Mrs. Vandenhook Offers Prize For Student Play

SEEKS TO REVIVE OLD CUSTOM OF STUDENTS WRITING PLAYS TO BE INTRODUCED ON CAMPUS; TOOK PART IN FIRST PLAY PRODUCED AT MONTANA STATE

Mrs. Charles Vandenhook of Bozeman has offered a prize of $25.00 for the best play written this year by a student of M. S. C. this play, according to the Tormentors who are sponsoring the contest, can be any type of drama, modern, period, collegiate, historical etc., there will be no rules regarding the plot, characters on setting but it must be understood, the play, preferably one act, must be purely drama and not a musical comedy.

Tormentors and some other groups of players will probably put on the play, so it should be a drama which could be acted by a cast before an audience.

Play writing seems a new feature to the present students, but veteran members of the faculty will remember that back in the early part of the twentieth century in 1900, 1901, 1902 and 1903 it was a part of the curriculum.

The freshman composition class, under the leadership of Professor Brewer, was expected to write and produce a play. Professor Brewer, very much interested in this line of English on account of having studied it under the eminent Professor Baker then of Harvard, but now of Yale, included in the freshman English course, principles of play production. The first play produced by these freshmen was "The Purple and the Persons," a drama of M. S. C. college life, written by Misses Lucile Quaw, Ellen Gotschalk, Margaret Ferris, and Messrs. Maurice Lamme, Elwood Morris and Will Schabanker. Miss Mignon Quaw wrote the prologue. The characters of this play, M. S. C. students, were played by the freshman class. The scenes were on the campus, in the Main Hall especially.

The next year a play on the history of early Montana was attempted by Charles Sackett and other members of the frosh English composition class, but nothing came of it. The last drama, "The Naughty Seven in Peace and War," a take-off on the sophomores, ridiculed them so much that in order to get even, they kidnapped the three leading actors in the play. The freshmen in desperation pleaded with Professor Tallman to save them. By some mysterious means he prevailed upon the sophomores to return the players, just in time to go on the stage.

This idea of play production may seem a new one, but it is only the revival of freshman English composition. Mrs. Vandenhook, who in her student days was Miss Lucy Gage, took part in the first play ever presented by M. S. C. students. She was so interested in reviving this old activity that she has generously offered this prize. If no play produced is judged good enough for the prize, the contest will be held again next year.

The definite rules for the contest as well as the judges and time limit when the plays must be in will be announced later, according to Rhoda Harris, president of Tormentors.

BILL FLAHERTY RETURNS FOR HOMECOMING

Captain of First Bobcat Football Team Tells of Experiences in Old Days

Among the old grads who came home for Homecoming was one W. A. Flaherty, of Willow Creek. "Bill" Flaherty, as he is called by his friends, was one of the prominent students of Montana State in his time and still finds occasion to revisit his Alma Mater occasionally.

"Bill" was captain of the first football team that M. S. C. boasted. In all, he played some six years on the Varsity, for in those days members of the prep school were eligible for Varsity. The first year he played was in 1896, soon after the foundation of the college.

In those days Prof. Brewer, now head of the English department, was the coach. Also, in those days, it was a regular occurrence for the Bobcats to take the Bruins to a cleaning in football each year. While Mr. Flaherty and Prof. Brewer were talking over the "old days," the story was told that on the occasion of one of the football rallies before a Bobcat-Bruin game, a member of the Missoula team was asked to make a speech and he ended up by saying that he hoped that some day the University might boast a football team good enough to beat the Aggies.

Mr. Flaherty took special work in Mining Engineering here. The engineering department at that time occupied part of the basement of the building that is now occupied by the extension service.

Mr. Flaherty now lives in Willow Creek, where he is a member of the school board.

KITTENS FINISH SEASON WITH TEACHER VICTORY

Defeat Normal College by 58-6 Score; Dyche Uses Every Man on Squad in Game

The Bobkittens triumphed over the State Normal college 58-6, although using every man on the squad consisting of about 35 men. The Frosh second string started the fray and allowed the Teachers to push over a touchdown before the fray had hardly begun. The first team went in at this point and boosted the score to a safe lead, in order to give every man on the squad a chance to play this season.

Penfield was a gain the leading performer for the Frosh and Keyes showed up well by making three touchdowns, two on passes and one an intercepted pass. Gardiner also showed up well making several nice gains and one nice pass to Keyes for a touchdown. These men were assisted by the line, who were a stone wall of defense and stopped all advances through that quarter. All the squad showed up well.

Lineup and summary:

"Get Your Tickets Early" Is Cry of Vendors of Tickets For The Special Train to Missoula

Tickets are on sale for the railroad fare and admission to the Missoula game. All together, it amounts to nine dollars and thirty cents. We repeat it—$9.30. Are you going? Well, I hope you make it if you don't.

"I'm broke" will be the excuse—but a poor one. If you could only break a leg, or get lost in a blizzard between now and the 25th you might get by with your alibi. Being broke is no alibi—that's an accepted characteristic of life. If someone asks you to lend him the price of a haircut—no, you're broke. If someone asks you to buy him a malted milk—no, you're broke. If a poor old one-legged man asks you to buy a pencil—no, you're broke. It's the age-old alibi—and nobody has believed you yet.

If you're a he-man, get out and help the street car company run the car line up Sixth. If you're a regular girl—rush down and get a job running the elevator in the Ellen theatre. There are two suggestions on how to raise the price for Thanksgiving day. We have lots more valuable ones like that—just drop around and see us.

But you're going to Missoula—you might not know it now, but when you see someone else borrowing a clean shirt or a compact in order to be a credit to the institution, it's a pretty big cinch that you'll do the same, if it isn't too late, and pump up the old bicycle. But if you are a bloated plutocrat, buy your ticket now, and avoid the last minute rush. We're prophesying a rush just about the 24th.

Dean Herrick and Dean Hamilton are opening up pawn shops—any articles of value, such as single galoshes, cracked mirrors, cracker crumbs, or bay wreaths will be accepted at your own valuation. It is not necessary that you redeem them.

Here's for seeing you with your ticket all bought and paid for within two hours. Kramer's Cafe is putting up shoe-box luncheons for all those who intend to make the trip.

Visitors Take Breaks In Muddy Victory

BOBCATS MAKE FIRST THREATS OF SCORING; BOBCATS OUTPLAY COWBOYS FOR THREE QUARTERS; BOBCAT TOUCHDOWN NOT ALLOWED

Again Montana bowed to defeat when they met Wyoming in what was one of the greatest exhibitions of football yet seen in Bozeman. The same jinx that played with us last year was with us again Saturday for the Cowboys certainly won a lucky victory over a great Bobcat team. It was a Homecoming game that will be long remembered by students and alumni alike.

JUDGING TEAMS WIN AT PORTLAND

For the third consecutive year the Montana State College Grain Judging won first place at the International in Portland and the right to bring home the cup that has graced the trophy case for the past two years. In individual placings Tootell got third, Kohls fourth and Strand was close behind.

The Stock judging team that went down at the same time placed second. This is the highest showing ever made by the stock team, they having placed fourth for the two years previous.

BIDS ON WOMENS HALL REJECTED

Lowest Bid $35,000 Higher Than Money Allowed by Legislature

Bids on the construction of the Women's Building were considered by the State Board last week, but the Board deferred action on the bids until a later date. That is the word from President Atkinson in regard to the bids.

The reason for deferring action was due to the fact that the lowest bid on the job was $35,000 higher than the amount of money that has been allowed for this building. Bids on the building were in three groups, for the actual construction, the fitting of electrical appliances, and for the plumbing. The firm of O'Brien and Goss, of Butte, submitted the lowest bid for the construction work, while D. H. Budd Company, of Bozeman, gave the lowest figures for the electrical and plumbing work.

When it was found that the bids were higher than the state could pay for the building, the architects suggested changes in the structure of the building that would reduce the cost. These are in the nature of using wood supports in the roof, and other minor changes that will not affect the size or efficiency of the building. Goss and Wood are submitting new bids, based on the suggested changes. The new bids should be in the hands of the Board by the end of this week.

If the bids are still too high, the Board has not yet decided on the procedure that will be followed.

There were eleven bids on the actual construction work on the building.

W. A. A. CHANGES PROGRAM—TO PUT ON DEMONSTRATIONS

The W. A. A. plans for this year differ from the usual program. Instead of giving a pantomime or a pageant as has been the custom, six minute demonstrations will be held.

The plans are not yet completed but it is planned to have the demonstrations include as much of the regular floor work and athletic activities as is possible.

This will give the delegates an idea of what the work in this department is and will help put the W. A. A. on the map.

At the outset it seemed like an easy Bobcat victory for we rushed the ball to Wyoming's one yard line in a series of straight line plunges before the visitors knew what it was all about. However, here the Cowboys held for downs and kicked from in back of their own goal line. After this the half progressed into a bitter contest with neither side having the advantage and with Montana making almost twice as much yardage from scrimmage as did the visitors. In the second half, Whitman, their star half got away on a crossback and wormed his way for a touchdown. Following this score, the Cowboys succeeded in making 5 first downs and adding to their yardage total, but never having the push to put the ball over, although they threatened several times. M. S. C. attempted a rally by means of the passing game but this was effectively stopped by the Cowboy secondary defense which intercepted two and grounded several others. Wyoming did very little passing after Glynn intercepted a Wyoming pass and loped for an easy touchdown, which was not allowed, however, as a Wyoming linesman had been offside and the referee had blown the whistle before the play was completed, thus killing the ball. This really was the break in the game that we needed but fate decreed otherwise.

Glynn's kicking was a feature of the game, the lanky Bobcat end booting the ball 12 times for an average of 35 yards. Babcock again featured with his running and line bucking and Gregory backed up the line in great shape.

Montana threatened three times, once on the yard line and twice near enough for "Rip" Wilson to try for field goals. The field was a sea of mud and with the ball soggy and dirty both attempts failed. However, it was a great exhibition of football and makes us more proud of our team.

Lineup and summary:

At last the editorial staff of the Exponent has found a way to please the student body and make the paper acceptable in the eyes of all beholders. We must make it a comic sheet. What you want, fellow students, is not a newspaper, but an illustrated comic weekly. More favorable comment was aroused by the section "The Exponent as We Would Like to Print It" than by all the Exponents of all years put together. In order to please you, we have contracted for a series of bedtime stories to keep you all happy and satisfied. We admit that it is easier to make you laugh than to make you think.

Homecoming was a success—every graduate of the institution returned, and commented about the wonderful spirit shown in every phase of our college activities. But, we did have a good time, and we were glad to see the Alumni, the few faithful ones. Fraternity houses are to be congratulated for their decorations, and for their warm welcome to former students. May our next Homecoming bring less snow, more Alumni, and a football victory.

Girls' Vocational Congress is drawing near. Committees have been appointed, plans are being made for a bigger and better Pageant, and students have begun to count the women in their classes, to see whether or not they will be excused during the Congress sessions. This annual gathering brings a large number of women to this school—a census would prove that—and we should, therefore, know before the great goodness "Delegate" and pray for an increased attendance of co-eds.

The official Rally Dance, scheduled in the Registrar's Office, and chaperoned by officially selected men and women was at the Rose Garden. It was very unfortunate that this was not clearly understood by the rival faction.

Six-weeks exams are here, and after this week we will be on the home stretch. Lives and homes depend upon your averages at this time, Freshmen—and you who are not quite so fresh, so be sure and neglect all social and other foolish activities while you burn the midnight oil. Gasoline is not synonymous with midnight oil. Remember that "A's" are easier to write than "F's", but there is a lot of difference between writing and earning.

The college treasurer has agreed to advance the Exponent a good sum of the faculty payroll so that the editors may put out an eight-page issue every week. The students like the big papers, and they like them because they are waterproof. After a very careful perusal they can be taken to the game and used for cushions. Many a cleaning bill was avoided last Friday by the timely editing of the paper.

There was a hurry call to the Ellen Friday night. One person broke a windpipe from cheering. No other casualties reported. The injured person was from Wyoming. Yes, you had lots of volume, and it sounded nice, but the apathy was noticeable. You weren't cheering for the Affiliated Order of Hairnet Makers—you were supposed to be backing a fighting, football team. The small group of Wyoming supporters made a snappier noise than you did, and they won. Next time, it's up to you to win that game—and you can do it by yelling.

Open House

"Open-house" is the latest war-cry of the fair co-eds at our college. This isn't leap year—but evidently the girls think so, so watch your step fellows.

It is always a very enjoyable occasion (?), especially the introductions. An Eve will engagingly tempt some blushing Adam into the living room and lead him through a regular sea of pledges. Having made the "grand tour" the young hero is left standing in the midst of four or five young things who "Oh!" and "Ah!" at regular intervals. After a due time has elapsed he is pushed into the dining room, and refreshments are thrust into his hand. He is expected to juggle tea gracefully and hand a line at the same time.

The parting always has much manual labor connected with it. He must pick out his coat (just try and find it), and recognize the hat some brother is standing on, as his own. Then he must shake hands with the "girls," and try and look regretful as he goes toward the door and freedom, gratefully thanking his hostesses for the wonderful time he's had.

Wasn't it Gregory who said
Tell me not in mournful numbers
Life is but a dream
Because I've been to open-houses
And I know that life's a scream.

In an isolated region, almost inaccessible in winter, this 6500 h.p. hydro-electric plant located on the Deerfield River in New England, starts, protects, and stops itself.

A Self-Starting Power Plant

Dawn—the slumbering city awakens and calls for electric current. Many miles away the call is answered. A penstock opens automatically, releasing impounded waters; a water turbine goes to work, driving a generator; and electric current is soon flowing through wires over the many miles to the city. This plant starts and runs itself.

Power plants with automatic control are now installed on isolated mountain streams. Starting and stopping, generating to a set capacity, shutting down for hot bearings and windings, gauging available water supply, they run themselves with uncanny precision.

Thus another milestone has been reached in the generation of electric power. And with present-day achievements in power transmission, electricity generated anywhere may be applied everywhere.

The non-technical graduate need not know where electricity comes from—nor even how it works. But he should know what electricity can do for him no matter what vocation he selects.

The General Electric Company has developed generating and transmitting equipment step by step with the demand for electric power. Already electricity at 220,000 volts is transmitted over a distance of 270 miles. And G-E engineers, ever looking forward, are now experimenting with voltages exceeding a million.

A new series of G-E advertisements showing what electricity is doing in many fields will be sent on request. Ask for booklet GEK-1.

BEWARE!

Prof. Barger Has the Dope
on You

What, in general, is the matter with student English themes? They lack continuity, says Prof. Barger.

All too often a student's English theme is written something after this fashion: The Instructor has announced that the subject of the theme shall be "Why We Should Participate in Outside Activities." The student starts his theme in the English classroom by asking his neighbor what he's going to say. His neighbor tells him one point and he immediately puts that down in a few sentences. That is his first paragraph.

A few hours later, in his room, he happens to think of a point, himself, and wastes no time in recording it. That is his second paragraph.

The next morning the theme is due. He comes into the library to finish it and at an opportune moment when the librarian is not watching he turns to the fellow next to him. "Why should we participate in outside activities?" he asks. This man happens to be deep in the intricacies of a math problem but nobly refrains from choking our hero and gives the first reply that comes into his head which may or may not be a good one. A few remarks on this reply form the last paragraph of the theme and the student breathes a sigh of relief and says to the first English classmate he meets in the hall, "Got your theme done, I have."

CO OPP BOARDING CLUB ASSISTING MANY STUDENTS

The Co Opp Boarding Club located at 702 South Third for the fourth year is making it possible for a large number of students to attend college at a reasonable cost. At present one hundred and sixteen young men are boarding at the Club at a cost of $15 per month. Mr. Abbey has general supervision with Lyle Roessler and Mrs. Martin in direct charge. In addition to giving board at actual cost, an employment bureau is run in connection with the Club. Mr. Abbey states that the calls for young men to work the present fall have been greater than any previous year. There is no reason why any young man desiring to put himself through college should fail for a lack of employment. That during the past week a number of students have been put in places where they can work for their room or board. This makes it possible for the Club to accommodate several additional young men who desire board next month but were unable to get in the first month.

Harmon Funds Aid Sixteen Montana State Students

Since its affiliation with Montana State college in 1923, the Harmon Foundation has been able to extend its service of loaning funds for educational purposes to sixteen of the college's students. These loans have been made on a strictly business basis, and it is the belief of the Foundation that in this way alone the student can acquire a knowledge of and responsibility in business rules with which he will meet after college. Unlike others making loans on this basis the Foundation has asked as collateral security only sound character, excluding the security required by life insurance or property endorsement.

The Harmon Foundation considers the student borrower, after he has paid up his obligation under the easy method of repayment in use, has materially benefited himself and also the general student body. He has benefited himself by developing saving habits and by establishing a character credit that will be of value to him in business. He has benefited the student body as a whole by showing that student paper, properly safeguarded is worth its face value and that the investment of the principal of funds in student loans as well as the income therefrom is justifiable. The division of student loans of the Foundation, in its first three years of operation has assisted 760 students by loaning the principal and income of its funds, while had this money been restricted to the use of income at the rate of six per cent only 91 students could have been aided in this same length of time.

Of the sixteen Montana students aided, fourteen have been men and two women, and the average student budget estimated for an academic year is $582. The University's appropriation from the Foundation was $1,000 in 1923-24; $1,000 in 1924-25; and for the present year is $2,000.

DR. WIRT TO SPEAK AT ASSEMBLY WEDNESDAY

Dr. Loyal L. Wirt will speak to the townspeople at the Emerson Auditorium on Tuesday night at eight o'clock and to the college students at an assembly held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. This assembly will take the place of the regular Friday assembly.

Dr. Wirt was Educational Commissioner in Alaska, Red Cross Commissioner in France during the war and International Commissioner of the Near East Relief. He is a member of the Royal Geographical Society and represents Peace Organizations.

He is connected with International War work and his lectures bear on the World Court, which problem comes up before the senate meeting in December.

His subject for the down town lecture is "A New Foreign Policy for the United States." At the Assembly he will talk on "Our Legacy to Our Children—Law or War."

Dr. Wirt is a most interesting speaker, and his subjects are of World-wide interest. It will be well worth while for every college student to attend both lectures if possible. Everyone is expected to be present at the Assembly Wednesday morning.
