HONORS

Rena J. Ratte Award

The Rena J. Ratte Award is the highest academic honor granted to a student by the faculty of Lewis & Clark College. This award is granted annually to the outstanding senior in the graduating class. The sixteenth annual award was presented to Noreen Miye Nakagawa, Bachelor of Arts, major in psychology.

Departmental Honors

In 1976 the faculty instituted a program of granting specific departmental honors to those students who have performed at an unusually high degree of academic excellence in special programs designed and administered by individual departments. These students have been approved by their representative departments to receive departmental honors for the 1986-87 academic year.

ACADEMIC COSTUME

The tradition of academic dress began several centuries ago in chill universities where cap and gown and hood were needed for covering and warmth. Subsequently this has become a ceremonial costume with certain standardized features. For example, sleeves in the bachelor's gown are pointed; in the master's gown, oblong with arms projecting at the elbow; in the doctor's gown, bell-shaped. Only the doctor's gown has velvet facing. The hood is lined with the official colors of the degree-conferring institution. For Lewis & Clark these are black and orange. The outside trimming of the hood signifies the subject in which the degree was conferred.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Mace

The ceremonial mace emphasizes convergence of diverse cultures. The mace is the medieval symbol of authority. When placed in state on the rostrum, it indicates that Parliament is in session. The “speaker’s staff” of the Northwest Indians was used in a similar manner, in that whoever in the Council held the staff was acknowledged to have the floor.

The mace used in the Lewis & Clark commencement was carved for the college by Bill Holm, curator of Northwest Coast Indian art, Thomas Burke Memorial Museum, Seattle. In the form of a chieftain’s staff, it is a brief reminder of the history of the Northwest. At the base is a frog representing man’s primordial beginnings. The shell-studded space above the frog is symbolic of the passing eons of time from the beginnings of life in the Northwest to the first man, represented by the Indian. The Hudson’s Bay Company and the historic fur trade period—the territorial days and the State of Oregon—are symbolized by the beaver. Crowning the ceremonial staff is the eagle, universal symbol of strength and power, representing the ultimate destiny of the region as part of the United States.

Ushers

Ushers for this occasion are members of the Lewis & Clark student body.

Receptions

Following the commencement exercises, receptions honoring the graduates of Lewis & Clark College and their guests will be held in the following places:

Graduate School of Professional Studies, at the Grape Arbor, Lower Campus, or the BoDine Breezeway.

College of Arts and Sciences, on the lawn between Odell Manor and Templeton College Center or in Stamm Dining Room in Templeton College Center.
