benjie" puts on the elk hair wing with a flair that closely imitates the natural. Size 2, 4, 6 $1.25

SOFA PILLOW

A squirrel tail dry fly that floats high. Trout pounce on this imitation, when they are madly grabbing "salmon flies," as they hit the water. Also does well for trout feeding on grasshoppers or other sizeable insects.

WIGGLE NYMPH

BROWNSTONE

A woven body nymph with an effective blend of brown and gray shades. Best size 8-10-12 $1.15

SOUFAL NYMPH

Spring Creeks and Meadow River Flies

Some of the finest smooth water fishing in the world is found on streams in the West, but trout can be just as selective as anywhere in the world, too.

Martinez Mayfly Nymph

Don Martinez was a creative fly tyer and contributed a great deal to fly fishing. He operated a tackle shop at West Yellowstone in the late 30's and early 40's. His black Mayfly Nymph continues to be a truly fine producer.

Letort Hopper

A grasshopper fly for spooky trout in very clear, smooth water. Also does well as a caddis fly. Deer hair wing and head for excellent floatability.

Size 10-12-14 $1.10

Black Beetle

Black deer hair tied down for head, body and legs. The beetle is now an important pattern on western meadow streams.

Size 14-16-18 $1.10

GRASSHOPPER SEASON

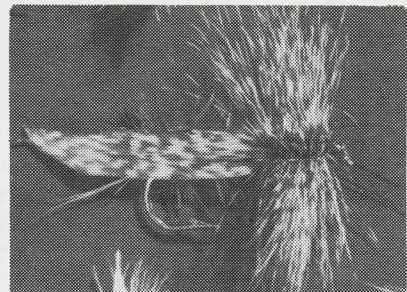

Trout feed on grasshoppers whenever they can get them. The Madison River, from its source in Yellowstone Park and into Montana, is famous for other hatches, but trout feed on "hoppers" mid-July until early October in this river.

Don't overlook the grasshopper feeding period on any of the great western rivers.

Gartside Pheasant Hopper

With mottled turkey wings in short supply Jack Gartside answered the problem with pheasant. A better, more natural hopper was the result. The pheasant feathers are more durable for wings. This fly pattern is an important development for fly tyers. Size 8-10-12..... $1.60

JOE'S GRASSHOPPER

The best general fly yet tied for a grasshopper. Other patterns may surpass it at times, but throughout the west it is consistent on big rivers or little creeks.

Size 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14 $1.10

PHILO FLY

by Jack Gartside

This fly defies classification as it does not imitate or simulate anything in particular. Tied with pheasant feathers, it has that special "buggy" color and action.

Caddis Flies

Goddard Caddis

A clipped deer hair body makes this one of the best floating, and most durable caddis patterns.

Flies for Lakes

FRESHWATER SHRIMP NYMPHS

Let me tip you that these nymphs in smaller sizes, 14 and 16 are also extremely good in meadow streams. In lakes and ponds of medium depth and water temperature shrimp are responsible for developing large, fat young trout, so flies in size 10 and 12 do best.

Deep Olive size 10-12-14-16.....	$1.10
Bark Brown size 10-12-14-16.....	$1.10

AMERICAN SOWBUG

Another stream and lake bug. We tie it weighted and fish it deaddrift on a floating fly line for streams. A fast sinking tip fly line in lakes is best. Vary the retrieve to get the proper action for conditions at a particular time.

Best sizes 12-14-16.....	$1.10

DAMSEL FLIES

Henry's Lake in Idaho is no doubt most famous for the damsel fly. From mid-July on, the fat trout gorge on these flies. Sinking lines and the proper retrieve will bring on furious action.

Green Damsel weighted sizes 8-10.....	$1.10
Brown Damsel weighted size 8-10.....	$1.10

LEECH

The large brown leech is a food source in many, many ponds and lakes. Size 6 - 8.....

HI-VIZ LEADERS

Visibility has become very crucial to anglers as more sophisticated techniques are employed to fool the trout. Hi-Viz Leaders have a hot yellow flat butt with a clear tippet. The combination of flat butt and a suppleizing process means positive turnover and layout on the water. Leader comes with two colorless tippets.
 Length 9' — 3x, 4x, 5x $1.35 ea.

444 "TWIN-TIP" TAPERED LEADERS

Great new idea in tapered nylon fly leaders! "Twin-Tip" combines the best features of a stiff tapered nylon butt section and "soft" nylon-tapered tippet section. The 5½' tapered hard nylon butt section provides the body to "turn over" the leader, while the 4½' tapered soft nylon material in the tippet section permits delicate presentation of the fly to the water. Packaged with one butt section and two identical tippet sections in zip-lip polyethylene "leader keeper" bag. Replacement tippet sections are available 3 to a package.

- 444 Twin-Tip Leaders, 1x thru 6x $1.10 pkg.
- 444 Twin-Tip Tapered Tippets, Only (3),
 1 x thru 8x $1.10 pkg.

BERKLEY SPECIALIST FLAT BUTT LEADERS

GET THE LEAD OUT

Many anglers hesitate to add weight to fly or leader. During those difficult times in early season when streams are high and discolored or fall when trout are feeding deep, getting the fly down will produce results.

We've put together a selection of weights that Bud Lilly's guides rely on to get the fly into the feeding zone of trout.

LEAD WIRE

Lead wire may be wrapped on the leader or put on the fly body as ribbing. About a 3 inch strip on large flies will sink it to the bottom, where those large trout lurk.

0.040 Dia. $.65/Spl.
0.020 Dia. $.65/Spl.

TWISTONS

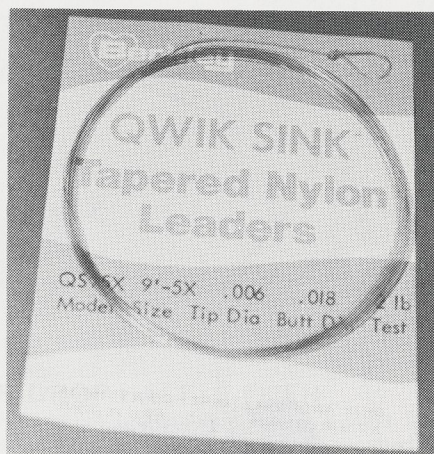

Strips of match size lead to wrap on leader. Strips may be spun on leader at several intervals. $.35/Book

REMOVABLE SPLIT SHOT

Easily removed and reusable. The number of shot used can be adjusted until the proper depth is acquired.

Small Size B
Med. Size BB
Large Size 3/0 $.65/Bag

SUGGESTION — Don't try to cast weighted flies and leaders in the conventional manner. Lay line, leader and fly on the water on the backcast, then using the drag of the water on the forward cast lob the heavy fly and leader.

Sinking the Leader

River Float Fishing

Our professional guides can take you in river float boats or you can do it with your boat or raft. For more information on guided trips see page 65.

Should you float on your own be sure to familiarize yourself with possible hazards. Learn rules of courtesy to other boats and to wading anglers.

Some anglers object to boats on a river or complain of too many boats. There are short periods on some rivers when boats are numerous and will be regulated. We often take clients on river float fishing trips and see only an occasional boat or wading fisherman.

Floating is a pleasant means to fishing big, fast moving western rivers.

THE FLOATER'S GUIDE TO MONTANA

by Hank Fischer

This book offers basic information for floating 26 major streams, including access points, river difficulty, hazards, and typical water conditions. In addition, it provides tips on where to look for wildlife, bits of history and legend, and important information for conservation-minded floaters.

The Trout Shop's Of FISHal FISHGUIDE

YELLOWSTONE LAKE: YC. METHODS: Lures, flies, trolling. HOW & WHERE: Famed Fishing Bridge needs no description. Spinning or fly casting from shore may reward you with rare Yellowstone cutthroat, averaging 14". Specimens up to 20" not uncommon. Trolling: rent a boat or bring your own (obtain free permit from Park ranger). Boats under 16' long must stay within 1/4 mile of shore — storms, violent but usually brief, are common.

YELLOWSTONE RIVER: YC. METHODS: Lures, flies — latter provide best results. HOW & WHERE: This is a trout fisherman's river in every sense. Try to be on hand for copious fly hatches, usually short but fairly frequent. When fish aren't rising, try Yellowstone Woolly Worm wet fly. Area near Dragon's Mouth recommended.

SHOSHONE LAKE: EB / B / L. METHODS: Trolling, spinning, flies. HOW & WHERE: You can hike to Shoshone Lake, or reach it easier by launching your own boat in Lewis Lake (2 1/2 mi. south, not shown on map), then boating up Moose River, which links the 2 lakes. Trolling big spinners and flatfish sometimes effective in Shoshone. Fly fishermen: the mouth of Moose River as it enters Lewis Lake is often good. Immense mackinaw sometimes taken from Lewis. Explore, experiment on both lakes.

COUGAR CREEK: EB / R / B / RW. METHODS: Bait, flies. HOW & WHERE: This small stream isn't easy to fish, due to brush, snags and occasional moose, but provides fine sport, particularly to worm fishermen. About 6 mi. north of The Trout Shop, turn off Rt. 191. Small winding dirt roads will show you the stream.

DUCK CREEK: R / B / RW. METHODS: Primarily a fly stream, but deft lure lovers may score by fishing upstream on long casts, generously donating lures to roots, snags. HOW & WHERE: Early season: fish stream west of Rt. 191. Hike downstream to juncture of Duck, Cougar Creeks. Fish your way back. Lunger-class browns find Duck ideal spawning grounds, may stay and set up housekeeping. Upstream fishing provides challenges, frustrations, occasional big fish.

GRAYLING CREEK: R / C / G / RW. METHODS: Bait, lures, flies. HOW & WHERE: Downstream from Hebgen Lake northshore road the creek makes continuous bends with some deep pools. Early season spin and bait fishing suggested. Further north, Rt. 191 parallels stream, some-times good fly fishing here. Very few grayling, for which this stream was named, remain.

GALLATIN RIVER: R / B / C / RW. METHODS: Bait, lures, flies. HOW & WHERE: Paralleling Rt. 191 for several miles within the Park, this is a small stream. Continuing north on 191, you'll have this handsome water within a stone's throw for 40 miles. Tributary streams add to its flow to form a clear, quick, moderate-sized river. A great dry fly stream. Average size of rainbows: 8 - 14", occasional lunkers. Famous guest ranches, well-kept campgrounds down Gallatin canyon.

HEBGEN LAKE: R / B / RW. METHODS: Trolling, bait, lures, flies. HOW & WHERE: Trollers may rent boats at spots shown on map. Local trolling favorites: pop gear, flat-fish. Bait and lure fishermen: try shore casting anywhere along northshore, also Mormon Point, Rainbow Point, both old reliables. Fly fishermen: casting to rising fish with size 14 - 18 dry flies often brings in bragging-size browns and rainbows. In late summer, schools of trout can often be seen surface feeding along Madison Arm, the Narrows, and elsewhere within fly casting distance off shore.

SOUTH FORK: R / B / EB / RW. METHODS: This cold, gin-clear stream is a fly fisherman's dream, but worm fans do alright, too. Only 1st-class spin fishermen can toss hardware here, because of brush, succession of hairpin curves. HOW & WHERE: Entire length of stream usually heavily stocked with 6 - 10" rainbows in spring. Lower stretches often harbor huge browns and rainbows, moving up from Hebgen Lake. Fine gravel bottom attracts spawners. Favorite wet flies: Muddler Minnow, Woolly Worms. Dry flies: Goofer, Adams, Renegade.

LOWER MADISON: R / B / C / G / RW. METHODS: One of the world's great fly streams. Bait, lures also effective. Rocks will take their toll of lures. HOW & WHERE: This fabled stream is a succession of hot fishing spots from Quake Lake to Ennis Lake, 60 miles further downstream. Fast moving water, slippery rocks, tricky wading. Dry flies tied to float in fast, rough water are terrific: see us for recommended patterns. Fish wet flies deep. Spin fishermen: try Daredevils, wobblers, Mepps-type lures. A famous stream for many reasons. Annually produces 6" to 6# trout. The West Fork, a small tributary, is off-again, on-again, but offers fine fishing when it's on.

CLIFF AND WADE LAKES: R / B / L. METHODS: Worms, lures — often fine fly fishing. HOW & WHERE: Boats for rent on both of these nearby lakes. Monster trout in the 10-20 lb. class are taken from Wade often enough to make you nervous. Cliff Lake trout known as North American piranha. Fishermen advised to wear bite-proof waders, carry heavy defense weapons.

HIDDEN LAKE: Brilliant rainbows only, averaging 2 lbs. METHODS: Worms fished deep, dry flies when trout are surface feeding. HOW & WHERE: To reach this small, deep lake you must drive to Elk Lake Resort or Neely's Ranch. At Elk Lake Resort, you'll pay for boat, car transportation to Hidden. At Neely's, you'll rent horses, or hire boat transportation across Cliff Lake, hike 2 remaining miles. Best fishing on Hidden usually early a.m. and just before sundown.

ELK LAKE: R / C / L / G. METHODS: Trolling, also shore fishing with lures, bait, flies. Very deep in spots, reputed to harbor sea-monster-size mackinaw trout.

HENRY'S LAKE: EB / R / C. METHODS: Trolling good from opening day until around July 1, after which heavy aquatic grass is a problem. Lures, bait good thruout season. Once they learn the house rules, wet fly fishermen will catch lunkers. Brook trout, 3 lbs. and up, are plentiful. 4 to 15 lb. rainbow and hybrid cutthroat caught regularly.

QUAKE LAKE: R / B / C / RW. METHODS: Bait, lures, flies. HOW & WHERE: The Madison River between Hebgen Dam and Quake Lake is often excellent fishing — trout feed here. Fish Quake Lake itself where Beaver and other creeks enter, constantly pouring food into the lake. Exploring the shoreline often pays off. The lake was born August 17, 1959, when an earthquake toppled a mountain top into Madison Canyon, damming the river. Heavy equipment cut a channel thru the slide area, allowing the Madison to flow once again, but the lake remains for several miles above the slide (an attraction every visitor should see).

For years now, writers in FIELD & STREAM, OUTDOOR LIFE and SPORTS AFIELD have been bragging so loud about the terrific fishing hereabouts, it's sort of inspired the fish, given them something to live up to. And around this neck of the woods, The Trout Shop is generally recognized as official fishing headquarters. In fact, FISH KNOW if you've been here first, and if you haven't they're likely to fin their noses at you.

So first thing to do when you arrive in West Yellowstone is visit The Trout Shop. Get your license (no license required in Park), get free current fishing regulations, swap lies, etc. NOTE: I will listen to all your fish stories with a straight face. No other tackle shop can make this claim. I promise not to pressure you into buying a single doggone thing. You're welcome if all you want is free directions, advice, or to escape from a charging moose. (No moose can charge in the Trout Shop, and neither can you. Cash only.)

BUT if you want something, need something — I've got it. Everything from rods, reels and waders to flies and lures with built-in sex appeal for trout hereabouts.

WARNING: Fishermen find that flies, lures and gear that never miss in California, Texas and other foreign lands often aren't worth a ¢ here.

Fish giggle & sneer at 'em. Our big voting-age fish just don't get that way without picking up a liberal education en route. Local lunkers retch at gunk that innocent itty bitty trout gobble. This makes sense: would you come out from behind a rock for a bowl of baby food? So if you haven't got a complete outfit, your best bet is to HOLD EVERYTHING, WAIT until you get to The Trout Shop, let me fix you up with flies, leaders, stuff made especially for this area that you'll need to bring back the big ones.

If you're interested in guide service, I'm available. I can personally escort you to some unusual fishing adventures not covered on my fishmap — but write or phone well in advance. Good luck and good fishing!

Our custom-made Fishmap shows principal waters within a 50 mile radius of The Trout Shop. Fishletters on the map correspond to descriptions below, and mark some of our favorite fishing spots. Scores of others exist. If any route isn't completely clear, come in to The Trout Shop, and ask us—we'll even tell you names of all the gopher holes along the way. In our brief words below, we're hitting only the highlights. Come in and sit a spell and we'll be happy to elaborate. Good fishing!

- R Rainbow trout (Salmo gairdneri)
- B Brown trout (Salmo trutta)
- C Cutthroat trout (Salmo clarkii clarkii)
- YC Yellowstone cutthroat (Salmo clarkii lewisii)
- EB Eastern Brook trout (Salvelinus fontinalis)
- L Lake trout (Cristivomer namaycush)
- G Montana grayling (Thymallus signifer)
- RW Rocky Mt. Whitefish (Prosopium williamsoni)

A UPPER MADISON: R / B / C / RW. METHODS: Fly fishing only in Park. Below Park: anything goes except minnows. HOW & WHERE: From Park boundary downstream to Hebgen Lake usually produces well early and late season. Try big streamers, large nymphs. More hot spots further upstream: explore and experiment. Brown trout up to 8 lbs. often take here. Upper Madison is entirely different from rough, rugged lower Madison. River here moves slowly — long flat glides, tricky eddies, easy wading, well-defined pools. Starting with May Fly hatch in early June, dry fly men have a ball. Try to match the hatch, cast to slurping trout. Yellowstone Woolly Worm and bucktails a must for all wet fly addicts.

B FIREHOLE RIVER: R / C / B. METHODS: Fly fishing only legal here. HOW & WHEN: Fish primarily with dry flies, nymphs. Best times: June, early July, September, October. Brown trout, up to 24", are real challenge here. This famous stream makes champions out of duffers one day, duffers from champs the next. Read chapters 8, 9 of TROUT by Ray Bergman for more on this great stream.

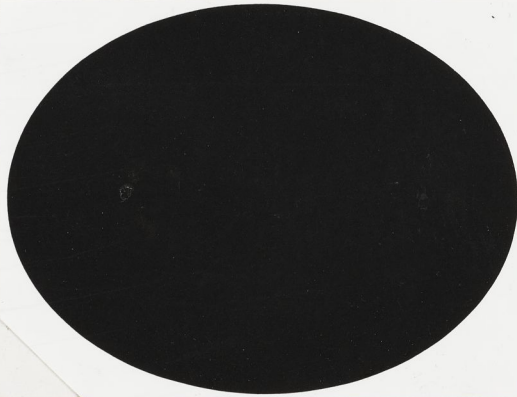

G GIBBON RIVER: R / C / B. METHODS: Fly fishing only below Gibbon Falls. HOW & WHERE: Fine fish water from Madison Junction upstream to where river parallels highway. Some large browns under cut banks. Trout here are smart, water clear, small flies good.

Fishing Professionals

STREAM TRIPS ~

Guides refer to these trips as "walk trips." You have the freedom to move from section to section on one river or to move to an entirely different stream. This mobility makes it possible to time your fishing for the most productive hours on a particular beat or stretch. Our years of experience have taught us where to fish and when to move. A day will be planned with you for the kind of fishing you enjoy.

2, 2 or 3 anglers, $75.00

FLOAT TRIPS ~

Western rivers offer unlimited fishing possibilities, and floating some of these rivers is the most effective way to take advantage of this resource. Trips on the Henry's Fork of the Snake and the Madison River are scheduled every day. Floats on the more distant rivers may be arranged by advance reservations.

Our guides prefer flat bottom John boats or McKenzie river boats, contingent upon the distance and type of water floated.

A very pleasant and exciting way to view and fish the Big Sky Country.

1 or 2 anglers, $75.00

SERVICES INCLUDED ON DAY TRIPS:

- Transportation • Streamside Lunch • Boats
- Refreshments, Water, Soft Drinks, Coffee

Smoky Mountain Road

terstate 40 will open the way to the Seaboard. These routes will have a tremendous impact on the area. Probably the most needed auxiliary routes will be highways to connect with Interstate 40 on the east and to tap Interstate 75 on the west.

The proposal to build the transmountain highway comes at a time when hearings are planned on areas that qualify for wilderness designations under the 1964 Wilderness Act. The Great Smoky Mountains National Park has been scheduled as the first unit of the National Park System to be reviewed under the act.

The Smoky Mountains Hiking Club, Knoxville, Tenn., has proposed that two sections of the park be set aside under the Wilderness Act. They are necessarily split because the park already is cut in two by U.S. 441. The proposed transmountain road would slice through the heart of the western wilderness area proposed by the hiking club. The club has drawn its proposed boundaries only the north shore of Fontana Reservoir to give full protection to Eagle and Hazel creeks.

WILD TROUT STREAMS such as Eagle, Hazel, Fournay and Noland creeks are among the most valuable resources of the park. Until the Park Service started building the north shore road these creeks had been accessible only by boat from the reservoir or from the Appalachian Trail. The new park road cuts across Forney and Noland creeks and the eroded scars left by the slash show what is bound to happen following highway construction. If the transmountain leg is constructed, it presumably would disturb the watersheds that feed one or more of these trout streams. The highway, more importantly, would destroy their wilderness character. Henry Wilson Jr., in an article in "The Living Wilderness," points out that Hazel, Eagle, Forney and Noland creeks were among the four finest trout streams in the East. They have been among the last wild streams capable of sustaining by themselves populations of stream-bred trout, he said. Such streams, like the wilderness itself are most susceptible to destruction when exposed by highways.

The Southern Appalachian strain of the brook trout is tottering on the brink of being listed among endangered species of trout. Remnant populations at high elevations in the Great Smokies keep this strain alive. Any significant silt load from road construction will result in decimation of this colorful native trout, according to L. Price Wilkins, supervisor of coldwater fisheries for the Tennessee Fish and Game Department.

Wilkins pointed out that the U.S. Forest Service has recently ruled against a transmountain scenic highway across the 85,000-acre Tellico Wildlife Area primarily because of danger to watershed values in the headwaters of all major drainages. It is incongruous, he said, that any park administration would allow destructive forces to upset the ecological balance of the unique aquatic and terrestrial wildlife communities the Great Smoky

FLY-SAFE

THE FIRST REAL IMPROVEMENT IN FLY
BOXES SINCE FLIES WERE INVENTED

This patented clip was invented by an ardent fisherman. Tired of finding flies crushed, frustrated by finding flies loose in the box and the wind blowing them out to be lost in underbrush or water he conceived the idea of this FLY-SAFE. The foolproof clips will hold flies securely in any situation. The box can be dropped or thrown and the flies will stay in position, to be released only when you want them. Flies may be steamed and dried right in the aluminum anodized and ventilated box. Measures 6 1/4"x4"x1 1/4" deep when closed.

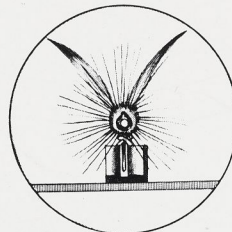

Comfortably holds 72
Salmon or Trout
Dry or Wet Flies

The FLY-SAFE clips hold flies upright. They can't fall out and are easily removed. Clips are made of stainless steel rivited to a heavy gauge anodized aluminum box.

Notice the unique spring action of the clip. The hackles can't crush or deform because the fly is held firmly upright. Hook points keep sharp because they don't touch metal.

This list to the unenlightened might well sound as if it were the FBI "most wanted"—hoodlums and their molls. Indeed, in a way it is such a list, but not one issued by that respected organization headed by J. Edgar.

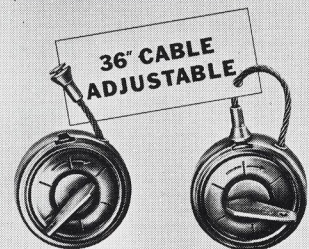

As the gentle reader well knows, this is a partial list of flies in the "most wanted" or "best liked" dry flies given by the world's most renowned anglers.

The above flies, in key sizes (12 in all), housed in "FLY SAFE" (world's best pocket sized fly box) are a smashing bargain at $7.84, postage prepaid. (Offer good to Feb. 28, 1966).

SALE BLAZERS

Fish in Circle or Outlined.

FLY FISHERMEN: Salmon fly hatch occurs on Madison starting mid-June, progresses upstream daily, and ends mid-July. Grasshopper and Goofus flies also good here.

Gallatin is bigger here and keeps growing in size every mile. Fine fly water. Well-hatched dry flies, sizes 10-14 recommended.

LURE FISHERMEN: You will lose lures by the bucketful here. Don't worry. Come to the Trout Shop. I sell lures by the bucketful.

Fast water. Wade carefully. Work the banks, under the willows, around the rocks.

Cliff Lake Bridge. You may avoid traffic by hiking a mile or more up or downstream. Fine holding water all along, contains lunkers. Bushy, high-floating dry flies recommended. Wet fly fishermen: fish nymphs deep, also work big bucktails with minnow-like action.

Gallatin here is cold, not too fast or deep. Mostly rainbows and native cutthroat - firm 8 to 10 inches, full of fight and worthy prizes. Limit in Park: 5 fish.

After spring snows melt and waters clear, fine early-season fishing near mouth of Cabin Creek.

To reach Grebe Lake, park car here, hike in.

Fish wet flies in rocky pockets in short stretch between Cascades and Gibbon.

Aerial-fighting rainbows like rough water of Rainbow Rifle. Browns in deeper pools, above and below. Watch for browns rising along far bank.

Fish Firehole upstream for 1/2 mile from where Nez Perce enters. Big trout in deep pools and weedbeds are a real challenge. Wade carefully, use long fine leaders. To reach Firehole where stream doesn't parallel highway, follow Fountain Freight Road.

Plenty of small-to-medium size rainbows here.
