

BOBCATS BATTLE TOMORROW WITH THE WESLEYAN

The M. S. C. to Play the First Game of the Season With the Methodists. Prospects of Winning the Game Excellent.

The Bobcats will have their first game of the season with Montana Wesleyan Saturday at three on the Roundup Stadium. Wesleyan has the edge on the Bobcats having been training since September 15 while the college has only been in training since the 28.

The Wesleyan has a strong line up this year and fully expects to place at least second in the finals for the state championship. They are playing a game featured by forward passing and wide tackle plays which makes a good showing so far.

The M. S. C. line up is stronger than ever this year with several of the varsity men back and hitting the line hard. Capt. Morphy is the same old fire eating machine and is confident that his team will clean up every thing this fall.

The line up for the Saturday game will probably be as follows; J. Mashin L. E. L. Mashin R. E. Cap. Morphy L. T. Bush R. T. Robertson L. G. Knight R. G. Hibbert or Ashury Center. Jones or McCarren Q. B. Finch and DeVore H. Backs, and Finley or Cogswell F. B.

The following men have just reported and will be in the game as soon as they are in shape; Bryan, Huse-neyer brothers, Scotty McDonald and Atterbury.

The kicking this year will be between Bryan, Finch and McCarren. Bryan having just returned may not get in this game but we will have plenty of opportunity to see him hitting the line later on in the season.

STUDENT SENATE DISCUSS CONTEST

At a Meeting of the Student Senate, Plans are Discussed for the Campaign in the Interests of the Bond Issue.

On Thursday last President Bush called the first meeting of the new student senate. The meeting dealt entirely with measures for assisting the bond issue campaign, and finally adopted two plans for aiding the completion of the campaign. Since the students on the hill had not contributed their full share to the fund it was considered best to hold a tag day on which ribbons would be sold to raise the quota. R. E. McConnell offered to take charge of the sale of ribbons and he was given a committee to aid in the work.

The other plan was the outcome of a challenge brought over by Editor Moody of the Kaimin, the University paper. Moody carried a challenge from the students at Missoula to our students for a letter-a-day contest to boost the bond issue. The idea was to have the students of the two institutions enroll in a letter-a-day club with the object of each one writing one letter each day on behalf of initiatives 18 and 19. At the close of the contest a tabulation would be made of the letters sent with a view to ascertaining which student body had written the more letters. The senate accepted the challenge on behalf of the student body and it now lies with the students to carry the laurels from Missoula in this new contest. There seems to be evidence of considerable enthusiasm on the subject and it is expected that our student body will sign up in goodly numbers, both to "Beat Missoula" and to further the campaign in which we are so vitally interested.

After the faculty reception on Friday evening, the Hamilton Hall girls gathered in the living room for an informal fireside party and marsh-mallow toast. Everyone enjoyed Dean Herrick's delightful readings and the opportunity for getting better acquainted with the other occupants of Hamilton Hall.

SEPTIMVIRI TAKES OVER TRADITIONS

Body of Seven Makes no Radical Change in the Customs Observed by Previous Students... Hazing Period Shortened.

With the opening of the college year, the Septemviri of Montana State College have begun the work that was planned for them and have taken up the work in earnest. Septemviri is an honorary organization, composed of members of the Senior Class. It is the result of a request made by the Seniors of last year that some honor organization for Senior might be organized and the first members were chosen from that class. The members of the order are chosen by the faculty and the choice is based on scholarship, personality and the activities in which the man has taken part during his attendance at the College. The members chosen last year and who are active in the organization are Stephen C. Pierce, Harley Hollingsworth, August M. Schneider, Joe Bush and Dean Hausenman, the other two not having returned to college as yet.

The work of the Septemviri is the maintenance and protection of the college traditions as they have been formed and handed down from year to year by the successive classes. So far this year there has been no material change in the customs of the college except the shortening of the hazing period, and the addition of the flag rush in the underclass mixes that are staged. The publication of a pamphlet containing a list of directions and instructions for the new students is another work undertaken by the Septemviri. This list contains a complete compilation of the traditions and customs of the institution as well as the instructions for the freshmen.

The policy of the committee of seven has been so far not to make any radical but rather to practice conservatism in their movements. By this method they hope to be able to keep the good will of the whole student body for all time. An example of the benefits that this will make possible is the method that they have adopted in treating the freshmen who refuse to wear their traditional headgear. Any violator of the tradition will be called into the court of the Septemviri, which is the high court of the college and will be asked to give reasons for his conduct. The court will then decide upon the sentence to be imposed upon the offender. This is an improvement on the method used in former years when the offender was given no trial but was instead given a bath in the waters of the frog pond.

As soon as the Septemviri is fully organized and has made definite rules it will lose no time in executing its laws in upholding the traditions and customs of this institution which will in time become the things that typify Montana State College.

W. GIFFORD NASH PASSES AWAY

Professor of Music Dies of Pneumonia After Short Illness... Loss to the College is Felt by the Music Department.

Professor W. Gifford Nash, Director of Music and Professor of Piano, passed away Saturday evening, October 2nd, at his home on Third avenue south. Professor Nash had returned three weeks ago from Oregon where he had spent a very fine summer vacation with his family. He was suffering from a slight cold but paid no attention to this and took up the organization of the work in the School of Music with his usual vigor. On Monday, September 27, Professor Nash was not feeling so well and decided to remain at his home. During the next day or two, pleurisy developed and following this pneumonia, which proved fatal.

Professor Nash came to the college as professor of piano music five years ago. Prior to this time, he had been teacher and director of music in Portland, Oregon.

WELCOME TO MONTANA STATE.

The faculty of the College extends a cordial welcome to the students for the year 1920-21. At the close of registration last week, there were 41% more students registered than at the close of registration one year ago, and there are still quite a number of upperclass people to come in. These have been delayed on account of the lateness of the fall work but they will be in in the next few days. At the end of one week of college, the registration is 60%.

It is gratifying to note the enthusiasm with which all of the student activities are starting off. Our outlook for a good year in athletics and other student activities is excellent. The practical and very active interest by the students in the Bond and Tax campaign provides one of the most helpful means of inducing voters to act favorably on the support measures. The year 1920-21 promises to be a good one.

ALFRED ATKINSON, President.

FROSH TAKE COUNT IN FROG POND PULL

The Class of 23 Too Strong for the Infants in the Annual Event. Sophs Take Sack Rush and Flag Rush Too.

The freshman class of 1924 received their annual bath and defeat in the tug-of-war which was held over the green and slimy waters of the college frog pond last Saturday afternoon. The tug-of-war was the last of the three afternoon events which ended all under-class hostilities. The sophomores were also victorious in the flag rush and the sack rush, which were held on Gatten field.

The flag rush was held this year for the first time in several years. A large telephone pole was placed on the athletic field just in front of the bleachers and in the middle of the field. A flag for each class was placed about half way up the pole. The second year men picked a team of fifteen men and the frosh picked one of equal numbers. The teams were placed on the ten yard lines at the opposite ends of the field, and the object was to rush the pole and get the opponent's flag down.

A flying wedge was used by the sophomores, but a stumble by the lead man several feet from the pole upset their entire plan of defense. The frosh came down the field in an open formation and one minute after the gun was fired both teams were fighting to get a man up the pole. A number of attempts failed, until Felt, for the sophs, got a start that carried him up to victory.

There were twenty-five men on each team in the sack rush and they rushed for twenty-one sacks, which were placed in the center of the field. The sophs had an advantage of speed and weight and when the official count was made they had fifteen of the twenty-one sacks behind their goal.

An element of humor was introduced into the tug-of-war when the rope broke and piled both teams in big bunches. Smith, pulling for the sophomores, received a bad cut on the head when he fell back on the feet of the man behind him. The break caused a little delay until it was tied. On the second pull the knot came untied and once more the teams had a bad fall backwards. On the third attempt the services of an ex-gob were secured and he tied a knot that stood the strain.

There were twenty-five men on each of the pull teams. By tradition the sophs had the advantage of a downhill pull and it was this that enabled them to pull the wearers of the green through the slime. The water was icy cold and the frosh pulled desperately to avoid going into the water, but after the first man was in their chances were gone and their morale weakened. Shivering and smiling they came forth baptized and tested by means guaranteed to make out of them men and frosh.

WORK ON BOND ISSUE CONTINUES

Contributions Made by the Student Body in Support of the Campaign.

The beginning of the real and earnest campaign for the Bond Issue and the Tax Levy Measures that will be voted on in the coming election was outlined in the regular assembly that was held last Friday. As most of us probably know the two measures, 18 and 19, are on vital interest to all the students at this college and are deserving of the support of all the students, whether they are voters or not, and the cooperation of their friends. The bond issue as presented in Initiative Measure No. 18 is a measure that will allow the state to issue bonds for five million dollars, which will be used in the construction of new buildings and the purchasing of new apparatus for instruction and the improvement of the various courses now offered in the institution. Initiative Measure No. 19 pertains to the Tax Levy by which the different

ENVIABLE ATHLETIC RECORD BACK OF COACH GRAVES

New Coach Has a Record of Not Having Been Scored upon for Two Years. Should be one of the Biggest Athletic Coaches that this School has ever had.

Montana State College athletics for this year are under the capable leadership of Coach Graves. Mr. Graves has had eleven years experience in coaching and has turned out some wonderful teams.

He graduated from the University of Missouri in 1909 and then took a course in Physical education at Battle Creek Mich. In the fall of 1909 he was assistant football coach for the University of Idaho. The following year Mr. Graves was physical director of Bless Military School in Mecca Missouri. He built up a football team that fall that won the prep school championship for Missouri, making a total score of 169 points and having only fifteen points scored against them. For four years, up to 1915 he was athletic director for the University of Alabama and in the fall of this year he resigned and went to Texas A. & M. where he was football, track, and baseball director till his resignation in the spring of 1920.

During the winter of 1916 and 1917 Mr. Graves coached the 2nd Texas Infantry. This team captured the championship from all teams in the Texas border and was not scored on the whole winter. The following year he was with the A. & M. football team which scored 270 points to nothing, in 1918 they were scored on once and in 1919 the enormous score of 275 to nothing was piled up.

FIRST ASSEMBLY OF YEAR HELD

The Bond Issue Discussed and Contest Arranged with the University. Buffon Scholarship Cup Presented.

On last Friday the first assembly of the year was held at which time several matters of importance concerning the student body were discussed. The program began with some college songs led by Miss Katherine Keown, and assisted by Miss Helen Haller at the piano. Following this, Harold Eaton led the student body in some yells and displayed the usual amount of enthusiasm that is characteristic of Montana State.

President Atkinson and Sturent President Bush announced a challenge of the state university in which the students of this institution and the university will contest in advertising the bond issue. The contest is to be in the nature of letter writing in which the entries are expected to write at least twenty letters during the final campaign in the interests of Initiative measures 18 and 19.

During the assembly the scholarship sup which was presented to the college by the Buffons was awarded to the Omega Beta fraternity for maintaining the highest scholarship for the three quarters of last year.

Assembly was adjourned following several more college songs.

NOVEL PARTY STAGED AT HAMILTON HALL

Any one visiting Hamilton Hall on Wednesday evening might have thought he had wandered into a Kindergarten rather than a College women's dormitory. The dignified College students had all accepted an invitation to come to a Mother Goose party which was put on during the dinner hour under the direction of Miss Helen Haller, social director of the Hall.

Some of the girls appeared in short dresses, curls, and big hair bows while others were attired as small boys. Each table contested with the others in giving Mother Goose rhymes and songs which proved very enjoyable to all.

ENGINEERING NOTES

A part of the materials and equipment for the road material testing laboratory has been received and the balance has been shipped from Philadelphia. The latter shipment, which has been held up by freight congestion, is expected this month. As soon as all the equipment has arrived it will be installed and work will begin in the laboratory.

During the summer, the civil engineering department made numerous tests of road materials being used on the Federal Aid projects which the Highway Commission is now constructing in Montana.

The civil and electrical engineering departments received more calls for men this summer than could be filled.

Seven of the machine tools which were received from the government last spring have been installed in the machine shop. Another, which is incomplete is, is having the missing parts designed by the mechanicals, after which these parts will be manufactured in the shops.

Dean Norris leaves this week for Springfield, where he will attend a convention of the deans of state engineering schools. While in the east, Dean Norris will visit and examine plans and specifications of several engineering buildings, with the thought of a new engineering building in mind.

Earl Prentiss, '19, who has been connected with the General Electric company since his graduation, stopped off in Bozeman last Monday. He is on his way to San Francisco where he will be with the General Electric people.

Edmund Thien, ex-'21, an electrical student from Billings, was accidentally electrocuted this summer while in the employ of the Montana Power company at Big Timber. Thien was in the service of the U. S. for three years, serving first on the Mexican border and later as an officer in the World War. He would have graduated this year.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

The first meeting of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet was held Monday. An automobile trip and picnic were planned for the near future, also a membership campaign followed by banquet.

Miss Zada French, a national Y. W. C. A. Secretary, was present with plans for organizing a Y. W. C. A. at the High school under the supervision of the college Y. W. C. A. The plans for this organization will be completed this week. A picnic for the High School girls was planned for Friday, the eighth of October.

The Y. W. C. A. conference which was held at Seaback August 27th to September 6th was attended by six delegates from Montana, three being from Missoula, one from Dillon, and two from Bozeman. The delegates from Montana State College were the Misses Helen Haller, and Gladys Matthews, both cabinet members, who report a very successful meeting. The Y. W. C. A. organization from Montana State College was considered by far the strongest in the state due to the fine relationship between the cabinet and its advisory board. Several national secretaries held conferences with our delegates to discuss this relationship between cabinet and advisory board. A report of the Seaback conference will be made at one of the first Y. W. C. A. meetings.

ASSOCIATED STUDENTS GIVE DANCE

Despite the fact that many members of the Freshman and Sophomore classes and that others were somewhat crippled after the strenuous events of the afternoon, there was a good turn out of all classes at the first Associated Students' dance of the year.

The old drill hall presented a sight familiar to all upperclassmen and everyone enjoyed the excellent music furnished by Steve Williams' orchestra and the opportunity for a taste of M. S. C. fun and pep.

At the opening of a year so significant in the history of the Greater University of Montana, Montana State College welcomes a larger enrollment of students than it has ever known.

To all of those registering for the first time and to those who have returned to continue courses already started, the Exponent extends a hearty welcome. That you are here denotes that you have an appreciation of the value of higher education. You have made no mistake in your choice of an institution of higher learning. Let us congratulate you.

To the new students, men and women, many of whom are away from home for the first time,—remember you are here for a purpose. Do not let anything deviate you from your course. There are many temptations in your way and many things to lead you from your path. Guard against these with all your might. Go after your work as if you meant business, for your studies should in all cases receive first consideration. If any of you have come here merely for a good time, you have come to the wrong place,—Montana State College has no place for you.

We assume you are all here for business. Get busy right away. Don't put your work off. Keep up with each day's work as you go along and you will find that the examinations will take care of themselves. The student who depends on a night's "cramming" to carry him through is cheating himself out of the very thing he came here for. Remember you are in college now and on your own responsibility. Aim to derive the maximum of benefit from your course here.

Do not forget the other half of college life. Many of you will, perhaps find that you have some spare time on your hands. Use this time to advantage by taking up work in one or two of the student organizations. Remember you will get out of college just what you put into it. The habits you form here are the habits that will characterize your career after you leave. Try out for a place on an athletic or debating team, the Exponent, the band, the orchestra or one of the Glee Clubs. Develop your personality, associate with your fellow students and get their ideas, become active in student affairs. Make it a point to see that the affairs of the college are your affairs for this is to be your home for four years. The college will be just what you make it. Aim to take a prominent part in at least one or two activities; don't dabble in several. To do one thing and do it well is better than to try to do several and do all poorly. Above all put your shoulder to the wheel willingly and boost anything that promises to better past conditions. Knocking hurts those around you; it hurts yourself most of all.

Make your first year a big one and the rest of your course will take care of itself. Again we welcome you and wish you every success.

At the democratic state convention in Helena, Friday, September 10th, the platform was adopted including the following plank:

"We favor adequate present and future support of the state educational institutions, the financing of highway construction and the irrigation of public lands which may be reclaimed at reasonable cost, and call to the attention of the voters the merits of the three measures providing for bonding the state submitted for approval."

At the republican state convention, also in Helena, on Saturday, Sept. 11th, the following resolution was unanimously passed:

"The condition of higher education in Montana is precarious. Due to inefficient equipment and inadequate provision for maintenance the Greater University of Montana and allied institutions are rapidly falling behind in all that makes for intellectual and social progress. To remedy this defect we urge the electors this fall to give such favorable consideration to pending bond issues as the needs of the situation plainly require, and to vote to place Montana in the forefront in all that pertains to higher education and the care of the orphaned and unfortunate."

COFFEE CLUB HOLDS INTER-ESTING BUSINESS MEETING

The literary activities opened on the hill this year when the Coffee club met at the S. A. E. house last night. The meeting was called by Robert McConnell, commissioner of Forensics and chairman of the club, for the transaction of regular business.

The business of the Bobcat, the literary supplement of the Exponent, which was carried over from last year, was first brought up. After much discussion it was decided best to leave the date of issue and other matters concerning the paper until a committee from the club should have met with a committee from Alpha Epsilon Theta, the girl's literary, who are interested in the publication. Empowered by the meeting, Chairman McConnell instructed Jan Briggs and Vergil Gilman to meet with the co-ed committee to discuss the question. Following this meeting definite arrangements will be made as to the status of the Bobcat for the coming year.

The matters of debate for the season were taken up with the result that it was learned that there will in all probability be four intercollegiate debates on the schedule for the year. The annual debate with the Bruins will, of course, be the big debate, and in addition a new contract is under process of completion with the Utah Aggies. The other two debates, it is now expected, will come from a triangular debate league being considered with the two Dakota Aggie colleges. These will give us new opponents in our class and will furnish the students with an opportunity to hear some good debates. Before completing the contract with the Dakotas, however, it was considered advisable to investigate the financial standing of the club and the probable expense of such a league. For this purpose John Mahan and Charles Lyndon were appointed to act as a committee.

The freshmen and sophomores were warned to prepare for the impending interclass debate, the tryouts for which will be held the latter part of this month. All freshmen interested in debate work should get in touch with Prof. Owens of the English department or with Robert McConnell of the Coffee club as soon as possible. It is also hoped that the sophomores will send up a larger squad than ever for this tryout. Both classes contain an abundance of good material and, under the direction of Prof. Owen, the new coach, debate will undoubtedly have a banner year at M. S. C.

Among the freshman candidates have been noted Schurch, Moore, De Hart and Coulter. Schurch, it will be recalled, won first honors in the last state extemporaneous contest. Those on hand from the upper classes include Briggs, Gilman, McConnell, Wiles, St. Claire, Mahan, L. Lyndon, Anderson, Buckingham, Morrison and Charles Lyndon.

FRESHMAN ASSEMBLY

Yesterday afternoon at four o'clock the freshman boys were assembled in the assembly hall for the purpose of explaining the various faculty committees with which they are liable to come in contact at different times during the college year. Although it is hoped that none of the freshmen will have to meet these committees it seemed no more than right that the youngest class might know what they were running up against should they be summoned before any of these people.

A similar assembly was held for the freshmen women on the hill in the Hamilton Hall.

CHINESE TORTURE IN CLASS FIGHTS

Sophs Introduced a New Method of Torture in Class Scraps. Unusual Number of Frosh Have Their Hair Clipped.

Class fights this year exceeded all expectations and new thrills were provided for the spectator from the first day of registration. It was planned to start the big underclass argument on Thursday morning, but Tuesday night several freshmen displayed their veridancy on Main street and a bunch of second year men got nervous with a pair of clippers and sheared the unsuspecting lambs. This was the spark that started the tinder and seven o'clock Wednesday morning saw big gangs of warriors racing up and down the quiet streets of Bozeman looking for prey and giving no quarter. More than seventy-five Frosh were clipped in the process and eight or ten sophs received similar treatment.

A novelty of the fights this year was a system of torture introduced from the interior of China and brought to this country by an M. S. C. student who was traveling in the Orient in search of a Zoo-Zoo for the bugological department of the college. This form of treatment consisted of some prehistoric ritualistic work which was translated from scrolls written about the time that Jonah swallowed the whale. After the victim had received his last degree, his eyebrows were shaved, which designated him as a member of the tribe of Shang Hai (Not the popular Bozeman eating emporium).

The rumpus brought forth modern warfare personified. Immense fleets of cars with armed mensallied forth day and night in search of opponents who were foolish enough to venture forth. Heretofore the hair had been removed as Old Alexander removed his (See adv. for Gillete Safety Razors) by main force. This year they were taken to a nearby tonsorial palace and the electric clippers were brought into play, thus the mental suffering was not all that was endured by the prisoner.

The encounters gained in number and intensity until the very hour of the inter-class mix and excitement was at fever heat when the gun sounded for the flag rush. According to tradition the Frosh received their annual drubbing and then all was over and peace dwelled in the land so long torn by conflict.

state institutions will be given the necessities that they have needed for many years and have been unable to obtain on account of the lack of funds.

The opening of the final campaign will be featured in a letter writing contest in which the State University at Missoula, the State College at Bozeman and the State Normal School at Dillon, and the State School of Mines at Butte will participate. The object of the contest is the writing of letters which will be mailed to friends of the student in his home town. These letters will explain the two measures, 18 and 19 and will ask the cooperation and help of the friends in putting the Measures across. The contest had its origin at the State University and was brought to Montana State by a representative of that institution. Its basis will be the percentage of students in each institution that sign the pledge to write one letter a day for twenty days to friends who are voters in the state. This will not only explain the whole affair to the people of the state but will also spread the news that there is to be such a matter to be voted on in the coming elections. It will also serve to keep the matter fresh in the minds of the voters and their votes will not be cast in ignorance of the measures that they are voting on.

Another feature of the campaign is the sticker that will be pasted on very letter that leaves the institution for any place in the state. These stickers may be procured from Packey McFarlin free of charge by the students. As this is a matter of prime importance to all of the men and women at Montana State College, it is imperative that we all work for the two Initiative measures. The slogan of the campaign is "Vote for 18 and 19".

Word has been received that John McCabe, '18 who is located at Denver Colo. with the Westinghouse people, was married this summer to Miss Anna Callahan.

Miss Edna Lewis has both been elected secretary of the Berkeley high school. For the past three years Miss Lewis has been teaching in the Berkeley high school.

land and other Oregon towns. It was at this place that he became acquainted with Professor A. H. Currier, who, prior to taking up the work of director of music at the college, conducted a vocal studio in Portland. Professor Currier resigned as director of music this past summer and Professor Nash was immediately elected as director of the work in music at the same time retaining his position as Professor of Piano. Professor Nash was one of the best trained musicians in the country and had turned out many finished musicians. Much of his training was acquired in England and Europe and he had had rare opportunities to know the best people and the best ideals in music. His work at the college had attracted unusual recognition. He had been especially successful in training piano quartets as well as individual performers. For the past two years he had conducted the college orchestra and had in every way identified himself with the up-building of music in the Montana State college.

Prof. Nash had made significant contributions to the general musical life of the community. He organized and trained the municipal orchestra which was conceded to be the most pretentious orchestra organization in the state. The citizens of the community very well remember the inspiring concerts given by the orchestra under Prof. Nash's direction.

The loss to the College from Professor Nash's sudden passing is a most severe one. He had completed plans for the upbuilding of general singing in the institution and for incorporating the delights of good music into the life of the college community more fully than had ever been done. Since returning in September, he had taken steps to organize and to provide special music for all kinds of college occasions.

Personally, Professor Nash had had the faculty of making many friends. He loved the out of doors and all of the rugged, sincere wholesome things of life. He was fond of horse back riding and one of his delights was his experience in his summer camp trips in Oregon. He leaves a wife and two boys, Gifford, aged nine, and George, aged five.

In speaking of Prof. Nash's work and his plans for the year, President Atkinson expressed the very keen sorrow which he felt, personally, in the loss of Professor Nash and called attention to the serious break which it would make in the general up-building of the work of the college.
