GENERAL INFORMATION

Bringing together in one public collection over 77,000 items on Scotland, both textual and visual, the Scottish Library is unique.

Any reader may consult the extensive reference resources without being a member. Seating accommodation is provided for 24. Those who wish to borrow from the lending collection, (which includes books on Edinburgh as well as on Scotland), may do so by completing a membership form.

A proportion of the bookstock is available for browsing. By checking the catalogues and indexes (card, sheaf and microfiche) other items can quickly be identified and fetched from store.

The range of subjects is wide, including history, topography, current affairs, industry, law and many aspects of Scottish life and letters. Scottish art and music are located in the Fine Art and Music Libraries respectively.

Qualified staff deal with all types of enquiries, whether in person, by telephone or by letter.

SERVICES AND SPECIAL COLLECTIONS

COLOUR TRANSPARENCIES - Members may borrow from the collection of over 4,000 colour transparencies covering houses, castles and many other Scottish landmarks.

COMMERCIAL INFORMATION - Trade and Post Office Directories provide current information. Back runs, useful for historical research are also available.

FAMILY HISTORY - A special collection of over 1,200 volumes will assist with genealogical research, but extended research is not normally undertaken by the staff.

GOVERNMENT PUBLICATIONS - Since 1980 all HMSO publications relevant to Scotland have been received. Most of these are permanently filed.

GUIDE BOOKS - Modern guide books (such as the Blue, Red and National Trust for Scotland guides) may be borrowed and standard historical works on most areas of Scotland are collected also.

INTER-LIBRARY LOAN - Books not available may be obtained on request through the Inter-Library Loan Scheme.

LENDING FACILITIES - General tickets (orange) may be used for borrowing books, illustrations and transparencies. Two special tickets for use in the Scottish Library may be issued to Edinburgh District residents on request. Visitors may borrow by special arrangement.

MAPS AND PLANS - Historical maps and town plans may be consulted in the department. OS metric maps may be borrowed.

PHOTOGRAPHS - This collection includes examples from the early days of photography, in the work of Dr Thomas Keith in the 1850's to the present day. Especially worthy of note and of particular interest to researchers is the Dr I F Grant collection on highland folk-life.

PRESS CUTTINGS - Information on current affairs and historical topics may be found in the press cutting collection.

PRINTS AND DRAWINGS - Over 3,000 topographical prints and drawings are indexed and may be consulted in the Department.

PUBLICATIONS - Booklets, slidepacks and postcards, based on Scottish Library originals are available for sale in the Enquiry Office and a number of large local libraries.

PHOTOCOPYING - Coin-operated machines are available in the Edinburgh, Reference and Scottish Libraries. Copying of rare or valuable material is undertaken at the discretion of the staff. Copies from microform newspapers, maps and periodicals may be obtained in the Edinburgh Room. Charges are available on request.

PERIODICALS - Almost 200 current Scottish periodicals ranging from Business Scotland to The Scots Law Times are received. Back files of these and others, which have ceased publication, are available for consultation.

NEWSPAPERS - The Glasgow Herald may be consulted from 1885 to date on microfilm and a number of other Scottish local newspapers are on file.

RARE ITEMS - Rare or valuable items can be consulted only by special arrangement.

Dear Ivan,

Thanks for the prompt return. Always good to touch base. I wondered what your friend thought as he looked upon Ringling. We were please that our youngest daughter, Helen, who was born in Pennsylvania had such a positive experience when we went for the church celebration. She had heard our stories, saw the slides, but the experience was something she had to internalize. We stayed with Bob and Elsie Weitz. It is something to see Bob and Mike run the ranch now, when they had a crew of over 15 when we were there. But, they got rid of the sheep. There are some memories for us with lambing camp, shearing, etc. I think of your book and moving sheep through the town for water etc. If you visit in Billings, try and call our son, Timothy Lanham. He is a senior at Rocky Mountain College. He works as a dorm manager, but does not have a phone. You could reach him through the financial aid office at Rocky. I talked him on Saturday, and they are using your "This House of Sky" in American Lit at Rocky. Congratulations....

I have not kept up with the literature in Church History. But, I am giving you the address of the Presbyterian History Dept. They may have some sources to recommend.

:Mr. William Bl Miller.
Department of History

Dr. Lawrence Smoll of Rocky Mountain College, and a Methodist Minister in Colorado have just completed a book about a homesteader and his family in the Geraldine area. Tim gave me a copy for Christmas.

Hardly seems possible the month of January has gone. We had the Siberian Express in Mid-January with sub zero temperatures. It has warmed up this week, and our snow is beginning to melt. We had over 20 inches on our patio. There is no frost in the ground, so it is not running off. This should help the grass seed I sowed in the fall!

When Tim and his fiancee were here over the holidays, we went to the Wildlife center and museum at DeSoto Bend, Iowa. They have most of the artifacts of the Bertrand displayed there in a very beautiful way. The Bertrand sank in 1865 on its way to Fort Benton. It is a tie with our roots in Montana. Many of the cases of goods were labelled: ----Mercantile, Virginia City, MT. You have the perception of being below decks of the boat inspecting the cargo.
Tell your dear spouse hello. I am glad her classes are doing well. We have evaluations like most other places, but our evaluation instrument is not adequate and limited in number of items. So, if students have a "grudge" as some of them do because they don't have the motivation, then it is easy to get a low evaluation. The administration has set an artificially high norm of 80 percent for Excellent and Above Average. Average doesn't even count any more...So, morale for some of us is down when they (the evaluations come out). But, we really work hard to support each other. We developed teams of faculty to visit class, interact on a regular basis, share new ideas etc.

Thanks for including the epigram from Rose. I remember she always wanted people to know she was one of the 1st "white persons" born in the territory. I think her mother came to Fort Benton via one of the Steamboats. Manny and Rose came to the house once for Sylvia's birthday, and Manny sang for her. That deep voice with lots of feeling etc.is still remembered.

So, hope the address is productive. As I remember the Scotch covenanters may have been part of the group that became the United Presbyterian Church of North America, which merged with my branch in 1957, and I now rejoice that Presbyterianism is united.

What do you hear of the Christian school controversy in Seattle? It is blown out of proportion here. I am not sure who is supporting Siliven, but he has access to unlimited resources. I disliked his threatening the Nebraska Judge and Sheriff when released. Jerry Fallwell made a big appearance last year to support Siliven. They even have a tie with the White House, but were disappointed that Reagan did not give them what they wanted.

Peace and Joy today. Let me know when the new book comes out. I will send you This House of Sky for your autograph.

6 Feb. '86

Dear Orville--

Yours,

Thanks for the suggestions on how to find out about covenanters. I'll put it on file, for when I start on Orville novel, later this year. It's daunting to think about, but that one's intended for publication in '87.

All is well here--a burst of springlike sun and warmth. Hope your weather has thawed, too.

all the best,

Dear Mr Doig

NATIONAL LIBRARY OF SCOTLAND: ADMISSION TO READING ROOMS

I am writing in reply to your letter of 28 February 1984.

We should be very happy to make the resources of the National Library of Scotland available to you when you come to Edinburgh in the summer. I enclose copies of the regulations governing the use of the Reading Rooms in the Library, which include times of opening, etc. If you wish to use the Library for a period longer than 5 days, you should make application for a 3-year ticket. I enclose forms of application for the latter, which you should complete and bring to the Library on your first visit, when tickets will be issued.

You will not find the National Library much changed since your previous visit in 1973, though the regulations for tickets were recently reviewed. I wish you every success with your research.

Yours sincerely

E F D ROBERTS
Librarian
Dear Mr Doig

Your letter of 9 March addressed to the Keeper of the Records has been passed to us as we hold the census records.

I note that you intend to be in Edinburgh from 21 to 28 July. You are welcome to look at the census records during that time. You will, I imagine, be interested in the enumerators' schedules for the 1881 census, which give detailed breakdowns of the inhabitants of each house.

As your research is in connection with a proposed book, we would expect you to pay the normal fees for access. Unlike the Scottish Record Office, where the Keeper has wide discretion to waive fees, we are obliged to make a charge. From 1 May this will be £22.50 per person per week or £7.25 per day.

I should also warn you that the office will be extremely busy in July and accommodation limited. I have put a provisional booking for both you and your wife for 21 July, but would ask you to confirm whether you want this extended for the whole of your time in Edinburgh and for both of you?

Yours sincerely

Thank you for explaining the fee and reservation situation. My schedule of research at other Edinburgh repositories is such that I'd like to request a reservation to work at New Register House on 26-27 July—a reservation for me only, my wife will tackle other research on those days. If those two dates are filled, I can amend my work elsewhere and be available for New Register House for any single day of 23-25 July.

cordially

Ivan Doig
Dear Dr Doig

Dr Imrie has asked me to reply to your letter of 9 March. The Census Enumerators' Transcript Books from the 1841 to 1891 Censuses are in custody of the Register General for Scotland at New Register House. I am passing your letter to them.

Should your work move beyond the Census Enumerators' Transcript Books on the intended visit we will issue when you call with a reader's ticket for the Scottish Record Office.

Yours sincerely

Dear Mr. Imrie--

I have used the registers at Register House for research before, but it was eleven years ago, and I thought should now inquire whether any prior arrangements need to be made for my wife and me to use the registers during a brief period of research in Scotland this summer.

Our project is history, the story of Scottish emigrants who left in the 1880s to take up homesteads in western America. (My own grandparents did so, from Dundee.) The majority of our research will be about Scottish village life in the 1880s, and we would like to gather details from the census records. We intend to be in Edinburgh 21-28 July.

You understandably might wish to know our credentials. This will be my seventh book. I'm probably best known in the U.S. for This House of Sky, nominated for a National Book Award in 1979; the book had a brief career in the U.K. under the aegis of Sidgwick & Jackson. I hold a B.S. and M.S. from Northwestern University and a Ph.D. in history from the University of Washington. My wife Carol, professor of humanities at Shoreline Community College, co-authored a textbook with me and assists me with my research whenever she is free of her teaching duties. She too holds B.S. and M.S. degrees from Northwestern University. We both are cardholders at the British Museum Reading Room and a number of other libraries and archives in the U.K. and the U.S.

Dear A. P. Shearman—

I'd like to inquire about the eligibility of my wife and me to use the Central Library during a brief period of research in Edinburgh this summer.

Our project is historical fiction, the story of Scottish emigrants who left in the 1880s to take up homesteads in Montana in the western United States. (My own grandparents did so, from Dundee.) This novel will be part of a trilogy I am writing for the New York publishing firm of Athenæum, about a Scottish-American family during the 100 years of Montana's statehood. The majority of our research will be at the Scottish Record Office and the National Library, but we would appreciate the chance to use your holdings as well. Our particular research interest is Scottish village life of the 1880s; within that topic, we'll be searching for any details of the daily lives of village teachers and schoolchildren.

You understandably may wish to know our credentials. This will be my seventh book, my third work of historical fiction. I'm probably best known in the U.S. for This House of Sky, nominated for a National Book Award in 1979; the book had a brief career in the U.K. under the aegis of Sidgwick & Jackson. I hold a B.S. and M.S. from Northwestern University, and a Ph.D. in history from the University of Washington. My wife Carol, professor of humanities at Shoreline Community College, co-authored a textbook with me and assists me with my research whenever she is free of her teaching duties. Dear Sir,

Emigration from Glasgow

I acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 3rd March, 1984, regarding the above.

While unable to trace items specifically on the subject at the time you desire, the Mitchell Library has some material that may be of interest to you.

The Glasgow Collection has Glasgow newspapers covering the period you want, and material such as the diary of Daniel McKinlay, an apprentice blacksmith in Glasgow, who emigrated to America in June 1850.

The Social Sciences department has general information on Scottish emigration to America and I hope the material listed below will be of some use to you. A much wider selection of documents can be found by consulting the library's catalogues on your arrival (not all will be concerned with the specific time period/area in which you're interested but they may still give useful descriptive accounts of emigration).

Dear Mr. Döry,

Thank you for your letter of 29th February. There will be no difficulty about using the library for reference purposes in July. In my capacity as Keeper of Manuscripts I have custody of the burgh records of the North East Fife district burghs including the coastal burghs round as far as Elie and Earlsferry. However, it may be that local newspapers would be the quickest and best way to find the information which you require. However, your precise requirements and the best sources can be discussed when you arrive.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Mr. Doig,

I am so sorry your letter of 28 February has gone unanswered for such a long period - Professor Bullough is away on leave in Rome, and I have only just stepped in to fill the gap as Acting Director in his absence. Alas, the entire accommodation and facilities of St. John's House are fully occupied during the period 1-7 July, so we shall have, reluctantly, to turn down your request. Nevertheless, I look forward personally to meeting you - your subject is an interesting one, and you will find much grist for your mill in the area. You should certainly make yourself known to the curator of the Scottish Fisheries Museum at Anstruther, Fife, which is undoubtedly the best centre for the study of the coastal communities, and where there is much interest in the oral history of the local school. Our university library archivist, Robert Smart, will probably also be able to be of assistance. I am sorry, though, that we cannot be more use to you at St. John's House itself.

Yours sincerely,

T.C. Smout

Dear Professor Bullough--

I'd like to inquire about the eligibility of my wife and me to use St. John's House and its facilities during a brief period of research in the St. Andrews area this summer.

Our project is historical fiction, the story of Scottish emigrants who left in the 1880s to take up homesteads in Montana in the western United States. (My own grandparents did so, from Dundee.) This novel will be part of a trilogy I am writing for the New York publishing firm of Atheneum, about a Scottish-American family during the 100 years of Montana's statehood. Our particular research interest in the coastal region near St. Andrews is village life of the 1880s; within that topic, we'll be searching for any details of the daily lives of village schoolteachers and schoolchildren.

Your Committee of Management may wish to have some credentials; I realize--especially since I am a historian-turned-novelist. This will be my seventh book, my third work of historical fiction. It's probably best known in the U.S. for a book titled This House of Sky, nominated for a National Book Award in 1979; the book had a brief career in the U.K. under the aegis of Sidgwick & Jackson, and will be published in German this autumn by Insel Verlag of Frankfurt. I hold a B.S. and M.S. from Northwestern University, and a Ph.D. in history from the University of Washington. My wife Carol, professor of humanities at Shoreline Community College, co-authored a textbook with me and assists me with my research whenever she is free of her teaching duties. She too holds B.S. and M.S. degrees from Northwestern University. We are both cardholders at the British Museum Reading Room and a number of other libraries and archives in the U.K. and the U.S.

I look forward to acquaintance, in early July. Are my wife and I operating on the correct assumption, that David Russell Hall is the most convenient accommodation for our week at St. Andrews?

cordially

Dear Mr Doig

Thank you for your letter of 8 May.

We have now made a booking for you on 26 and 27 July. Please note that you must be here by 11.00 am on the first day, otherwise we cannot hold the place for you.

With best wishes for your research.
