From a settler's diary springs a remarkable communion

by Ivan Doig
Special to The Times
DAY ONE

His name was James Gichrist Swan, and I have felt my pull toward him ever since some forgotten frontier pursuit or another landed me into the coastal region of history where he presides, meticulous as a seerer's clerk, diarying and diarying that life of his, four generations and seemingly as many light-years from my own.

You have met him yourself in some other form — the remembered neighbor or family member, full of years while you just had begun to grow into them, who had been in war or on the place and could confide to you how much vanished matters were. The telegraph brought to each of us by the page that day, whenever it was, when I made the side trip into archival box after box of Swan's diaries and began to realize that they held four full decades of his life and at least 2,500,000 handwritten words. And what life, what sketching words.

This morning we discovered a large wolf in the brook dead from the effects of some strychnine we had put out. It was a she wolf, very large and evidently had five whelps. Megges and myself skinned her and I boiled the head to get the skull ... Mr. Fitzgerald of Sequim Prairie better known as "skip", walked off the wharf near the Custom House last night and broke his neck. The night was very dark and he must have taken the wrong way ... Jimmy had the night mare last night and made a great howling. This morning he told me that the memelose were after him and made him crazy. I told him the memelose were dead squad which he ate for supper very heartily ... Mr. Tucker very ill with his eye, his face is badly swelled. This evening got K-chook's Cowlchan again to milk her breast into a cup, and I then boiled Mr. Tucker's eye with it.
Prospectus for Winter Light, by Ivan Doig

This will be a book about frontiers—the actual frontier of a century and more ago, when the westward push reached the Pacific shore, and my own frontier as a writer and late-twentieth-century American.

The idea is hard to fix into a genre, but I intend Winter Light to be a journal of exploration. It will be set within this coming winter—that is, will begin at dawn on Dec. 22 and close at dusk on the first day of spring, '79—here in the Pacific Northwest. I'll be writing, in first-person and in a tone like that of the landscape-evoking portions of This House of Sky, from my end of the century back into the time of a frontier diarist named James Gilchrist Swan, who was on hand when the American frontier reached its Pacific boundary here. At times, I'll quite literally be trying to explore back inside Swan's skin, to find out through him what the westering experience, and the raw new wealth of landscape, was like.

I suppose I'm attempting in the field of American frontier history something of what Loren Eiseley did with anthropology in The Immense Journey and Richard Selzer with medicine in Mortal Lessons: an evocative crosscut of the past, done with as much exactness of detail and imaginative personal angle of vision as I can manage on my own, and can derive from Swan and his diaries.

Winter Light, then, won't really be "about" either Swan or me, or the both of us, but about the frontier experience, by way of our eyes and brains. That is, as This House of Sky was a book about memory, Winter Light will be about finding a place to invest one's life.

Some quick details about Swan, since he will be such a figure in the book: he came west in the California gold rush of 1849, from Boston. Ever after, he spent his life in a kaleidoscopic assortment of livelihoods along the Pacific shore, mostly on the Olympic Peninsula of Washington. From 1859 until 1898 (he died in 1900, at age 81) he kept a day-by-day diary, a truly diligent and sustained record of frontier life. There's also the benefit that Swan genuinely liked the coastal Indians—one of his favorite drinking chums was a Klallam prince named Duke of York—and recorded their way of life without looking down on it. Given his friendship with the Indians, and his interest in all else of frontier life—the region's natural history, the sailing ships which were its cultural lifeline, his own sense of living at the edge of society and the farthest rim of his country—Swan's diaries are a trove of significant detail.

The diaries are available to me at the University of Washington archives here in Seattle. Other research, besides visiting the Olympic Peninsula coastal sites where Swan lived, likely will be a trip to the Queen Charlotte Islands off northern British Columbia, to retrace an artifact-collecting trip Swan did for the Smithsonian in 1883.

My working schedule will be to write the first draft between December '78 and the end of March, '79; let the manuscript sit for April and May, when I hope to be in Britain on research for the book after Winter Light; then begin in June on rewriting, to hand in the manuscript by the end of 1979. Since I came up with the title of Winter Light, I've been told that Ingmar Bergman beat me to it. If recasting is needed, I would like to retain "Winter" somehow in the title: the season will be important to the book. Despite that, this will be a cheerier book than Sky—as moving and lyrical, I hope, but brighterspirited, less death-haunted.
OHS Schedules 109th Annual Meeting to Celebrate the Historical Pacific Northwest

The 109th anniversary of the Oregon Historical Society will be marked by festivities of historical and cultural significance, thereby providing something for everyone. Members will soon receive official notice of the event and the ballot for the board member election. However, mark your calendars now for Sunday, November 7th, as the day will be a full and exciting one.

Rather than face another confrontation with the traffic surplus on I-5, our meeting place for 1982 will be the Hilton Hotel in downtown Portland. Members and guests will assemble for luncheon and for an outstanding program. Our speaker will be author Ivan Doig whose new novel The Sea Runners has just been published by Athenaeum Press, New York. Based on historical records, The Sea Runner is the gripping tale of four Scandinavian escapees from their indenture to the Russian Fur Company at New Archangel and their desperate canoe journey down the coast of the Pacific Northwest. The success of Mr. Doig’s first novel comes as no surprise to those who have read his previous two works of non-fiction, This House of Sky, and Winter Brothers, both of which won the Pacific Northwest Booksellers Award and the Governor’s Writers Day Award. Winter Brothers has also been adapted for a public television documentary which will air this fall. The title of Mr. Doig’s talk to our annual meeting is Blue as the Odyssey, in which he takes us on a voyage in search of Northwest lore.

Before luncheon everyone will have a chance to participate in our traditional silent auction, a superior collection of objects donated to us for this purpose throughout the year by loyal members and patrons. Immediately after lunch and the program, we will adjourn a short distance to the Oregon Historical Center where we will have the last view of our successful SOFT GOLD exhibition before it is officially closed by Honorary Committee Chairman, Mrs. Harold A. Miller.

Around 4: p.m. all those wishing to do so will gather again at Jake’s Famous Crawfish Restaurant on Southwest Twelfth and Alder to drink a complimentary toast to our younger friends on the occasion of their 90th anniversary. These two venerable institutions — ours and theirs — share a strong commitment to the history of Portland, and their invitation to our members is a fitting climax to such a history-permeated day. Watch your mailbox and get your reservations in early.

Thunder Lodge Players Will Bring Traditional Roles to OHS Visitors

The SOFT GOLD exhibition has been the impetus for many interesting and informative programs at the Center, chief among them being the “Soft Gold Conversations” and the film series. The most recent addition to this illustrious schedule promises to be an exciting and colorful one. On Saturday afternoon, October 23rd at 1:30, The Thunder Lodge Players, a group of Chemawa students under the leadership of Vice-Principal Larry Meier, will share their native legends with visitors to the exhibition. The program will take place in Beaver Hall, an appropriately named site for these story-tellers, modern-day followers of the ancient Indian oral tradition.

While the stories vary from tribe to tribe, similar themes run through them. The coyote, the creator spirit, is always present, and the Indians' spiritual awareness of the nature that surrounds them comes clearly through in the legends. Some of the tales were passed down from the grandparents of the present story-tellers; some are a part of the collection which Larry Meier has gathered over the past fifteen years. The students wear native costumes, and each performance begins with the blowing of a cow horn summoning the spirits to attend. An informal question-and-answer conversation with the audience concludes the performance.

As with all of the SOFT GOLD exhibition special events, the Thunder Lodge Players performance will be open to members and guests without charge. Join us on Saturday, afternoon, October 23rd as we experience a vital part of Pacific Northwest history.

SOFT GOLD to End Tenure at OHS Center After Record Breaking Tour

As the days of the SOFT GOLD exhibit draw to a close, the number of visitors to the major international exhibit increases. In this subtle manner we draw your attention to the fact that if you have not yet visited SOFT GOLD (or even if you have and wish to do so again) now is the time! On Sunday, November 7th, immediately following the annual meeting, Mrs. Harold A. Miller who cut the ribbon to open the exhibit on May 14th, will declare it officially closed.

It has been a rewarding experience for both the staff and the thousands of visitors who have seen the exhibit and enjoyed the concomitant programs during those intervening months. Shortly the core of the exhibit will return to the Peabody Museum at Harvard University, and the other unique and fascinating items will return to the lending institutions throughout the world. The effect of the historical cultural exchange which took place as a result of the coming of the European and American trading ships is apparent throughout the exhibit, and present and future sociologists could spend years tracing the extent of this mutually influencing process and how it affected subsequent generations.

Thoughts Regarding Winter Brothers

by Joan Walkinshaw, Producer

When one works with an on-camera personality who happens to be a real-life Scotsman with a dry wit, amusing moments are bound to occur. Ivan Doig's second-generation Scot was not about to become a "personality kid" while reciting excerpts from his book, Winter Brothers, in our latest film for KCTS 9.

As we filmed Ivan in the center of the street in Port Townsend, I asked him if he could possibly appear a bit more natural. "How can I seem natural?" he asked. "I'm really not used to standing in the center of the street on a cold, rainy day reciting lines from my book."

Yet Ivan was completely himself throughout the filming and it is for this very reason he did such a remarkable job. He is droll, surprisingly relaxed, and an excellent conveyer of his own prose. In this film based on his book—look reviewers have called a "classic," a "masterpiece," a versatile and daring feat of writing—Ivan carries the show.

Winter Brothers interweaves the diaries of James Gilchrist Swan, a colorful early settler on the Olympic Peninsula, with Doig's own journal. The result is a book which records the daily growth of a strange and powerful bond between the long-dead Swan, or "Coastal nomad," and the sensitive modern writer, Ivan Doig. Winter Brothers has a complex construction as it shifts back and forth in time. In creating the film, we had an almost insurmountable challenge in our opening scenes: how to reveal to our viewers that this is a film about a book which includes diaries from yesteryear. I hope our many edits and re-edits—that we have finally come up with an opening which not only draws in the audience, but also gives them some idea of what is happening in this complex plot structure.

In his book, Ivan used the landscape to link his own experience to that of the pioneer Swan. Of his writing, one reviewer said, "Doig weaves Swan's words into his own narrative . . . yet it is his own beautiful writing, original and filled with poetic imagery, revealing the true romantic, that makes this a grand book."

And it was the potential of combining Ivan's writing with photographer Wayne Sourbeer's intimate and intuitive perceptions of landscape and place that first inspired this film and makes the program such an aesthetically exciting experience.

The book reviewer for the New York Times wrote of Winter Brothers—"it is a gorgeous tribute to a man and a region unjustly neglected before-to-for." We trust the film based on this exceptional book justly captures the essence of Ivan Doig's tribute to our beautiful Northwest as seen by two sets of eyes 100 years separated.

Excerpts From Winter Brothers

DOIG: Four decades of Swan's diaries, some two and a half million pen words. Opening these pages of Swan's years is like entering a room filled with jugglers and tumblers and swallows of flame, performance, crowding performance.

SWAN: The grandeur of the scenery about Cape Flattery . . . the wild and varied sounds which fill the air, from the dash of water into the caverns and fissures of the rocks, mingling with the living cries of innumerable fowl all combined, present an accumulation of sights and sounds sufficient to fill a less superstitious beholder than the Indian with mysterious awe.

DOIG: There is a kind of border crossing, allowed us by time: special temporary passage permitted us if we seek out the right company for it, some guide such as Swan willing to lead us back where we have never been.

SWAN: Mr. Fitzgerald of Saquim Prairie, better known as "Skip," walked off the wharf near the Custom House last night and broke his neck. The night was very dark and he mistook his way . . . Mr. Tucker is very ill with his eye, his face is badly swollen. This evening I got Kichkou's Cowichan squaw to milk her breast into a cup, and then I bathed Mr. Tucker's eye with it . . . Yesterday my cat killed all my chickens. So this morning I shot the cat.

DOIG: Swan was born two decades or so before my own great-grandfather, but more and more I feel that we dwell in a community of time as well as of people.
Winter Brothers:

an intimate view of our region, seen through the eyes of two men generations apart.
Windsinger

by Jean Walkinshaw

Windsinger got off to a staggering start. First, as a Northwest native and film producer who draws vitality from this area, it was hard to imagine going elsewhere to make a wilderness/nature program. However, the story about Gary Smith, a back country ranger in Utah, his Sierra Club Book, Windsinger, and his album by the same name, was too hard to pass up.

Then, Wayne Sourbeer, the photographer with whom I had worked for twelve years, left the station, and the thought that anyone could replace him was beyond my comprehension.

Finally, soon after we were funded, it became questionable whether or not the subject of our program, Gary, would have the strength to do the show due to his multiple sclerosis (M.S.).

The Windsinger project originated eight years ago when KCTS9 General Manager Burnell F. Clark suggested I meet Gary Smith while he was in Seattle selling his book. Gary and I hit it off right away; I liked the songs he wrote and sang, as well as the down-to-earth characters in his book. It took eight years to get the proposal funded; the Pacific Mountain Network awarded us a grant, but, by that time Gary could neither walk nor play his guitar—he had become almost totally disabled due to M.S.

When I arrived in Southern Utah, to do a preliminary audio interview with Gary, I found him very down. He wasn't sure he could get to Canyonlands—where he planned to tape the program—even in his handicap equipped van and electric wheelchair, but he was game to try. So after the interview, I returned to Seattle, got contracts drafted, purchased travel's checks, and packed nine large boxes of equipment.

Two eager young men were assigned to the project: Bill McMillin, videographer and David Ko, audio man. We were scheduled to leave on a Monday.

But late Sunday evening, Gary called and said he could not leave the next day as planned; he would have to wait until his health was better. I seriously considered dropping the whole project but realized I could not let Gary down. Thus, with our boxes of equipment packed, we anxiously awaited word from Gary. Four days later, we got it.

Gary arrived in Green River, his energy restored, his unfailing whimsy and sense of humor going strong. For the next five days he made outrageous remarks as he roared around Canyonlands in his electric wheelchair. We kept gasping for breath as we tried to keep up with him! The weather could not have been prettier, the desert flowers were at their height, the moon full, the sunrises and sunsets brilliant and the scenery stunning. Few vistas can surpass Grandview Point, few rivers run as wild and free as the Colorado does through the park, and nowhere else on earth are there so many red rocks hewn into spanning arches and monumental shapes.

Videographer Bill McMillin proved to be a real wizard. He was incredibly dedicated, fast, and had a fine artistic eye. We literally worked from sunrise to sunset and the video equipment, though heavier and more cumbersome than film, did not slow us down.

I had planned to start and end the program with one of Gary's most upbeat and lyrical songs, The Redtail Hawk. We did the opening sequence for the song in southern Utah, but decided to shoot the last part of the song in northern Utah, near Gary's home. Gary told me that near his house, which is in a lovely valley rimmed with mountains, he had a "Power Spot"—a pastoral plateau beneath a snow-capped peak. A Navaho Indian had visited Gary when Gary was having a bad time physically, and had taken him to this spot at sunrise to greet the sun and to gain power and direction from "Mother Earth." Gary frequently went there. So at 4:30 A.M., we met Gary at the spot and there, dipping behind the mountain, was the full moon and across the valley the rising sun, and to top it all off, out came a redtail hawk and circled around us! Magical moments are rare in life, but to catch that early dawn on video, and to share it with all of you, is even more special.

Watch Windsinger. You are sure to find Gary Smith an inspiration, and the music and scenery a thrill.

Windsinger was produced by Jean Walkinshaw for KCTS9. Videographer: Bill McMillin; Field Audio: David Ko; video supervisor: Maggi Briggs; video editor: Ernie Sauerland; post-production audio: Bill Fast. The program was made possible in part by a grant from Pacific Mountain Network.

Winter Brothers

Following Windsinger, KCTS9 encored Jean Walkinshaw's Winter Brothers, a magnificent evocation of the Pacific Northwest and its history. Winter Brothers is based upon the historical narrative of Northwest writer Ivan Doig—a book reviewers have called "a classic," "a masterpiece," and "a vast and daring feat of writing."

The special program intertwines the diaries of James Gilchrist Swan, a colorful early settler on the Olympic Peninsula, with Doig's own journal. The result is a book which records the daily growth of a strange and powerful bond between the long-dead Swan, or "coastal nomad," and the sensitive modern writer, Ivan Doig.

In his book, Doig used the landscape to link his own experience to that of the pioneer Swan. Of his writings, one reviewer said, "Doig weaves Swan's words into his own narrative...yet it is his own beautiful writing, original and filled with poetic imagery revealing the true romantic, that makes this a grand book." The crisp, descriptive passages of Doig as he traces Swan's footsteps to wild beaches, coves and rain forests of the Peninsula, provides a strong foundation for the film.

Winter Brothers is a KCTS9 production funded in part by grants from the Washington Commission for the Humanities and the Seattle Arts Commission. Producer: Jean Walkinshaw; cinematographer: Wayne Sourbeer.

HOMESTEAD PROOF—TESTIMONY OF WITNESS.

Owen Mulholland, being called as witness in support of the homestead entry of Lars K. Ahlstrom for Final 5 YR. Proof, testifies as follows:

Ques. 1. What is your name, age, and post-office address?
An. Owen Mulholland; age 48 years; P. O. address, Oetto, Wash.

Ques. 2. Are you well acquainted with the claimant in this case and the land embraced in his claim?
An. I am and the land is Sec. 25, T. 31 N., R. 16 W., W.M.

Ques. 3. Is said tract within the limits of an incorporated town or selected site of a city or town, or used in any way for trade or business?
An. No.

Ques. 4. State specifically the character of this land—whether it is timbered, prairie, grazing, farming, coal, or mineral land.
An. It is timbered agricultural land such as when cleared it is fit for farming purposes. There is prairie land also.

Ques. 5. When did claimant settle upon the homestead, and at what date did he establish actual residence thereon? (State fully facts upon which you base your answer.)
An. He settled on this land in June, 1902, and established his residence at once, clearing the land and fencing.

Ques. 6. Have claimant and family resided continuously on the homestead since first establishing residence thereon? (If settler is unmarried, state the fact.)
An. He is not married. This land has been his only home since he settled there in June, 1902.

Ques. 7. For what period or periods has the settler been absent from the land since making settlement, and for what purpose; and if temporarily absent, did claimant's family reside upon and cultivate the land during such absence?
An. He has been away each year, since he settled there in June 1902 and up to the present time, about 4 months, for the purpose of earning money to improve the land and support himself.

Ques. 8. How much of the homestead has the settler cultivated, and for how many seasons did he raise crops thereon? If used for grazing only, describe fencing, state number and kind of stock grazed and by whom owned.
An. He has about 2 acres under cultivation, and has raised crops seasons.

Ques. 9. What improvements are on the land, and what is their value?
An. Prime house, 15x17 ft., of 2 rooms; barn, 40x20 ft., wood-shed; outbuildings; barn, 40x20 ft., started; fencing; trails; ditches. Well; orchard of 15 fruit trees; and small fruits; 2 acres cleared and under cultivation; value of improvements $1200.

Ques. 10. Are there any indications of coal, salines, or minerals of any kind on the homestead? (If so, describe the same, and state whether the land is more valuable for agricultural than for mineral purposes.)
An. None to my knowledge.

Ques. 11. Has the claimant mortgaged, sold, or contracted to sell, any portion of said homestead?
An. Not to my knowledge.

Ques. 12. Are you interested in this claim; and do you think the settler has acted in entire good faith in making this entry? I am not. I do.

(Sign plainly with full Christian name.)

Owen Mulholland

I certify that the foregoing testimony was read to the witness before being subscribed and sworn before me this 19th day of June, 19-- at my office in Seattle, King County, Wash.

(Sign plainly with full Christian name.)

[The testimony of witnesses must be taken at the same time and place and before the same officer as claimant's final affidavit. The answers to each and every question asked, and officers taking testimony will be expected to make no mistakes in taking the description of land or buildings.
HOMESTEAD PROOF—TESTIMONY OF WITNESS.

John M. Caywood, being called as witness in support of the homestead claim of Lars K. Anstrom for final 5 yr. proof, testifies as follows:

Ques. 1. What is your name, age, and post-office address?
Ans. John M. Caywood; age 36 yr.; P.O. address Ozette, Wash.

Ques. 2. Are you well acquainted with the claimant in this case and the land embraced in his claim?
Ans. Yes, I am. The land is SW sec. 23, T. 51 N., R. 16 W., W.M.

Ques. 3. Is said tract within the limits of an incorporated town or selected site of a city or town, or used in any way for trade or business?
Ans. No.

Ques. 4. State specifically the character of this land—whether it is timber, prairie, grazing, farming, orchard, or mineral land.
Ans. It is timbered agricultural land such as when acquired cleared and fit for farming purposes, and there is also a small fruiting, 50-60 pole. The orchard has 23, 27 acres cultivated, value or improvements about $500.

Ans. He settled on this land in June, 1902, and established actual residence at the same time, building his cabin and making a garden.

Ques. 6. Have claimant and family resided continuously on the homestead since first establishing residence thereon? (If settler is unmarried, state the fact.)
Ans. He is not married. He has made this land his only home since he settled there in 1902.

Ques. 7. For what period or periods has the settler been absent from the land since making settlement, and for what purpose; and if temporarily absent, did claimant's family reside upon and cultivate the land during such absence?
Ans. Since settling there in June, 1902, and up to the present time has been away about 4 months each year, for the purpose of earning money to improve the land and support himself.

Ques. 8. How much of the homestead has the settler cultivated, and for how many seasons did he raise crops thereon? (If used for grazing only, describe fencing, state number and kind of stock grazed and by whom owned.)
Ans. He has about 2 or 27/8 acres cultivated, and has raised crops 5 seasons, with a crop in the ground.

Ques. 9. What improvements are on the land, and what is their value?
Ans. Frame house, 15x17 ft., with porch on each side, 2 rooms in the house; barn, 20x30 ft., partly built; an old cabin, 12x14 ft., used as stable; wooded; well; fencing, 150 poles; orchard of 23, 27 acres, value or improvements about $500.

Ques. 10. Are there any indications of coal, salines, or minerals of any kind on the homestead? (If so, describe what they are, and state whether the land is more valuable for agricultural than for mineral purposes.)
Ans. None to my knowledge.

Ques. 11. Has the claimant mortgaged, sold, or contracted to sell, any portion of said homestead? Not to my knowledge.
Ans. Not to my knowledge.

Ques. 12. Are you interested in this claim; and do you think the settler has acted in entire good faith in perfecting this entry?
Ans. I am not. I do.

I hereby certify that the foregoing testimony was read to the witness before being subscribed and sworn to before me this 19th day of June, 1903, at my office at Seattle, in King County, Wash.

[Signature of witness]

[See note on fourth page.]
HOMESTEAD PROOF—TESTIMONY OF CLAIMANT.

Lars K. Ahljstrom, having been called as a witness in his own behalf in support of homestead entry No. 18797, for Final Ex. 5 Yr. D001, testifies as follows:

Ques. 1.—What is your name as you wish it to appear in your patent; age, and post-office address?
Ans. Lars K. Ahljstrom; age 36 years; P.O. address: Ozette, Wash.

Ques. 2.—Are you a native-born citizen of the United States, and if so, in what State or Territory were you born?
Ans. Yes. I was born in Stelian, and evidence of my naturalization is hereby submitted.

Ques. 3.—Are you the identical person who made homestead entry No. 18797, at the land office on the 18th day of Nov., 1903, and what is the true description of the land now claimed by you?
Ans. Yes. I am, and the land is the SW ¼ Sec. 26, T. 51 N., R. 16.

Ques. 4.—When did you first establish actual residence on the land? State fully acts performed by you in this connection. When was your house built on the land and when did you commence permanent occupancy thereof as a place of abode? (Describe said house and other improvements placed on the land by you, giving total value thereof)
Ans. I settled on this land on June 16, 1902, and established actual residence a week later. Built my house, 17x15 ft., 1 room; barn, 24x16 ft., 3 rooms; another barn, 16x16 ft., 2 rooms; fence enclosing 3 acres, almost valued. Who does your family consist of? Have you any family residing with you?

Ques. 5.—Since June 16, 1902, and up to the present time, I have been away about 4 months each year, for the purpose of earning money to improve the land and support myself.
Ans. I am not married. This land has been the only home that I have ever settled in June 1902.

Ques. 6.—When and for what period or periods (giving dates) have you been absent from the homestead making settlement, and for what purposes? And if temporarily absent, did your family reside upon and cultivate the land during such absence? If married woman, state whether the husband has inspected the homestead and if it has been resided on this land with you?
Ans. Since June 16, 1902, and up to the present time, I have been away about 4 months each year, for the purpose of earning money to improve the land and support myself.

Ques. 7.—How much of the land have you cultivated each season, and for how many seasons have you raised crops thereon? If used for grazing only, describe fencing, state number and kind of stock grazed, and by whom owned.
Ans. I cultivated ¼ acres the 1st season, and am now cultivating ½ acres, have raised crops for 5 seasons.

Ques. 8.—Is your present claim within the limits of an incorporated town or selected site of a city or town, or used in any way for trade and business?
Ans. It is not.

Ques. 9.—What is the character of the land? Is it timber, mountainous, prairie, grazing, or ordinary agricultural land? State its kind and quality, and for what purpose it is most valuable. It is timber, agricultural land, such as is cleared is fit for farming purposes. There are 30 acres of timothy, but no other timber.
Ans. None by my knowledge.

Ques. 11.—Have you ever made any other homestead entry? (If so, describe the same.)
Ans.

Ques. 12.—Have you sold, conveyed, agreed to sell, or mortgaged any portion of the land; and if so, name and for what purpose?
Ans. I have not.

Sec. 2289. Every person who, having taken an oath before a competent tribunal, officer, or person, in any case in which a law of the United States authorizes an oath to be administered that he will testify, depon, depose, or certify truly, or that any written testimony, declaration, deposition, or certificate by him subscribed is true, wilfully and contrary to such oath, proclamation, or certificate, not to believe to be true, is guilty of perjury, and shall, moreover, be incapable of giving testimony in any court of the United States until such time as the judgment against him is reversed. (See § 1990.)

FINAL AFFIDAVIT REQUIRED OF HOMESTEAD CLAIMANTS.

SECTION 2291. OF THE REVISED STATUTES OF THE UNITED STATES.

I, Lars K. Ahlstrom, having made a homestead entry of the Section No. 25 in Township No. 31 N.

of Range No. 16 W., W.M., subject to entry at under section No. 2289 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, do now apply to perfect my claim thereto

by virtue of section No. 2291

of the Revised Statutes of the United States; and for that purpose do solemnly swear that I am naturalized

a citizen of the United States; that I have made actual settlement upon and have cultivated and paid taxes on said land since the 16th day of June, 1902, to the present time, that no part of said land has been alienated, except as provided in section 2288 of the Revised Statutes, but that I am the sole bona fide owner as an actual settler; that I will bear true allegiance to the Government of the United States; and, further, that I have not heretofore perfected or abandoned an entry made under the homestead laws of the United States.
