

BRUINS DEFEAT THE BOBCATS IN FINAL GAME

Entering the Final Game of the Season Undefeated, the Blue and Gold Warriors are Beaten 28 to 0 by a Heavier and Faster Team.

The Montana University football machine defeated the eleven from Montana State college, 28 to 0 last Saturday afternoon.

The score shows the superiority of the Missoula team, as the Bobcats were at no time able to solve the Minnesota shift. Bryan was the only man able to make gains against Missoula. Both teams resorted to passing in the last part, Missoula making some long gains. The Bobcats were penalized once, the University four times for off side play. The Bobcats fought hard against all football odds. John Mashin starred at end, but was hurt in the third quarter. McDonald outkicked Barry and Kerschner, but the latter were not often forced to kick. After the first five inutes the outcome of the game never was in doubt, and at the end of the half the Bobcats appeared clearly outclassed. In the last quarter Coach Graves put in substitutes, who tried trick passing without much success. The big Bozeman crowd, led by Cheer Leader Eaton, kept up its support until the end.

Missoula, Nov. 13.—(By the Associated Press)—Completely outclassing their opponents in every department of the game, the Montana State University overwhelmed the State college team from Bozeman, on Dornblazer field this afternoon, 28 to 0. The Grizzlies scored one touchdown in each quarter of the game, and made 32 first downs against two for the State college.

The Minnesota shift gained ground at will for the state university, with Sullivan, Kerschner, Barry and Adams plunging through for long gains, while several forward passes were completed for big yardage.

The victory again gave the state football championship to the State university team, which played in magnificent form throughout, the line stopping every attempt to gain on straight football.

Sullivan scored two touchdowns, Kerschner one and Barry one, while Adams kicked four goals.

Montana opened the game with an inside kick. Dorsey recovering. The Grizzlies took the ball to the 20-yard line, where Higbee missed a field goal. Soon after another advance came, with Kerschner carrying the ball over.

The second score was credited to Sullivan, after Dayliss had made 30 yards on a forward pass.

Early in the third quarter Montana blocked one of McDonald's punts, and Sullivan crashed over from the seven yard line.

The fourth and last quarter came (Continued on page 4)

"The Swing of the Pendulum" A Montana State Production

The Swing of the Pendulum, a play written and produced expressly for the Women's Vocational congress, promises to be one of the most entertaining attractions of the convention. Though the time for preparation and rehearsals has been limited, the girls have produced an entertainment which might be classed with the best of home talent productions.

The theme of the play is woman's place in vocation. The time of the first act is at the present, and in this scene a group of college girls are discussing their careers. The second act opens on the same scene thirty years later. Vocation is again the topic of conversation, and the result of the attempts of each of these women is heard. A reward which has been offered in the first act is now awarded to the one accomplishing the highest good.

Miss Marjorie Bohart, the author of the play, has worked hard in producing an entertainment which might be compared with that of any college dramatic organization. She was also responsible to a great extent, for the production of the successful play, "Montana Wins Today," which was given here during the basketball tournament in 1919.

New Buildings Banquet for M. S. C. Football Men

The passage of Initiative Measure No. 19 at the recent election insures substantial additions to the buildings and equipment at Montana State college. Under the provisions of this measure, new buildings may be constructed and equipped or old buildings may be repaired.

Probably the first building to be constructed at Montana State college under the funds provided by the bond issue will be a main engineering building. This should make ample provision for engineering class rooms and certain kinds of technical laboratories. It is also to include an engineering assembly room as part of this building. A second engineering building which we may hope to see constructed will be the engineering shops and laboratories. This building should include six different units to provide laboratory facilities for the different types of engineering being carried on at the college. These engineering buildings will be located between Sixth and Seventh avenues, directly east of Hamilton hall.

Before additional buildings may be cared for, a new central heating plant will have to be constructed. The two new small plants now in use are operating up to their full capacity, so that this additional radiation may not be cared for before a new heating plant is erected. It is probable that this heating plant will be located just north of the agricultural building. (Continued on Page Four)

Banquet for Football Men

Last Wednesday evening President Alfred Atkinson gave a delightful informal banquet at the dining room of the home economics department in honor of the football team. Both the first and second teams and the manager and assistant manager were present. The tables were beautifully decorated, appropriately suggestive of the occasion. Thanksgiving pumpkins, red and yellow apples, and clusters of grapes adorned the tables. Clever miniature footballs marked the places.

The hosts and hostesses for the evening were: President and Mrs. Alfred Atkinson, Mrs. Una B. Herrick, Dean and Mrs. J. M. Hamilton, Mrs. D. V. Graves, Dr. and Mrs. J. M. O'Gorman, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Swingle.

President Atkinson presided as toastmaster keeping the party in high spirits by his clever stories. Dean Hamilton was called upon and responded by telling the history of football at Montana State college from 1893 to 1904. Prof. Swingle spoke on scholarship and athletics. "Pat" Morphe, captain of this year's Bobcat team responded with his usual clever wit, and Joe Bush who, last Saturday, played his last football game with the Bobcats, expressed the high esteem which the football men have for Coach Graves. "Packy" McFarlin, manager of the team, told of his associations with (Continued on page 4)

WOMAN'S LEAGUE DELEGATES RETURN FROM PULLMAN

The delegates who represented the Montana State College at the Inter-collegiate Conference of all Women's organizations, which was held at Pullman, Washington, have returned with very favorable reports. Henrietta Moebus and Ruth Noble represented the Woman's League of Montana State College at the conference, which was the first one of its kind ever called in the northwest.

The purpose of the convention was to discuss woman's present day problems and their control in colleges and intercollegiate schools.

The conference lasted three days, the 11, 12 and 13 of November. Women from fourteen colleges and universities of California, Nevada, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, and Montana were sent as representatives at that time.

Although the conference was very successful a larger delegation is anticipated for next year's conference which will be held at Berkeley, California. Our delegates will give a more detailed report to the Woman's League assembly after Vocational Congress.

Vocational Congress Originated Six Years Ago by Dean Herrick and Since that Time Has Become an Important Factor in Encouraging High School Women to Attend College.

The Sixth annual vocational congress is now in session and there are about 150 girls from all over Montana in attendance and over 20 teachers and chaperones. The program has so far been unusually good and the interest of each delegate is very keen.

The details of the meetings have carefully worked out by the executive staff of girl students of the college, including the following: Aline Burgess, chairman of the convention; Frances Kyle, chairman of the housing; Charlotte Cooley, chairman of the reception; Dorothy Ropes, chairman of the house; Florence Wesch, chairman of the entertainment; Pearl Beauchamp, chairman of attendance; Ada Jones, chairman of the publicity; Theo Muntzer, chairman of finance; Marie Brandenburg, chairman of registration of the Gallatin county high school; Minnie Ellen Marquis, chairman of music; Gladys Matthews, chairman of printing; Kate Keown, chairman of program; Helen Tripp, head usher; Evelyn Waterman and Edith Stanley, secretaries.

Most of the delegates arrived here sometime Thursday and were entertained at the Municipal Theater last evening at a recital by Miss Lillian Briggs Peterson, formerly of Minneapolis, and a clever two act play written by Miss Marjorie Bohart, entitled "The Swing of the Pendulum."

The regular program started this morning at nine o'clock at which time the Congress was formally opened by Miss Aline Burgess, chairman of the convention.

Students and Faculty Hold Jubilee After Successful Campaign for Measures 18 and 19

On Monday last the student body, assisted by the faculty, celebrated the passage of Initiative Measures 18 and 19. The students enjoyed the greater part of the fun, while the faculty granted the holiday.

Early Monday morning an assembly was held in the drill hall, where each class was gathered together, and after appropriate cheers, led for the most part by "Bub" Eaton, Major Bub, who acted as marshal of the day, succeeded in forming the impromptu gathering into a line suitable for parade.

At 9:30 the students marched toward Main street, in the order of the classes. Leading the parade was a bus carrying the band, next followed the senior class, next the juniors, and so on. Following up the four year men came the secondary students.

The entire formation represented Montana State, nothing being omitted, even the old cannon was taken along, guarded by a squad from the military science department.

Upon reaching Main street the parade turned toward the opera house, where two hours were taken up by the deans of the various departments, who spoke briefly on the need and prospects of the new buildings for their various departments.

Among those who emphasized the immediate need of new buildings were Professor Cooley, who asked for a botany building to take the place of the old "bug" building, and Dean Norris, who emphasized the need of a new engineering building with room to accommodate the present machinery and also with a smoking room to accommodate those whom it is better to think of than mention any names.

Following the talks by the faculty, a few words were heard from Mr. Hartman of Bozeman, who told the students that those, like himself, who had followed M. S. C. through its years, since the first ground was broken for building on college hill, could now draw a full breath, knowing that Montana State was now to go forward and hesitate no longer between a standstill and a retrograde movement.

In the afternoon a jolly-up party was held in the drill hall. This was well attended for a free dance toward the close of the afternoon, the women of the college staged a basket social, which made a decided hit with all of the student body.

Throughout the entire program of the day, the reason for the celebration was kept in everyone's mind by the efforts of Miss Quaw, at the dance, who led the students in singing parodies celebrating the passage of eighteen and nineteen, and by "Bub" Eaton, who, at the morning speechifying, suggested that 18 and 19 also meant a victory for M. S. C. in football as well as buildings and faculty.

THE VOCATIONAL CONFERENCE

The sixth annual vocational congress for high school girls, which was opened at the college this morning, has brought to Bozeman over a hundred serious minded, alert young women representing the principal high schools of Montana. These young women have come here for the purpose of receiving the messages which the splendid corps of speakers have for them. They have come to learn of the opportunities for trained women in the professional and commercial world.

To these delegates Montana State college extends a hearty welcome. We are glad to have the opportunity of entertaining you here. It is hoped that you will gain valuable inspiration and that you will so make use of the new ideas with which you come in contact that they will be of the greatest possible value to yourselves and the women whom you represent, in choosing a vocation.

While attending the vocational congress meetings and hearing of the many places open to you, you will also have the opportunity of inspecting Montana's greatest vocational college. Here many of you will have the opportunity of preparing yourselves for your chosen vocation and of learning how to make your lives factors in the world's development.

Since the institution of the vocational conference several years ago the annual gathering of high school women has, under the guidance of Dean Una B. Herrick, grown steadily in influence—each year seeing a stronger body of speakers, more delegates, more organizations represented, greater cooperation from the high schools and womens clubs of the state, and from every standpoint a keener appreciation of the real worth of the conference—until now it has become one of the most effectual educational movements in Montana.

Undoubtedly the vocational congress is securing wonderful results and its purpose in helping the young women of the state in choosing their life work is being admirably fulfilled. To the college, to the women's clubs of Montana, to the college women who have done such splendid work and to Dean Una B. Herrick, to whose inspiration the success of the conference is due, the Exponent extends its heartiest congratulations.

SUPPORT THE "M" CLUB

This week the "M" club embarked on a financial venture which is worthy of the support of every student in college. In promoting athletics the club does more, perhaps, than any other organization on the hill. They are constantly on the alert and ready to push anything that will give M. S. C. better and more successful athletic teams. The club takes the place of a booster organization in the college and does all that such a group would do. In their efforts to promote athletics, buy awards, and carry on such work as they can they are constantly in need of funds. Work as important and necessary as theirs cannot be done without money.

In order to partially overcome this need a candy store has been opened in the basement of the main hall at which place a large assortment of candy and sweets is being carried. The store is being run by two members of the "M" club and all profits from the sales will go to that organization.

The need for money by the "M" club is urgent and it is the duty of every loyal student at M. S. C. to put his shoulder to the wheel and make this store the success that it deserves to be.

ASSEMBLY, FRIDAY NOVEMBER 12, 1920

A few students who were unable to follow the team to Missoula, gathered at assembly last Friday and devoted the hour to community singing. The songs were flashed on the screen so that everyone could become familiar with the words. Kate Keown led the singing with the usual pep and succeeded in getting a lusty response from those present. This community singing is a thing which every student will enjoy in the future as Miss Keown has a large assortment of clever parodies on popular songs.

Women.
A woman is queer, there's no doubt about that,
She hates to be thin and she hates to be fat.
One minute it's laughter, the next it's a cry,
You can't understand her, however much you try.
But there's one thing about her which everyone knows—
A woman's not dressed till she powders her nose.

OUR STUDENT PASTOR

Rev Charles B. Stephens has been appointed as student pastor and has taken up his work at the college.

Several months ago a number of the churches of Bozeman took up the matter in consultation with the president of the college, of securing a man to come to Bozeman whose definite work shall be to minister to the religious needs of the students. The matter was laid before the respective Boards of the denominations to which these churches belong, and these denominations have made an appropriation to sustain such a worker among us. Four churches, the Presbyterian, Baptist, Christian and Methodist are cooperating in this movement, and furnishing the funds for the undertaking. The college authorities are also in hearty accord with the undertaking.

Rev. Stephens is here principally to serve the student body and to relate them to churches of their choice. In this respect he stands ready to serve all the churches. This is a new undertaking. There are few precedents to guide it. A full and definite plan of service will be worked out as the movement advances.

A Board of Control has been formed for the guidance of this work consisting of two members from the college, and two members including the pastor from each of the following churches: The Methodist, Christian, Baptist and Presbyterian; also to include four members from outside the city—one from each of the above named denominations.

Rev. Stephens has already appeared before the several churches, and has established an office at the college in room 105 formerly occupied by the Exponent. As soon as he can find a suitable home, he will bring his family to the city and thus be one of us.

Doctor Stephens is here to serve us. He invites personal interviews in his office. He is interested in student problems and is anxious to relate himself helpfully to the churches, the faculty and student body. The board feels sure that the students and all concerned will give him a hearty welcome at M. S. C.

R. P. SMITH,
President of the Board

DIARY OF LEMUEL SNEEL

Thursday November 11.

Today, being a holiday I saved shoe leather and board bill by remaining in bed until noon. After a rather hearty lunch proceeded to the big rally, where I discovered the wandering Jews, Cashmore and Black, disguised as the merry Pilgrims from the Fiji islands. I must remark that if they appear on the streets again in such unearthly costumes, the old cannon will be used for purposes other than noise-making. Let this be a warning! At the depot, this afternoon, the cannon was fired, according to reports from my old friend Paul Campbell.

Friday, November 12.

This morning 'twas cold and dreary (without an overcoat), so was unable to attend the classes. Wept copiously today at the thought of remaining home and reading the latest bunk by Eli. Today, Dusty Rhodes tells me that if the gushing season does not end soon, he will be a wreck, physically if not morally. I attempted to console him, but he would have none of it, saying that he was a ruined man. He made me very unhappy indeed by his utter despair.

Saturday, November 13.

This afternoon I sneaked into the Ellen theater, expecting to spend a pleasant hour, but, alas, my expectations came to naught. The only time I was happy was the time that Steve Pierce announced that Sullivan was knocked out. Wept copiously when Steve, after saying that one of the Bruins had lost his pants, said, "They're off again." The freshmen, as usual, showed more pep than the upper classmen. Must compliment some of the girls on their splendid efforts. This evening I noticed Joe Sweeney in Schmidt's apparently trying to drown his sorrow with liquid air at 10c. per, but I believe he ran out of funds before completing the task. I thought at first that he was still mourning over the death of his uncle, Terrence, but upon inquiring I found that he was despondent over the victory of the Bruins.

Sunday, November 14.

This afternoon I dended my weary way to the depot to meet the fighting Bebeats on their return from Missoula. Although they didn't have the long end of the score, methinks the Bruins will remember their visit for some time. Frank Knight tells me that Packy McFarlin spent Friday night sitting in front of an open window to keep the cold draught from striking the football players. I believe Packy has decided to take blankets with him the next time he goes to Missoula. I hear that Eli has suggested that the Sigma Chi dog wear a stiff collar so as to be like the rest of the gang. Methinks it would be just as effective if the Sigma Chi put on dog collars so as to be with the dog.

Monday, November 15.

Wept copiously this morning when forced to walk from the drill hall to the opy house. Upon arrival at the theater I found Ambrose Ryan planted in the bald headed row, so I felt duty bound to inform him that there would be no entertainment other than a few speeches. A look of dismay came over his face as he realized the truth of my statment and he started for the door.

Attended the dance at the gym this afternoon, but as I was financially embarrassed, so to speak, I could not remain for the basket social. I understand that Joe Willson and Bruce Hillister were injured in the rush for baskets. In the future I would advise them to follow Geo. Van Fleet's example and hide a basket under the stove. Was surprised to hear today that Frank Johnson has returned from Missoula after a pleasant visit in the Bruin's town.

I rejoiced tonight that the gushing season is at an end. However, I am still in agony, fearing that tomorrow some fair co-ed will rush up and congratulate me.

Tuesday, November 16.

Today I listened to several lengthy and elaborate addresses by distinguished members of the student body, who made the trip to Missoula. Bob McConnell and Gene McLaughlin took as their subject, "The Joys of Travelling Between the Seats." Emmet Matthews gave an interesting talk on "What not to Say to the Brake-man, and When to say It," and Fergus Mitchell lectured on "The Advantages and Disadvantages of Trying to Use Lady Friends' Hat check." Don Anderson, one of our eminent authorities on these subjects, was unable to speak because of an attack of acute rheumatism in his left tonsil.

Wednesday, November 17.

Was surprised to find Dodo Howard at school by 9:30 a. m. When I asked how she would explain her absence from an 8 o'clock class, to the committee, she said that she would just tell them that she had fish for breakfast. That excuse may be all right, but I have never been able to get up courage enough to use it, although Bobby Jones can get by with worse than that. He told the committee once that he was unable to attend class because he had to varnish his wooden leg.

Briny: I'll bet you a quarter I can kiss you without touching your lips.

Briny: Here's your money.

HUSH-A-BYE

There, little stude, don't cry,
You were reported I know,
Yet your record is bright, and you study each night,
And you don't think you had a show.
But—it may grow different bye-and-bye
There little stude, don't cry, don't cry
There, little stude, don't cry.

There, little stude, don't cry,
Your hours are filled, it's true,
If you keep in step, there's no time for pep,
And no one can censure you,
But, it may grow different bye-and-
bye,
There, little stude, don't cry, don't
cry,

There little stude, don't cry,
Tho you feel sadly like a fool,
This isn't a COLLEGE where you're seeking knowledge.

It's just a technical school.
And it may be different bye-and-bye,
So there, little stude, don't cry,
don't cry.
There, little stude, don't cry!

PICKED UP BY ELI

Between Missoula and roundups I have been busier than the proverbial cat and hence my offering this week is rather a feeble one (someone just remarked that from their point of view it always was such, and all I can say is that they are standing at the wrong end of the Indian). As contributions came in rather slow this week it was necessary for me to get out the old scissors and the pot of glue. If you have read them before don't tell anyone, and they will appreciate them just as much as if they were original.

During the game at Missoula the rascals tied a sheep in front of the Bobcat rooting section. We think it was very appropriate—a symbol of our spirit, which we believe is all wool and a yard wide. Now, we do not believe all that we hear, but somebody suggested that something was lacking on the other side of the fence—sort of bear, as it were.
Anyway, we are glad we had the sheep.

Fergus Mitchel wins the dynamite sheep absorber. On the train going over the hill last week he was trying to beat the Northern Pacific out of some money and the conductor knew it. The gold braided custodian could not prove it on him, however, because there sat Fergi with a hat check to Butte. Walking up to him the Con said "Here, don't you know that you cannot get away with that kind of stuff on this train? That's a woman's hat check you've got there."
Now, here is the joke. Fergi started blushing and dug down in his jeans and paid up.

The little lady from Hamilton Hall who let down her hair and put on short dresses, and then got away with a half fare to Missoula, deserves citation. The brakeman who came in and played "Rock-a-bye Baby" with her would be surprised to hear her blibli recite her chemistry lesson.

Who was the dirty hound that kicked the gob in the head?

Alas! Alas! Alas!
It was a dark, stormy night that I sallied forth to take a fair creature from the Kappa house. All was quiet abroad and yet the very air seemed charged with the presence of evil. Brave men walked along the streets tremblingly, and in the little huts that lined the road, mothers sang to their babies the old melodies of childhood in hushed tones. I alone of all the multitude was unafraid. And indeed, why should I nourish fear in my heart?

Had I not that very day been appointed Chief Keeper of Ye Kuspidor, a position that had caused many a brave man to falter? It was after leaving the house with my lady on my arm that I was aware for the first time that all was not what it should be. Something was creaking and swishing at my feet. Thinking to leave it all behind me, I quickened my pace and the faster I went the more terrible it became. Biting and snapping at my heels, it pursued me.
Finally, unable to stand it any longer, I broke into a mad run. My lady shouted to me and asked what the trouble was. "That terrible noise," I answered, doubling my speed. "Stop fool," she panted, "it's—only—my—galashes."

Consider the postage stamps, my son.
They often get a licking.
But still they make good on the job
Because they keep on sticking.
So learn this little lesson, son:
For every little licking,
Just set down tighter on the job;
You'll win by steady sticking.—Ex.

ent engineering building. This building will add very much to the life of the institution.

The women's building and library will probably be constructed directly north of Hamilton Hall in a general section of the campus to be devoted to women's work. The plans for this building are not yet fully developed, but it is expected that all of the work for women being offered at the institution will have its headquarters in that building. The library feature of the building will probably be an increased space until a suitable library building may be built.

In addition to the buildings mentioned above, it is probable that a start will be made on some cottage dormitories for women students and also some additional facilities for the college of agriculture. There is need for a suitable stock judging and grain judging pavilion and there should be provision for suitable housing of offices of the extension service, as well as providing for the expansion of certain other departments.

The members of the college committee should realize that no buildings may be started until bonds are sold. After this has been done, the authorization to start construction must come through the recognition of the State Board of Education and the final authorization of the State Board of Examiners. It is hoped that arrangements may be completed and construction started on some of the buildings not later than April, 1921.

SPORT COLUMN

Well say that Missoula outplayed us last Saturday but they never out-fought us by a long ways. Remember Bobcat supporters—Bobcats are never out-fought.

Beginning with end of the 1920 season for football our motto is Beat Missoula in 1921. Our losses in the line will be supplemented by the addition of this years freshman squad and we'll have a team that can beat the "U" yet.

For though the University may have had a world beater this year, they will lose Adams, Dahlberg, Sullivan and possibly others. McGowan is reported as taking prep work there before going to Pennsylvania next year. And so our chances are not what they might have been.

We wonder at the strength of the University of Californias team who defeated Washington State 49-0 a team of no mean ability, for they cleaned Missoula by a 31-0 score and our team was beaten by Missoula.

The Missoulian quotes Joe Bush as a Bush leaguer. When we think about it Joe is one of that kind. He's in a league by himself.

The game with the U this year was one of the cleanest ever played with them. Sullivan for the Bruins was laid out several times, more because of his own inability to miss blows which were accidental. On both our part and his own team-mates.

With the football season over our attention is drawn to basketball. The first practice will be held the Monday after Thanksgiving and possibly two games will be played before the holidays.

The Bobcat lineup will be somewhat different from what it was last year. The only resemblance of last year's team will be Joe Bush in the games before Christmas and Gene Robertson who subbed last year.

Swede Jorgenson one of the mainstays of last years team will be out because of a present local ruling that a man must be up in his classes for two preceding quarters in order to play the third.

The present biology building was constructed over twenty years ago at an initial cost of less than $4,000. In this building is housed upwards of $70,000 worth of botanical and entomological collections. In addition, class rooms and laboratories are unsatisfactory as to arrangement and totally inadequate as to size. A new and modern biology building ought to be constructed in the very near future.

It is reasonable to state that the college committee will vote unanimously in favor of constructing a new gymnasium. Up to the present time, the institution has been without a gymnasium and has used a building originally constructed as a drill hall. A new gymnasium will probably be located just north of Gatten Field, which lies directly south of the pres-

ALPHA PI MEETING.
Wednesday evening the Alpha Pi Chemistry fraternity held their regular meeting at the Beta Epsilon house. The speaker of the evening was Dr. Blish, who spoke on the advantage of graduate study, and gave an idea of what a man should expect in following such a course, based on his own experiences as a graduate student. A number of the honoary members of Alpha Pi were present at the meeting, including Professors Cobleigh and Quinn, Mr. Burke, Mr. Sherwood, Mr. Humphrey and Dr. Blish. Following Dr. Blish's talk luncheon, consisting of coffee and sandwiches was served and an informal discussion of topics mostly chemical was held.

Among the tragedies of the M. S. C.-Missoula game was that of Elwood Morris, one of our prominent alumni, who lost his entire last months' salary on the game and was forced to rely on providence to bring him home.
