Baseball To Start Soon

INTERORGANIZATIONAL SERIES TO START APRIL 14

No Varsity Team This Spring. Eight Teams in Series. Many Awards to Be Given.

The interorganization ball-tossers will start their spring campaign Tuesday, April 24, when the first two teams will line up and try for honors. The baseball at M. S. C. will be nothing of the same type as was held last year. No varsity team will be formed and competition will be between the various organizations on the Hill.

Captains of the various teams who intend to participate in the famous game should hand in their names to the athletic department this week, so that the committee in charge will have ample time to form a schedule of the coming games. The schedule will be made up during the first part of next week.

It is expected that eight teams will enter the spring race, namely, Beta Epsilon fraternity, Sigma Chi fraternity, Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, Omega Beta fraternity, Barbs, vocational men, independents, and either the H. O. M. Club or the faculty.

As an additional attraction to the lovers of the sport, the president has donated a large cup, which consists of a silver ball resting on two silver bats. This cup will be in temporary of the team winning the race and will become a permanent possession upon winning the cup three times. Other prizes offered consist of ten gold medals, which will be presented to the members of the winning team, ten gold filled medals for the members of the team finishing second, and ten silver medals for the third team men. Also a medal is to be given to the best hitter in the league, one to the best pitcher, and one to the best base-stealer on the local diamond.

Some of the rules of the league to be drawn up so far state that the games shall start at 4:30 p. m., and one game shall be held each day except Sunday. The contests are to be seven innings in length. One of the rules in regard to forfeiture states that a team which has eight men present at the starting may pick one additional college man not in the organization.

MUSIC RECITAL IN ASSEMBLY TONIGHT

Numbers by Several Pupils in Advanced Music Courses Will Be Given Tonight.

This evening at 8 o'clock in the assembly hall, the piano and voice students of the music department will appear in their second recital of the year. The program, which includes numbers by several of the more advanced students as well as some of the new ones, is a splendid one, and worthy of a large audience. It is as follows:

Poldini—"The Dancing Girl"—Mary Patten.

Lack—Idilio—Bernice Nelson.

(a) Gaynor—"Slumber Boat"; (b) Reichard—"In the Time of Roses"—Octavia Marquis.

MacDowell—Shadow Dance—Josephine Howard.

(a) Curran—"Dawn"; (b) Ball—"The Night Wind"—Edwin Rickman.

(a) MacDowell—"To a Water Lily"; (b) Chopin—"Waltz D flat Maj.—No. 1, Op. 64—Winnifred Cobleigh.

Mendelssohn—Reverie Op. 18. No. 37; Tarantella No. 45—Verna Hagelie.

Grieg—"To Spring"; "Marching of the Dwarfs"—Edwin Rickman.

(a) Curran—"Rain"; (b) Beach—"Years at the Spring"; Elva Ayler.

Vogrich—Staccato Caprice—Adena Watson.

(a) Cowan—"Swallows"; (b) Clarke—"A Bowl of Roses"—Esther Garry.

Accompanists—Violet Marschall, Adena Watson, Evelyn Ayler, Margaret Ryan.

M. S. C. WINS TWO CONTESTS

UNANIMOUS DECISION OVER COLORADO AGGIES

Lyndon, Heilman and McLeod Bring Home Bacon for Montana State—Contest Draws Big Crowd.

Montana State college speakers won two and lost one intercollegiate forensic event in the dual debates and oratorical contest which were held Friday and Saturday with the Colorado Agricultural college debaters and the debaters and orator from the Kansas Agricultural college. The Bobcat speakers unanimously defeated the Colorado team in debate on Friday night and on Saturday evening they lost unanimously in debate to the Kansas men; while Arthur Bergstrom, orating for Montana State college won the decision in this event.

The team which represented Montana State college, speaking on the affirmative of the proposition; "Resolved: That the United States should adopt the parliamentary-cabinet form of Government," in the debate with the Colorado Aggies was composed of Edgar MacLeod, Edward Heilman, and Charles Lyndon. The other Montana State team, which argued on Saturday night against the Kansas debaters, and upheld the negative side of the proposition: "Resolved That the Several States Should Establish Courts to Adjudicate Labor Disputes in Essential Industries With Power to Enforce Their Decisions," was composed of Don Bennett, Joe Livers, and Bryan Wilson.

The debate with the Colorado Agricultural college was the second debate with that school this year, the former being held in Fort Collins, Colorado, early in March and being on the same proposition, and was also won unanimously by the Montana State team. Pierson, Cazaly and Lewis were the three members of the negative team in this debate.

Don Bennett was the most effective speaker on the Montana State team in this debate and he ranked well with any one of the speakers on the winning team. He opened the debate for the negative and carried the attention and thought of the audience with him until he had finished. Joe Livers showed a great deal of enthusiasm and force in his talking and his delivery. The Montana State college team might be said to have fallen down on their rebuttal material harder than on the constructive arguments, and their lack of strong points in rebuttal is generally conceded to be the reason for their defeat.

Charles Lyndon was the hero of the debate on Friday evening, his final rebuttal being the acknowledged strongest speech of the evening and the great deciding feature of the debate. In the direct address he was also effective but not any more so than were his two colleagues, Heilman and MacLeod. Lewis was perhaps the strongest Colorado man in his constructive argument and Pierson ranked high on that team in the strength of rebuttal which he delivered. In the constructive arguments the two teams were closely matched, and it was not until Lyndon made his final talk that the decision seemed to be cinched for Montana State college.

Coach Ott Romney, presided at this debate and a Professor of the Colorado Agricultural college and Bryan Wilson kept time on the speakers.

The Kansas Aggies came here with relations already close, as a former Kansas Aggie student, Professor J. Wheeler Barger, is coaching debate at Montana State and several Kansas men are connected with the faculty of the college, so that though this is the first debate between the two schools, they met at old friends.

Saturday night at two schools met on the forensic platform in both debate and oratory. D. C. Anderson, J. C. Wilkins and M. L. Barker were the debaters who won the unanimous decision of the three judges.

They upheld the affirmative of the Kansas Industrial Disputes court, arguing for the establishment of similar courts in the other states. J. C. Wilkins was the most effective speaker on the Kansas team in both his direct and rebuttal speeches. However, the

Stunt Night for Montanan

College Organizations Will Present Stunt Night Friday for Benefit of College Publication.

The staff of the 1922 Montanan are staging a monster Montanan Night at the Emerson auditorium next Friday evening, April 13. The student body should bear this in mind, as the evening as at present planned promises to be one of the outstanding events of its kind this season.

The features embodied in the original plan of the staff include stunts by the various organizations on the campus. Each fraternity and sorority is preparing a stunt to be entered in the show. The H. O. M. Club have offered to add another, and the Barbs and Independents are each planning on an act. The acts will be of real merit, if early work on them is any indication.

The show will be run on the same basis as the Y. W. C. A. Stunt Night is held each year. Prizes will be offered for the best two stunts staged, the awards to be made by the judges selected for the event. These prizes will be announced early this week, and will be on display in a downtown window.

Ticket sales started on the campus this morning and will continue until the entire house is sold out. Plans are also being made to canvass the city with the ticket sale.

The staff of the annual are staging this stunt night to aid in defraying the expenses of putting out the volume. There is still a debt of $800 against the book, and it is hoped that this stunt night will cover a goodly portion of this debt.

The curtain will rise on the first act of the show at 8 p. m. sharp. Dress rehearsal will be held for all acts during Thursday afternoon. Anyone wishing information should get in touch with Charles Lyndon, the editor of the 1922 Montanan at once.

Miss Florence Johnson, a former student of M. S. C., and who is now located in Seattle, is visiting at the Iota Delta house.

Cross Country Run for Friday

INITIAL EVENT OF SPRING ATHLETICS

"M" Sweater and Cup Will Be Awards in Contest—All Runners Count for Placing.

The annual cross-country run, the initial event in the spring athletic program, will be staged next Friday afternoon on the regular cross-country course. This year the distance race takes on a greater meaning to all the students of the Hill because not only the freshmen and sophomore classes are to compete as in previous years, but all classes, all fraternities and organizations, and all the various schools on the Hill, to the enter men in the miniature marathon. Points will be awarded to the fraternity, school and class which the men to finish represent.

All Runners Get Prizes.

Every man that crosses the finish line will count, the man coming in first as many points as there are men that complete the run, and so on down to the last man, who will count one point.

"M" Sweater and Cup Awards

As usual, an "M" sweater will be awarded to the first man to finish who has not won a letter in cross-country previously. Also a cup is to be given to the fraternity or organization who has the highest score. This cup will be given only temporarily, and in order to gain permanent possession the cup must be won three times.

Prizes Refused.

A disappointment to the followers of this sport came when the Retail

Thelma Shaw Wins Extemp

Freshman Girl Wins Contest Friday on Child Labor Question—Bell Makes Second, and Livers Third.

"An amendment to prohibit child labor in the United States should be enacted and added to the constitution of this country" was the topic on which Miss Thelma Shaw spoke winning first place in the first annual collegiate extemporaneous speaking contest held in the regular assembly hall, last Friday. Second place went to Edward Bell, Jr., who gave an address on "My Dream for M. S. C." The German-Franco Crisis" was the subject of the third prize address, given by Joe Livers.

Seven students who had made the high scores in the semi-finals of the contest, spoke before the student body yesterday morning. These were the seven best of the 18 students who were in the preliminary tryouts. The other four speakers and their subjects were, as follows: Jackson, Carter, "Registration in American Colleges Should be Restricted;" Keturah Tibbles, "Consolidation is a Solution for Our Present Day Rural School Problems;" Olga Weydemeyer, "What is Wrong With the Average Rural Community," and Victor Thayer, "The Foreign Policy of President Harding's Administration."

Miss Shaw won the first prize of $10; second prize, won by Bell, was $6, and third prize, won by Livers, was $4. The money for these prizes was donated by three faculty members who are interested in forensics.

The seven students who were to talk in the finals met Friday morning at 6:30 and were given topics and drew lots for the order in which they would speak. They had from 6:30 until 10 in the morning to prepare and organize their talks. That they all made good use of the time was exemplified by the excellent manner in which each speaker handled his subject.

This is the first collegiate extemporaneous speaking contest that was ever held at Montana State college and, from the interest that was shown

BERGSTROM GETS ORATORICAL CONTEST

Montana Divides With Kansas Aggies in Contests—Wilson, Livers and Bennett Lose in Debate While Bergstrom Wins in Oratorical Contest.

The oratorical contest, the first and only one to be held in Bozeman this year, was won by Arthur Bergstrom of Montana State college. Miss Mary Gerkin, of Kansas Agricultural college was the other contestant. Bergstrom spoke on "The Way to Industrial Peace." Miss Gerkin spoke on "Barriers to Prejudice."

Miss Gerkin, who was the first of the two speakers, held the audience with her interesting discussion of the prejudices that bind in humanity, and her musical, well-modulated voice.

Bergstrom was equally capable at holding the close attention of his audience, and was enabled to win the decision of the judges through his greater force and more perfect climactic address. However, that the contest was close was shown by the questioned look on the faces of nearly all in the audience before the decision was announced; and, after Otis H. Burns, head debate coach of Kansas Agricultural college, who presided at read off one vote for each of the contestants, the whole auditorium was held in breathless silence while he tore open the third envelope and prepared to read the deciding vote—for Mr. Bergstrom.

At the conclusion of Miss Gerkin's address, she was presented, over the footlights, with four beautiful bouquets of flowers.

Before the opening of the debate, Miss Gerkin, who is an accomplished musician as well as an orator, entertained the audience with two piano solos. While the judges' votes on the debate were being collected, Edward Bunney sang two vocal solos. He was accompanied by Mrs. W. N. Purdy.

At the special request of Prof. Barger, coach of the State college debate team, Otis H. Burns, coach of the Kansas debate team, presided at the debate and oratorical contest. H. L. Collins, assistant debate coach at Kansas Agricultural college, and Edward Bell of the State college, timed the speakers.

The judges for both debates and the oratorical contest were: Judge H. H. Miller of Livingston; Prof. Walter T. Scott of the State School of Mines in Butte, and Prof. Arthur D. Jacobson of the State university in Missoula.

MONTANAN IS WELL UNDER WAY.

The 1923 Montanan has gone to press! This news will be received gladly by students who have come to expect their annual three months to a year late. Charles Schuch, editor of the '23 year book, returned Sunday from Great Falls, where he went to take all the material for the book to the printers. The Great Falls Tribune is printing the annual this year, and there is every assurance that they will have the Montanan out before the middle of May.

The Montanan of 1923 will set a record in the M. S. C. year books. Aside from being out on time, this year's annual will have a number of unique features on its 280 pages. One of these is the colored scene section which promises to be very attractive. The opening section will also be in colors. The feature that is attracting the most interest and curiosity is the beauty section of M. S. C. women. The staff this year worked out a novel plan. Each girls' group on the campus turned in three to five portraits, which were sent to the Hollywood Studios in California to have the six best-looking girls picked from the number. The popular actress, Claire Windsor, made the selection. The pictures of the winner, set in attractive frames, will appear in a special section of the annual.

A large feature section will add to the interest of the book. This includes many pages of snapshots and cartoons, with a number of local interest stories. In all, this year's

Tormentors Make Trip SHOWS GIVEN IN THREE PLACES

First Showing at Whitehall—Prisoners at Deer Lodge Showed Great Appreciation for Play.

The cast of "The Truth" returned Friday afternoon after a tour during which four performances of "The Truth" were staged. Each performance was played to a very appreciative audience, not the least interesting of which was the audience composed of prisoners at Deer Lodge, to whom "The Truth" was presented Thursday afternoon.

The first staging of the play following the production Monday evening here in Bozeman was in Whitehall, on Tuesday evening. The play was produced to a large audience, which appreciated the talent displayed by each character in the cast. Wednesday afternoon "The Truth" was presented to the high school assembly in Butte high school. Lucille Staebler and Alice Moody are both alumnae of this school and were particularly well received.

The troupe is unanimous in the decision that the stay in Deer Lodge was the most enjoyable. There are about four hundred prisoners at the state prison in Deer Lodge, to whom the play was presented Thursday afternoon. The prisoners declared the play to be the best production staged in their theater during the present administration. They presented Lucille Staebler, the leading lady, with a huge basket of red carnations. Thursday evening "The Truth" was presented to the public of Deer Lodge and played before a fair sized audience.

Financially, the trip was not quite so successful as the Tormentors would like to have had it, considering the fact that they wish to present the proceeds to the athletic fund, but the trip paid for itself, and the advertising which such a trip brings to a school means a bigger return than the financial return. "The Truth" will be presented in the near future in Livingston. Everyone who did not see the show here Monday, April 2, should make a special effort to see the production in Livingston.

PEP CLUBS STAGE BIG CARNIVAL

Fangs and Spurs Co-operate to Stage Big Mixer. Everything From Monte Carlo to Tango.

The carnival staged last Saturday night in the old drill hall by these active groups proved to be a huge success, in that it offered that much-sought for diversity—"something different."

The cares and complications of the daily routine of life were completely forgotten when you entered the door and were greeted with the confusion and consuming interests of the carnival.

A crier held a conspicuous position on the floor, and shouted his wares in voluminous tones, letting no one escape without enlightening them. Other attractions on the main floor of the show included an artistically decorated and alluring dance floor, enriched through the superb efforts of the "Variety Five."

A large roulette wheel satisfied those who were seekers of a fortune via gambling, while a fountain well equipped with soft drinks and other dainties cooled and soothed the lapping tongues. For those who needs must know, a capable and generous fortune teller was employed.

The very wicked attractions were found in the lower regions of the building. Here you discovered a Human Spider, a Strong Man, Hula Dancer, and also witnessed a swimming match.

More efforts towards a variety in the program of entertainment for the students should be encouraged by hearty support from that body.

SPRING CLEANING ON THE CAMPUS

Spring is no doubt far away and the campus will soon be verdant. The shrubs and trees and lawns of its rolling slopes will be budding and sprouting, and as the pall of winter breaks, its frosty white coating will be replaced by one of emerald hue. In the late spring and during the summer our campus is one of the most beautiful and attractive of the campuses of the colleges and universities of the northwest. In the winter when covered with snow and ice after a recent snow storm a truly attractive appearance but it is as the height of its splendor during the spring and summer months.

As the snow and ice disappears we notice the trash and rubbish which collects in different places during the winter especially about the west entrance to Main Hall. This suggests the idea that perhaps we should think of the matter of "spring house cleaning on the campus" and each one of us should do our bit to make the campus look a little more tidy and to keep it so in the future. No doubt the student senate will make definite plans later in the spring to observe the annual "Campus Day" at which time they will probably arrange for repairing the "M", which is surely a part of the campus, or for the cleaning of the campus on the hill. But in the meantime we should each and every one of us do our share in keeping the campus tidy. The responsibility of keeping the campus clean is primarily up to us. A whole army of caretakers could not pick up the paper and rubbish and "snips" fast enough if the student body chose to be untidy in this matter. We hope the Knights will carry out their suggestion of last fall of arranging for receptacles to be placed about the campus.

And, by the way, why not live up to the tradition more faithfully of not smoking on the steps, especially those of the west entrance of the Main Hall.

Another matter of common practice by the students, especially the engineers who use the east entrance to Main Hall, which is detrimental to the campus, is cutting across the lawn. At this time of year when the ground is soft and the grass is sprouting it only takes a short while for an unsightly path to be worn which takes a season or two of special care to obliterate. A municipality always takes special care especially in the spring to see that its inhabitants do not walk over the parks and boulevards. Why shouldn't we, the citizens of Montana State college take a similar precaution as we pass about "Montana State Campus", which means as much to us as ever a city did to any of its citizens.

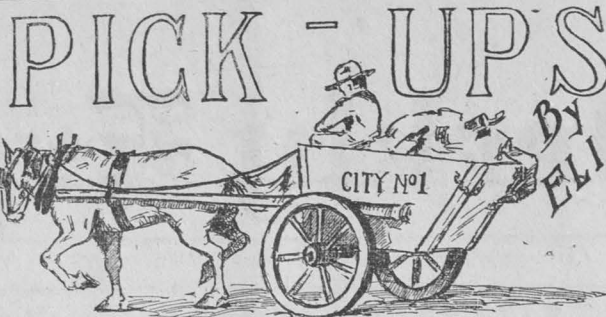

LETTERS AND WALT WHITMAN

Did you ever stop to figure as you gobbled up your pen and prepared to send a fancy letter home, that perhaps the other fellow who read those scratches bold might never know the meaning of their moan? Did you ever stop to reason that your letters to your "Dad" should not always be a sparkless mess of ink? That the ones you send to "Mother" should at least a few thoughts harder and perhaps a joke or two without a kink? Well, now listen to this sermon if you feel you should be helped, or if inspiration is your cry of woe. For if ink will only let me and the God of Words will guide me I'll attempt to rule the steady cry for "dough."

Now just to mark a starter in this game of written words, just do the thing that isn't always done. Start your pen to writing nonsense of a verse or two of rhyme to take the rougher edges off—it's fun. Then keep on with slight injections of humor with the dregs until the whole is full of merry laughter run. Wind it up with punch and vigor, and a witty sally too instead of a dead "yours truly" that really doesn't do. Dash in a few pen sketches to illustrate your points; put an envelope around it with a bang. Smash a stamp up in the corner, remark that it's from Jackie Horner, and give it to the postman with a tang.

That's a letter that the "folks" will like to read and you'll get more fun from writing such essays. But the moral to this sermon if a moral is in place is to laugh with pen and ink—it always pays.

Poor Eli! He has his troubles, too. Due to his uncertainty over the fact that his identity might be revealed, he has worried himself to the point of a nervous breakdown, and his successor is now giving him time for recuperation. Sorry if you thought you had identified Eli, 'cause now you'll have to start guessing again.

THE HEIGHT OF GENEROSITY.

Trying to express her appreciation of a near-sighted old lady's purchase at the Pi Phi rummage sale, Kate Andrews bestowed her own pair of $15 glasses upon her. (We hope father appreciates the humor of the situation).

ATTENTION, GIRLS.

Now that spring has come, Eli hopes that a large number of coeds will take advantage of the course in "Love and be loved," offered by Messrs. Cogswell, Farrell and Beckley. Entrance examinations will be given under Ted's personal supervision.

Mr. Erwin—"Louie, how is it that you use so little gasoline when you go driving with Marguerite?"
Louie—"Isn't love a wonderful thing?"

This is said to have happened on the Northern Pacific train between Bozeman and Fort Benton:
"Ticket!" called the conductor.
Lillian gave him her ticket.
"Chewing gum!" shouted the news butcher.
Lillian gave him her wad of gum!

WOMAN-HATERS' CODE OF ETHICS.

Woman is my superior. I am forced to admit it. She maketh me spend my hard-earned ducats; she leadeth me to cafes.

She destroyeth my double standard, and paradeth me before the eyes of the school as a fool.

Yea, though I sink to the depth of a woman hater, she still pursues me; her talk and her talk, they haunt me. She prepareth a campaign against me for the benefit of her fellow vamps; she showereth me with flattery; I take her to the next dance.

Surely, my brother sufferers will deliver me from the arts of woman, that I may dwell in the glorydom of bachelorhood forever and ever Amen.

Eli hopes, for the sake of the inmates of the Pi Phi house, that the report of Frank Cowan's marriage is false.

HERE'S TO

The man who can—
Listen to a long joke,
Smile at a poor joke,
Laugh at an old joke,
And appreciate a good joke on himself.

Short-sighted salesman—"Now, sir, this is the best hat in the shop!"
Alf—"I am inclined to agree, but I'd like a change. You see, that's my hat!"

When you get tired of chewing your gum, it is all right to "park" it on a sofa, Rea, but don't turn right around and sit down on it!

Stage manager—"All ready! Run up the curtain."
Hornbeck—"Say, what do you think I am—a squirrel?"

Heard at the Fur and Spang Carnival:
Van—"My mother wouldn't like it if she knew I was dancing; she thinks it is sinful."
Maurine—"Don't worry; she would not know if she did see you."

Which reminds us of the choruses for "The Honeymoon Trail." Er—Nuf said.

Here is a good one on George Finley:

The most absent-minded man on record is the manager of the Sigma Chi house, who sat up until 10 o'clock one night trying to remember what he wanted to do, and finally remembered that he wanted to go to bed early!

There was a young chemistry tough while mixing some compounded stuff, Put a match in a vial, And after a while

They found a gold tooth and a cuff.

Rhoda—"Blackberry jam 30 cents a jar! My, isn't that jam jeer?"
Clerk—"Isn't it what?"

Rhoda—"I say, isn't that dam jeer—er—I mean, isn't that dam dear? Oh, never mind!"

TRUTH WILL OUT, SWEDE!

"Officer," said the police court judge, "what made you think the prisoner was drunk?"

"Well, yer honor, as he was going along the sidewalk he ran plump into a street lamp post. He backed away, replaced his hat on his head, started forward again, but once more ran into the post. Four times he tried to pass the post, and then backed off, fell to the pavement, and clutching his head in his hands, murmured, as one lost to all hope, 'Lost! Lost in an impenetrable forest!'"

"Ten days," said the judge.
"And that remains to be seen," said Torchy, as he rammed his elbow through the glass of the candy store counter.

Minister—"Would you like to join us in the new missionary movement?"
"I'm crazy to try it. Is it anything like the double shuffle?"

Miss Brewer—"Mr. McIver, what are the boundaries of Brazil?"

Kenny—"Brazil bounded by the north, south, east and west."

Found in a freshman English theme:
"He reached the station just as the train pulled out in his shirtsleeves."

A certain sophomore co-ed is very anxious to find out who swiped her picture from one of the offices in the Aggie building. She says she wouldn't mind so much if she only knew who had it.

We don't blame you, Teddie, for not wanting a wearer of the Stetson to be carrying your photo in the back of his Elgin especially when he refuses to reveal his identity. That would really be unbearable.

Word comes to the ears of Eli that a certain young couple were caught under rather complicated circumstances in the Bungalow. They were well concealed in one of the secluded booths, but owing to the ever alertness of Eli's scouts, they were discovered. At present we do not care to divulge the names of this young couple, because we feel that they should have something to say for themselves. However, if Eli is not properly approached within the next week, the names and all else that goes with it with this rare piece of week's scandal column.

All who attended the carnival Saturday night, no doubt, heard George V. F. remind them that he had only been there a minute when blueoily went ten cents. However, from good authority we have it that he never did any such a thing. He played wall-flower most of the evening.

HOOS HOO.

By Hoosit

The above inimitable doll-like likeness of the Aylertwins (four or sixes?) is the product of a very concentrated study of this pair of "Modern girls." Being of very uncommon type, such as it only seen on rare occasions, it is very credible to note that the artist's skill now remains unquestioned.

Their remarkable resemblance to one another makes it very difficult to distinguish between them. So far, the best method of distinction is to "listen in" on their none too brilliant conversation and determine about whom they are talking. The one who talks "Frankly" is most surely Elva, while the one whose lips the word "Mac" seems to be permanently fixed, is just as surely Evalyn. We now hope, gentle reader, that this will be of great assistance in telling one from the other.

Evalyn not only talks about Mac, but also tries to rush him. One of her pet occupations being that of occupying the cellar steps of the Pi Phi house in company with her beloved Mac. In order to do this successfully she needs must have considerable drag with the furnace man, otherwise she would no doubt have to make more moves than a professional checker player.

Fortunate indeed is the one who has the opportunity to receive the benefit of one of their blank doll-like stares, which falls tangent to the eyes of the fortunate one, thence upward towards the sky and reminds one of the woo-begone look in the eyes of the farmer's pet heifer when she is having her horns removed.

The writer has found it next to impossible to determine just what qualifications are necessary in order to be on speaking terms with these innocent young children. However, several suggestions have been made the chief one being that a duly authorized representative of the student body approach these two periods of doltism and determine the date on which they anticipate holding a "hello day." Just whose ears their "hello" would be music to is hard to determine, we fain would hate to think it ours, but we might write the sacred music up in a new sheet and call it a "New Version of Razzberries." This however, is merely in the light of a suggestion, the writer being too busily engaged otherwise to be worried by such trivial matters.

In the above picture they were caught in the act of practicing for their next dance date.

Their marked likeness to the Gold Dust twins leads us to dub them Goldie and Dusty. (You can figure for yourself which is the most dusty.)

MONTANA LOSES TO NORTH DAKOTA

Johnson and Jackson Drop Debate to Eastern State That Has Not Lost a Single Contest This Season.

The Montana State College, represented by Theodore N. Johnson and Paul R. Jackson, met the North Dakota Agricultural College in Fargo, N. D., in an intercollegiate debate, Monday, April 4. Although the decision was unanimous for the North Dakota orators, the department feels that our men made a very good showing, and still does not believe that a team like North Dakota is too good for M. S. C.

The subject under discussion was the Sterling-Townner bill question. The North Dakotans used a very novel scheme, dodging practically every issue presented by our men, by granting the larger part of the affirmative contentions and dwelling on one phase of the question almost entirely. Our men met their attacks on the points they brought up, but were unable to cope with the unusual situation to the satisfaction of the judges.

This same Fargo team has not been defeated this year. They have made a long tour in the east, debating such schools as Harvard, Yale, Cornell, Illinois, and have received the favorable decision in all the contests.

On the whole, the work of the debate department has been unusual, to say the least. With two unanimous and one two to one decision on our side of the book, and only one unanimous decision out of three against the college debaters, it is felt that the least that can be said is that the forensic department has had a very successful year.

BRIDGE PARTY.

Saturday afternoon the Alpha O. girls entertained about 80 of their friends at a bridge party at their chapter house on South Sixth. At the close of a delightful afternoon, light refreshments were served.

EASTER BREAKFAST.

Easter morning the Iota Delta girls entertained the chapter with an Easter breakfast. The table was prettily decorated with spring flowers and Easter motifs.

Mr. Tidland visited his daughter Gail last week.

CELEBRATE FOUNDERS' DAY.

Thursday evening the Chi Omega sorority celebrated their "Founders' Day." The evening was spent at the Buell home on South Grand avenue. Several hours were spent with music, and at the close of the evening refreshments were served.

Mrs. E. Broox Martin has become a patroness to Alpha Omicron Pi.

POPULAR M. S. C. MUSICIAN TAKES MATRIMONIAL LEAP IN CAPITOL CITY

Fred E. LaBonte, a sophomore in the civil engineering department, returned from Helena early Sunday morning and announced his marriage to a popular young Helena girl. Her name has been kept a secret, but the truth of this lies in the fact that he has purchased and passed around the cigars in celebration of the happy event.

COUNT GUGLIA UNDERGOES OPERATION.

The Count Saacha Facceti-Guglia, who has been a student at M. S. C. for the past two years, was operated on for appendicitis last Saturday evening at the Livingston hospital.

ASSISTANT TRACK MANAGER WANTED

Vacancy Exists for Person Interested in Athletics—Will Be Made Manager Next Year.

A notice has been posted on the athletic bulletin concerning track managerships. This notice, which reads as follows, should be of interest to any junior or sophomore men who are interested in athletics:

"A vacancy exists in the position of assistant track manager. The athletic council has decided to fill this position at the end of the track season with the junior who best demonstrates his qualifications for the work during the competition which will be conducted during the track season this spring. This period of competition will start on Monday, April 9. The junior chosen will be chosen as track manager next year without further competition.

"A sophomore will be chosen by the athletic council at the end of the track season, from the sophomores who try out for the position of second assistant track manager during the period of competition, which will also start on Monday, April 9. The sophomore chosen will fill the position of assistant manager next spring and will become track manager in his senior year without further competition."

Any sophomores or juniors interested in these positions should see H. L. Tenney as soon as possible.

With prospects of winning track teams in the future, with trips to the Rocky Mountain Conference in Colorado and to other colleges in Montana and other northwestern states a certainty, this position of track manager should be of interest to men interested in athletics. The track manager also receives the regulation manager's "M." sweater as an award for his work.

NEW WHISTLE INSTALLED AT HEATING PLANT.

"To—whe—o—o—o—oo!"
What the Sam Hill? It's only six thirty. Who's celebratin' the engineers' ball?"

"To—Whe—o—o—o—oo!"
"Now isn't that beautiful? Hey, Bill wake up!"
"Aw, lay off. What's got under your skin now? It's only Monday mornin' and I haven't got an eight o'clock or no fires to build. Lemme sleep!"

Plomp! The "peevish" individual pulled the comforts over his head, grabbed his pillow like he would a tramp, and settled down for a good snooze.

"Well, I'll be —!"

Sam slowly raised to an upright position and surveyed the room. He looked at his watch for the second time to make certain that he hadn't read the hands upside down before. What was it? Where had that beautiful "calf-like" bawl come from?

He found the secret at 8 o'clock when the siren again blazed forth its roar. The plant engineer explained that it was a three-tone siren. He failed to explain whether or not the 150 pounds steam pressure required to run it was used in producing the road or shutting off the hot air.

GRAND STYLE SHOW HELD AT ELKS' CLUB.

On last Tuesday evening, a spring style show was conducted for the Woman's Club in the ball room of the Elks' Club. Mrs. Peet acted as hostess, and had charge of the program. All modes and fashions of distinctive dresses for a complete spring wardrobe, including lines of lingerie, afternoon dresses, street and sport clothes, with all accessories, for the woman who desires to be perfectly and seasonably groomed, were displayed.

The college girls who effectively served as models were Lillian Evers, Virginia Pollard, Christine Kirk, Rhoda Harris, Josephine Howard, Margaret Williams, Catherine Story, Eurice Eagle, Mary Maxey, Mrs. Everett Cutting, Helen Chase, and Solveig Rivines.

HELENA HIGH SCHOOL NEWS- PAPER LAUDS WORK OF FANGS DURING TOURNEY

One of the things that impressed us all at Bozeman was the splendid work of the "Fangs" in taking care of the crowds in the gym. Montana State can well be proud of this organization. Perhaps you wonder who we mean when we speak of the Fangs. On the back of our tournament books we all found a little information about their history and origin—Helena Nugget.

A regular dark horse has developed in the pole vault event, in Powers. Powers is a sophomore, and if he continues to go as he has in the past few weeks he will make a good bid for high place in his event.

Sales, who will be remembered as a distance runner last year, has been changed to the high hurdle event, where he is doing well and is making an interesting race between himself and Cottam. Cottam so far has the edge, but the good natured rivalry has done much to improve both of them. Sales is a sophomore and Cottam a first year man.

Ted Cates seems to be the best all-around track man on the squad. He is showing up well in the sprint, broad jump and the high jump. We are counting on Ted to bring us at least one first place by taking the high jump, the event in which he holds the state record.

Blumenthal our famous strong man, is putting the shot as far as the best of them, and his discus-throwing is not far behind.

Wester, Cogswell, Mortenson and Benton make up the rest of the sprinting squad, and if developments continue as they have it will be a very formidable aggregation.

There has been some discussion about the track meets being held on the old fair grounds, although the old track may be improved and used.

In closing, let us say: Don't forget the handball, tennis, wrestling and boxing tournaments which are to be held in the near future. Start training now!

The official tryouts for the track squad will be held in the form of the interorganization meet on April 28. The meet is based upon the points scored by fraternities, schools and classes.

And baseball is here, too! All organizations who intend to enter the league should have their captains notify the athletic department this week, so that a schedule may be arranged at an early date.

If weather will permit, why not try out the old ball and glove? Remember this league starts Tuesday, April 24.

in the contest this year, the English department has planned to make it an annual event. In the past there has been an annual extemporaneous speaking contest for the secondary students, but never before have the collegiate students entered a contest of this kind.

The judges Friday morning were: Director F. S. Cooley, Prof. D. B. Swingle, Mrs. Olga Ross Hannon, Miss Lotie Milan and R. B. Bowden.

ANNUAL EDUCATIONAL CONFERENCE IN SPOKANE.

The annual educational conference was held during the past week in Spokane, Wash. This meeting is the largest and most representative gathering of teachers in the United States, outside of the National Educational Association. Educational leaders from Montana, Idaho, Oregon and Washington attended this conference. The purpose of this gathering it to discuss any educational problems which may arise. These problems are discussed for the benefit of all those attending the conference. Chancellor Brannon attended the conference as a representative from the University of Montana. Among the members of the faculty representing the state college were Dean J. M. Hamilton, Prof. M. J. Abbey, Miss Brannegan and Professor Holst. Various members of the faculties of the other institutions of the state also attended the conference. Dean J. M. Hamilton was elected president of the association for the next year. Professor Holst was elected chairman of the executive committee of the vocational section, and Miss Franks was made a member of the same committee.

The principal outside speakers at the conference were President E. B. Bryan, of the University of Ohio; Mr. W. J. Spillman of the United States Department of Agriculture, and Mr. J. O. Engelman, the field agent of the National Educational Association.
