

from Jo-Ann Swanson phone call, early July '03:

--Rich Roeder used to say that Paris Gibson was the only northerner who laid out a Montana city, the resulting straight lines of Great Falls' grid. (Quick look at MT highway map indeed shows other cities w/ odd joins and angles, though I don't know the history of their layouts.)