NNUAL DEBATE THIS EVENING

nnual Interclass Debate Will be Held in Assembly Room This Evening. Both Teams Well Prepared

This evening in the college assembly ll, beginning at eight o'clock, will be eld the ninth annual interclass de- ate. It will probably be one of the osest and most interesting debates er held at the college. Both teams ve been working hard for the last veral weeks, the sophomores under e direction of A. Paul Thompson and e freshmen under Alfred Eberle in reparation for the event. The time e past week has been almost entirely ven over to rebuttal work, and the aches promise an exciting and inter- ting contest. The freshman team con- sts of Talbot Thompson, Emmet Rior- n and Don Langohr, all of whom ve had enough previous experience debate to put up a very creditable owing. The sophomore team is com- sed of David Steel, Albert Anderson d Hurford Stone.

This interclass debate has come to be garded with a great deal of interest the college student body, and it is rtain that the interest this year is as rge as it ever was. The main speeches ll be limited to eight minutes in ngth and the rebuttals to five, ac- rding to the recommendations of the nate committee on debate. The time- epers will be Howard Seamans of the phomore class and Jay Duquette of e freshman class. Prof. I. T. Gil- th of the English department, Prof. H. Holst of the agricultural depart- nt, and Prof. R. A. Cooley of the ology, have been secured as judges accordance with the custom of sel- ting judges from the faculty. The esident of the debate council will pre- le.

The freshman-sophomore classes will ve a joint dance afterwards in the ill hall, and the committees for this rt of the evening's entertainment ve practically perfected their ar- rangements. This dance has also be- me a part of the annual affair.

IONTANA WINS PRIZES AT LEWISTON SHOW

ontana Stock Carry Off Several Prizes at Idaho Stock Show. College Men are Interested

Many prizes were won by Montana ockmen at the Northwestern Live ock show held at Lewiston, Idaho, cember 1-6. This live stock show is annual affair, and has grown to be e of the largest interstate shows of kind in the country. It is on the der of the International Stock show ld each year at Chicago. It takes in ontana, Idaho, Washington and Ore- n.

Mr. Harry Summers of Bozeman, sent carload of choice cattle which won ny prizes. His two-year-old pure- ed Shorthorn bull, sired by "Pontiac ," the herd bull of the experiment ation, was declared grand champion eer. Besides this Mr. Summers won st on two-year-old steers, first on o-year-old bulls, second on aged cows, cond on two-year-old heifers, first on arling heifers, second on yearling lls, first on senior heifer, first on nior heifer, second on junior bull lf, second on yearling steer. The and champion was fed at the college om Nov. 1st, 1912, to May 1st, 1913. e was taken on the college demonstra- on train last May. The steer weighed 540 pounds, shrunk, and is expected dress 67 per cent of the live weight.

At the final banquet, given on the ening of Dec. 6th, over 1,000 men ere present. The treatment given to e visiting stockmen was of the best, d all who attended are enthusiastic er the prospects of the show for the ture. On the last day of the show ecial trains were run from Spokane d Pendleton, Oregon. Gov. Liecester Washington, Henry Roberts, super- tendent of the horse show, and Col. mburger of Oregon, gave addresses.

The college band gave one of its pop- ular dances in the drill hall last Friday evening, and about sixty couples were present to enjoy the good music and dancing. The dance was not announced until Thursday evening, and many of the people on the hill did not know about it until it was over. This dance closed the college functions before the holidays, and probably the last public appearance of the band this year.

Immediately after school opens after the holidays, the annual band carnival will be held in the drill hall, and prep- arations have already been started for this event.

REV. BENNETT IN ASSEMBLY

Minister Addresses Students on Volun- teer Movement. Delegates Chosen for Montana State

At the assembly held last Friday, the Reverend G. G. Bennett addressed the students. He spoke on the Student Volunteer convention, which is to be held in Kansas City the latter part of December, and urged the students to send delegates to that great gathering. After Rev. Bennett's talk, Miss Geor- gia Cullom and "Teddy" Roosevelt were elected as delegates to the con- vention.

The Rev. Mr. Bennett was introduced by Vice-President Brewer of the col- lege. He opened his talk by saying that the greatest question ever asked God by man was, "Am I my brother's keeper?"

"The solution of this question," he said, "is nearer today than ever be- fore." He continued by saying that the world is making greater strides in its development now than at any other time. The telephones, telegraphs and cables link all the nations together into one big family so that we no longer consider other nations much different from our own.

"No longer is one nation, state or community sufficient unto itself," said he. Continuing, he said that in this day of civilization we are sympathetic of the misfortunes of other communi- ties, and send aid to those who suffer from disasters, whether they are near us or not. Thus we are learning to be our "brother's keeper." But even yet the tendency is to "spiritualize the dol- lar and commercialize the man." And to do this is to jeopardize humanity.

The speaker then went on to say that it was to discourage this commercial- ization of man that such gatherings as the Student Volunteer convention are held. Some people think these conven- tions are held for the discussion of in- tangible and visionary subjects. This, however, is not so, for the primary pur- pose of these conventions is to get the opinions of the wisest men of the time on the great questions of the day.

"The child is father of the man," said the speaker, "and the eyes of future years are upon the present gen- erations." The great question to be discussed at the Volunteer convention is how to make the world a family of peace and harmony so that each gen- eration may show a distinct advance- ment over its predecessor.

"If you send delegates to this con- vention," said Mr. Bennett, "you will lend aid to one of the best and greatest movements the world has known. The United States is looked upon as the great "melting pot of the world." If we can weld all these people of differ- ent nationality into a great spiritualistic commonwealth, we will have done a great work. If you send delegates to the convention in Kansas City, you will hear of the work and plans of renowned men who have given their lives to this question. We are our brother's keeper just so far as we make ourselves an integral part of the part of the present civilization.

After Rev. Bennett concluded his re- marks, Miss Cullom and Mr. Roosevelt were elected delegates to the confer- ence. Miss Cullom will leave shortly before Christmas so as to be in Kansas City when the convention opens on the thirtieth of December. Mr. Roosevelt, who was called to his home in Iowa some time ago on business, will go from there. It is probable that President Hamilton, who intends to spend part of the Christmas recess in the Middle West, will also be present at the con- ference.

TAYLOR CREEK FALLS

PRESIDENT HAMILTON RETURNS FROM PLEASANT EASTERN TRIP

President Hamilton Returned Friday from a Three Weeks Trip--Attended Meeting of College Presidents in Washington and Visited Several Colleges

President Hamilton has returned from an extended trip to Washington and other eastern points. During his stay he attended the meeting of the Asso- ciation of Agricultural college presidents and the meeting of the National Con- servation congress, both held in Wash- ington and the International Livestock show at Chicago. He spent Thanksgiv- ing week with his two brothers in Illi- nois.

On his trip east President Hamilton visited the Universities of Wisconsin and Minnesota and then went on to Washington where the sessions of the college presidents were held. One of the principal matters up for discussion at these meetings was the Lever bill which provides for a grant of $10,000 for ex- tension purposes for each land grant college in the United States. It further provides for an increase each year in proportion to the agricultural popula- tion of each state on condition that the state furnish a like sum to be added to the original $10,000. The bill was be- fore congress at the last regular ses- sion and failed to pass by a slight mar- gin. Means of securing its passage were discussed and it will be presented at the present regular session. Among the speakers present who favored the pas- sage of the bill was Secretary of Agri- culture Houston. In speaking the bill, President Hamilton said that it seemed to be almost certain to pass this time. The passage of this bill will mean much to the college. It will also mean a great deal toward the progress of scientific farm management throughout the coun- try, as it is only through extension work that the greater part of the farmers of the United States can be reached.

Another matter of general interest that was taken up was military instruc- tion in the land grant colleges. Gen- eral Leonard Wood, head of the United States army, spoke on this subject and it is expected that there will be some changes in the manner in which this part of the work is being conducted as it is felt by some that it is a failure It is possible that drill will be estab- lished at the college if the changes out- lined at the meetings are made. Another matter of general interest that was taken up was the problem of city boys taking courses in agriculture. Often- times a boy from the city will enter an agricultural course having had no experience on the farm. He is handi- capped and in some cases a person will complete the course without having had the practical work of the farm. Means of solving this problem were discussed and it was the general feeling that a boy from the city should be required to spend his summers in farm work to make up the handicap imposed upon him in not having had the experience of the farm boy.

During the week following the meet- ing of the presidents of the land grant colleges, President Hamilton attended the meeting of the National Conserva- tion congress as one of the Montana delegates. All present seemed to be agreed that there should be conserva- tion of the resurces of the nation, but as how, and where the income from the national forests, coal beds and other na- tural resources should go, there was a difference of opinion, the delegates from the east holding out for national control with the money derived from the national resources going to the fed- eral government and the southern and western states, taking the stand that the control of the natural resources should be in the hands of the states and the revenue derived therefrom should go toward the development of the states within whose boundaries natural wealth of the country lies. President Hamilton said that the meetings were exciting and some warm debates were heard between the champions of the two sides.

From Washington, President Hamil- ton went to Illinois points where he visited during the Thanksgiving holi- days with his brothers and from there he went to Chicago to attend the Inter- national Livestock show. The judging contest between college teams in which Montana State was entered two years ago, was held a week ago yesterday and Texas was the winner with Missouri coming second. The Canadian teams which made such a wonderful showing two years ago were entirely outclassed this year by the American teams. Presi- dent Hamilton stated last night that it was a splendid show with about 8,000 of the best horses and cattle in the United States on exhibition. The show lasts a week each year. In speaking of the fine cattle there President Hamil- ton stated that some of it was coming to Montana as Mr. Anceny, of the Chill, Anceny and Summers company, secured some stock among his purchases being the grand champion shorthorn cow at the show.

The weather throughout the east was bad most of the time, particularly in the middle states, and after leaving Washington, except for a few hours Thanksgiving day, President Hamilton stated that he did not see the sun un- til he reached the Yellowstone coun- try. While on the trip President Hamil- ton saw a number of graduates of the college in Washington and other Boze- man people. He reports a splendid trip.

SHOW SCORES A GREAT HIT

Vaudeville Show Given by College Stu- dents is a Great Success. Num- bers are All Good

The caste of the vaudeville show last Saturday evening proved to be better than the reports that came in from all over the United States promised. They were reported to be an unexcelled caste, and they certainly lived up to their rep- utation. A fairly good crowd witnessed this performance, and a lot more would have had they known the superior char- acter of the play. The performance opened with a song by a quartet made up of the Misses Eckles and Cullom and the Messrs. Steel and Truitt.

Fluhr, Manning, Jacobs and Maddox next came out on the stage as vaude- ville actors and sang a comic song. They were called on for an encore, and Fluhr and Manning gave a classic dance that met with spontaneous approval by the audience.

Miss Herrick then read a number of Paul Dunbar's poems in a very enter- taining manner. Among others, she gave "The Poet and His Song," "An- geline Johnson" and "Sambo's Pray- er."

The lights were then turned off and Jannelle Lund came out on the stage dressed as a ghost and sang a ghost song in a very pleasing manner.

Manning then appeared in a novelty dancing and singing stunt that earned him two well deserved encores. Fluhr then appeared on the scene of action dressed up as a coon, and he and Man- ning executed some dances and enter- tained the audience with humorous songs and sketches.

The next on the program was a solo by Hamilton Steele, which was ren- dered in a pleasing manner. He first sang "The End of a Perfect Day," and then responded to an encore.

Bill Fluhr then gave a baseball pan- tomime. This brought down the house, especially when it was learned that the reason that he was such a good baseball player was because he was always try- ing to make a hit.

The orchestra then entertained the audience with several selections, and were encored a number of times, res- ponding with favorite college pieces.

A minstrel troupe of darkies came on the platform and cracked jokes and gave a number of takeoffs on the fac- ulty and students. This proved to be very enjoyable, and was received with a great deal of appreciation. The chorus of darkies then sang "Floating Down the River," one or two other selections, and ended up with "So Say We All of Us."

William Fluhr thanked the audience for their attendance and for the ap- preciation and interest they showed in the performance, and finally bade them all good night.

This performance was given for the purpose of raising funds to send stu- dent delegates to the quadrennial con- ference of the Student Volunteer move- ment in Kansas City. It is reported that about $40 was taken in. About $20 more will be necessary to make up the required fund for sending these delegates.

FRESHMAN-SOPHOMORE MEETING

A joint meeting of the freshmen and sophomores was held Tuesday for the purpose of discussing the dance. It was decided to make the dance open to the public, as that seemed the only way to meet the expenses. The dance will begin immediately after the debate, which will be held in the assembly hall.

ORCHESTRA TO GIVE PROGRAM

College Orchestra Will Give First As- sembly Program Today. Excellent Music Assured

The Montana State college orchestra will give its second annual concert at the regular assembly, held today at 11 a. m. This was the date for the reg- ular band assembly but, because the band has been heard so much this year, it was decided to turn the time over to the college orchestra.

The orchestra was founded a little over a year ago, and since that time, under the leadership of Prof. F. O. Jackson of the college school of music, has made rapid progress. The organ- ization which had an original enroll- ment of eight, is now composed of twenty members, as follows:

First violin—R. F. Miller, Miss Cul- lom, D. Grey, Miss Coffey; second vio- lin—P. Davidson, R. Clarkson, Miss Lyons; cello—R. A. Barnes, F. C. Miller; flute—M. H. Spaulding; cornet—J. Wy- lie, E. Rapatz; clarinet—E. Jacobs, O. Batch, P. T. Scott; trombone—C. A. Timmons, E. Ronne; drums—Miss Hol- lier; piano—Miss Alexander; director—Prof. F. O. Jackson.

At the concert this morning the fol- lowing program will be rendered:

1—March.

BOZEMAN IS TO HAVE A CHORAL SOCIETY

Meeting Held Monday Evening is Well Attended. Prof. Bishop of the College to Direct Society

Bozeman is to have a choral society and the college will take an active part in the work of the organization.

The meeting held in the Presbyterian church Monday evening, after selecting Dr. W. C. Dawes as temporary chair- man and C. A. Truitt as temporary sec- retary, resolved to have such an organ- ization. Professor Bishop will direct the society, and at least forty students of the college will sing in the chorus.

At a meeting to be held in the same place next Monday evening, officers will be elected and by-laws and a con- stitution will be adopted. A committee consisting of U. H. Bishop, Miss Lora Maxwell, Miss Helen Spain, J. W. Yer- gey and W. F. Brewer was appointed to take care of this matter.

A short rehearsal will be held after the business meeting, and this, with the work done before the close of the the business meeting, will be all the work done before the colse of the Christmas holidays. "The Rose Maid," by Cowen, will be the first work stud- ied, and this or some other work to be studied later, will be given some time before spring, probably during the latter part of April.

Professor Bishop is much pleased with the prospects, and he was delight- ed with the number who attended the first meeting. The college material is good and, with the wealth of material in Bozeman, there is no reason why a choral society the equal of any to be found in any town the size of Boze- man should not be developed. Such an organization will provide musical treats for the people of Bozeman and the col- lege, and it will aid in the work of bringing the college in close touch with the activities of Bozeman.

CALENDAR.

Freshman-Sophomore Dance, Drill Hall, Friday, December 12.

The Club Room Question

Since the early part of last month apparently nothing has been done to put the club rooms on the basis on which they should be placed. At that time it was decided to sell membership cards at a cost of one dollar apiece, and a few students bought them—the same ones, by the way, that always help out in college affairs financially as well as with their own personal ability. At the same time, others who have not purchased cards are enjoying the privileges of the rooms as much as those who paid for the privilege. No further mention of this point is necessary, as any one can see the injustice of it.

It was then the talk to organize a permanent club with regularly elected officers to care for the many details that come up in the management of such an enterprise. At present the rooms are in the hands of a joint committee of faculty members and students, a large part of whom are probably but little interested in the rooms, and who therefore shift the responsibility to other shoulders than their own all the time. Such a plan can never be a success. There must be some form of organization and, unless this is perfected soon, is it more than likely that the control of the rooms will revert back to the faculty entirely. At present the floors are dirty a large part of the time. This is not the janitor's fault; it is the fault of the management. The paraphernalia in the billiard and pool room is not in good condition; this is due to the fact that there is no one who is given the responsibility for keeping the equipment in good condition. The few decks of cards in the general card and lounging room are worn out; there should be new ones, and probably more of them. The fault lies in the fact that there is no management of the rooms. The members of the committee are not altogether to be blamed. They, for the most part, have innumerable other duties to care for—their interest is in something else.

But here is a plan which it seems should at least make for a better chance of having the rooms kept in the condition they should be kept in. That plan is that if the committee cannot or will not take the right care of the matter, they should call a meeting of the students and faculty members holding membership cards and assist in the formation of a club. Then, when a president has been elected, there will be someone responsible for the upkeep of the rooms. That is, providing the members act wisely and elect a person who has shown an interest in them, and one who is not so entangled in other duties but that he can devote at least a little time to the care of the duties that would devolve on the president of such an organization. The college has given the rooms to the students outright, it pays for the cleaning of them, and the students should at least show enough appreciation of them to see that they are cared for. The matter is now in the hands of a joint committee of faculty members and students and, before things have gone any further, it seems that something should be done to make for the better care of the club rooms. Organize a club, if that plan looks the best, or work out some other scheme; but do something.

The Debate Tonight

The debate teams of the two lower classes will meet tonight in the college assembly hall for their annual clash and, just at this time, it might be well to say a few words in regard to this activity at the college. In the first place, the members of the lower classes probably take more part in debate than the rest of the college, so by attending this contest the students will have the opportunity of hearing the men who will probably do the most of the college debating this year in the big contests. While it may be regrettable that this is the state of affairs, it is impossible to avoid such a condition in a practical school; for, by the time the average student with debating ability has become a junior, he has usually been drafted into a number of other activities generally more to the technical man's liking, and hence there is a lack of interest in debate among upper classmen. However, if the college is going to debate, there should not be this lack of interest.

It would be better to drop debate entirely than to endeavor to hold contests under the conditions under which the men have sometimes had to work at this institution. It is a form of activity not attended with a lot of noise, there is no Boosterine section, there are no scrimmages with a part of the excitement of the real game and with a crowd of onlookers there to see the ability of the people in the game. All there is for the man on the team is a steady grind of several hours a day for six weeks or two months. Then, without at least a word of encouragement from the students once in a while and lots of interest on the night of the contest—or, in other words, a good crowd on the night of the contest—is there any wonder that debate does not thrive at Montana State. It is true that the college has held its own in this activity, having defeated its rival across the mountains once and lost once, and having won from Utah A. C. about as regularly as the teams have lost. But at what odds.

One of two things must be done. First, the college student body, the faculty and friends of the institution must get behind this activity and boost it if Montana State is to remain in the debate field. There must be some interest in the activity. Whether there is or not will be partially seen tonight from the crowd that turns out for the lower class contest. Without this interest in debate, the college can never hope to make more than a fair showing in the game and, better than that, is to drop the activity.

This may seem rather severe, and it may be unfortunate to have to drop debate, but such a course would be better than for the college to send teams away from the city to meet rival teams when the college must be represented that has nothing but its own self behind it.

DISSLY OPENS CREAMERY

The following clipping from the Helena Record will be of interest to college people:

"The old creamery plant in the Sixth ward, the stock in which is held by local merchants, is to be reopened by F. L. Dissly of Bozeman, who has obtained a two years' lease with an option to purchase. The plant has a capacity of 1,000 pounds of butter a day.

"Mr. Dissly will begin operations in January. He has plenty of capital behind him in the enterprise and will be prepared to pay cash for cream. Mr. Dissly is now taking a special course in dairying at Montana State college, but will arrive here soon to make a thorough canvass of the territory.

"Mr. Dissly is counting upon the support of Helena merchants in the enterprise, to the extent at least that if his butter is of the same quality as the foreign butter they will buy the home product.

"The reopening of this creamery will be of great benefit to the farmers in the valley, it is believed, and that it will put in circulation a good deal of ready money."

Mr. Dissly is a member of the senior class of the college, and has been a consistent booster of all college activities since his arrival here almost three years ago. He holds the degree of Bachelor of Arts from Ohio Northern university, but took up the agricultural course at the college almost three years ago, recognizing the value of a technical course. He will endeavor to finish his work by outside study and taking of examinations. He left last Tuesday morning for Helena and, while he will make occasional trips to Bozeman, he will spend most of his time in Helena. The students of the college hope that success may attend Mr. Dissly in this business venture.

SPECIAL PROGRAM FOR CHRISTIAN ORGANIZATIONS

Arrangements are being made by committees from both the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. for a special Christmas program of the two organizations, to be given a week from Wednesday at eight o'clock in the college assembly hall. Rev. Chas. Puehler, state Y. M. C. A. secretary, will give an interesting address, and many fine and beautiful musical numbers will be presented.

The college Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. quartettes will give a number of selections and other musical numbers, consisting of solos, and string instrument numbers will be a feature of the evening.

Y. W. C. A.

A regular recognization meeting of all the new members will be held Friday noon at the usual time in Miss Cehrs' room. A special program has been arranged by the committee in charge, and new and old members are asked to attend.

The regular weekly meetings will be held at Friday noon at the usual time in the future.

S. S. S. CLUB

The S. S. S. club, the organization of the junior girls taking home science, was entertained at the home of Mrs. Kleinschmidt, Miss Goodson's sister, by the Misses Kennard and Myers last Saturday afternoon. The first part was pleasantly spent in a sewing and social way and later refreshments were served.

SOPHOMORE CLASS MEETING

The sophomore class held a meeting last Friday to discuss matters in connection with the interclass debate. A committee, with Vic Cotner as chairman, was appointed to make arrangements with a committee from the freshman class for a dance to be held after the debate. The progress of the debating team was mentioned as being quite satisfactory.

For the fourth year, a course in the study of the liquor problem with college credit is offered by the economics department of Iowa Wesleyan university.

COLLEGE NOTES

The Misses Taylor, Coffey, Wilson and Pool of the junior class entertained the other members of their class taking the home science course at a dinner given in the home science rooms yesterday evening at five thirty. The young ladies also invited Misses Hunt, Ballinger and Baldwin to be their guests at the affair.

Ed Jacobs and Edwin Ronne left for Three Forks Wednesday afternoon, where they played for a dance the same evening, returning home early the next morning.

HANDICRAFT CLUB.

The Handicraft club held its regular meeting last Saturday afternoon in the art rooms of the college. A short business session was held, at which it was decided that of the six designs suggested as a trade mark for the club, the one proposed by Miss Clara Flanders was the most appropriate, and accordingly it was adopted. It is a conventional design of two figures that form an "H." The remainder of the afternoon was spent in doing work along much the same lines that the students are carrying on in their college art classes.

JACK O'LANTERNS.

The Jack o'Lantern Dramatic club held its regular weekly meeting last Thursday evening. The routine business of the club was transacted, and rehearsal of "The Sleeping Car Farce," the play which it had been originally intended to give in assembly some time ago, was held. The work of the caste at that time was so heavy that the club was forced to postpone the date of the play, but the probabilities are that it will be given in assembly shortly after the Christmas recess.

The Climber

When an army pack mule is being loaded for an expedition, his eyes are covered and as great a burden is lashed on his back as he can carry.

The only diference between this patient beast and a certain number of undergraduates is that the mule is blindfolded. Every man ought to know when his load is heavy enough, just as he should have the good sense to refuse an excessive one. Unfortunately, many forget that every election gained, every competition won, every appointment received means work in the future. To the man who picks and chooses among the positions open to him, comes an adequate heritage of interesting pursuits, which he has selected to suit his taste and ability. To the climber, the office-seeker or the thoughtless one, come unsuitable, uninteresting labor, late hours and neglect of the curriculum.

It is among men of the latter type that we find the treasurer who never made out a check, the cotillion leader who never attended a dance, and the manager who never could keep his own accounts straight—a condition that can be remedied only by the exercise of discrimination by those who have the power to give offices and by those who receive them.—Yale News.

"Is that clock right?" asked the visitor, who had already outstayed his welcome. His hostess yawned.

"Oh, no!" she said. "That's the clock we always call the Visitor."

The obdurate one sat down again. "The Visitor?" he remarked. "What a curious name to give a clock."

His hostess ventured an explanation. "You see," she cooed sweetly, "we call it that because we can never make it go."

And even then he failed to see the point.—London Answers.

No matter how fast a young man is, he seldom catches up with his good intentions.—N. Y. Times.

JUNIOR CLASS MEETING

The junior class held a meeting last Friday, at which several matters of business were discussed. Mr. Davidson, editor of the Annual, made a report on the work done on the book, showing that it is advancing as well as could be expected. Mr. Fiske, business manager, also stated that he was making good progress on his end of the book.

The matter of being represented by a basketball team in the interclass tournament was next brought up, and it was decided that a manager should be elected to take care of the team. Roy Malsor was elected to this position.

The junior "Prom" was mentioned and, after considerable discussion, dues were decided upon for the remainder of the year, which is was thought would be ample to defray all expenses of the affair.

FRESHMAN MEETING

A meeting of the freshman class was held last Friday. The financial report of the class was read. A committee composed of Arthur Hoem and Ralph Jorgenson was appointed to collect unpaid dues. The freshman-sophomore dance committee was also appointed. It consists of Whit Manning, Jay Duquette and Miss Marigold. "Baby John" Garvin was elected as doorkeeper for the dance.

SENIOR CLASS MEETING

At the meeting of the senior class, held last Friday, Wm. Hodgskiss was elected as manager of the class basketball team. Max Kenck was appointed chairman of the committee to look after securing individual pictures of the entire class, to be assembled on one sheet, for each member.

The University of Wisconsin has an undergraduate eighty-two years old. Mrs. Amy Winship, who is corresponding with Juan Brunez, ninety years old, a wealthy Spaniard living in the Philippines, has just taken up the study of English. After he was seventy years old, Senor Brunez completed his high school course and then took up the study of shorthand and stenography.

My Symphony.

To live content with small means; to seek elegance rather than luxury; and refinement rather than fashion; to be worthy, not respectable; and wealthy, not rich.

To study hard, think quietly, talk gently, act frankly;

To listen to stars and birds, babes and sages with open hearts;

To bear all cheerfully;

Do all bravely;

Await occasions;

Hurry never;

In a word, to let the spiritual, unbidden and unconscious grow up through the common.

This is to be my symphony.

BASKETBALL

Arrangements for the basketball trip into the territory of the Mormons are almost completed. The team will begin the southern invasion in the early part of February and will play all the teams of importance in Utah. The first contests of the trip, however, will be played on Montana floors with the School of Mines at Butte and the college at Missoula, and it is hoped that the Montana championship will be clinched in these two games.

The Missoulians are especially anxious for a game, as also are the Miners. With two of the strongest teams that ever wore their colors in the field, these institutions must not be taken too lightly, especially in view of the fact that the blue and gold will be defended by practically a new team which must be rounded into shape in a little over one month.

Although the practice games are showing improvement, there still seems to be that lack of pep and vim that brings out the finer points of the game. This may be excusable in a measure by the fact that the players on the first squad have never played together before and are not accustomed to the different styles of play.

But this strangeness must wear off before any championship contests are played. Although it is far from the policy of this paper to utter anything in the nature of a knock, it might be well to say that Montana State cannot retain the championship on her past reputation in basketball. She must produce the goods. There is plenty of good material out, and if the men will get together when the final reckoning comes, there will be no doubt as to who shall wear the laurels.

Some of the members of the second squad are forging ahead, and it seems that the choice of a first team is further away than ever. Lott, who is now playing with the regulars, is showing wonderful speed this year at forward. "Howson" subbed all last year and proved his worth more times than once as a general uttiilty man. Lott is throwing baskets from all angles on the floor, and it would not be out of place if he should appear on the regular line-up this year.

Seamans also subbed part of the time last year but was never given a chance to take part in a game. Hod is accurate in his passes and almost a sure shot at the basket. What he lacks in weight he makes up in speed on the floor, and he will be another strong candidate for a position at forward.

Bill Hodgskiss is out for guard. Bill's one great ambition is to fill his brother's place at guard. He certainly has the qualities to fill the place when it comes to bulk, and a little more speed will make him an equal in all respects.

Another forward whose playing is worthy of note is Jack Milburn. Jack has only been out for the last three or four nights, but it is easy to see that he is much faster and better than last year. Jack likes anything in athletics, from football to track, but his favorite game is basketball.

Immediately after the Christmas holidays the teams which are to represent the various classes will get together for practice. The interclass games come off after exams, and at that time there is great rivalry for the championship. No doubt the practice for these games will bring out a great deal more material for the regulars to work upon.

Oh! Those Headlines!

Say, you folks who read the papers,
I mean you—and you—and you;
Do you know what sort of capers
Those who edit them must do?

Did you ever stop to cipher
What a task is his who pools
The intelligence you cry for,
In between two column rules?
When an automobile smashes
(As one does most every day)—
If we can't say "Auto Crashes,"
What the dickens can we say?

Colonel Roosevelt's wild progressives
May some theme in conclave greet,
But the head must bar possessives
And say, blindly, "Moosers Meet."

"Moosers Meet" may tell the story,
But it isn't what you'd write
If mere literary glory
Were the only thing in sight.
When "investigators" hover
'Round the surface of the globe,
Ah! it's then you may discover
What a useful word is "probe."

And there's others I might mention,
Such as "ban" and "bar" and "slain,"
Which are used with no intention
Of affording readers pain.

You may talk about the trouble
That it is to pack a trunk.
When you want to carry double
What the thing will hold in junk.

But believe these honest pen words
Of a person who has tried;
It's a cinch to putting ten words
In three columns eight words wide.

This is Awful
