CAT-GRIZZLY BATTLE TOMORROW

M. S. C. STUDENTS FAVOR ROOSEVELT

Democrat Shadows Landon By Good Majority in Straw Poll; 43 Per Cent Voted

President Has Lead Of One Hundred Votes

Thomas And Lemke Follow Way Behind Other Two.

"Roosevelt for President!" say the students at Montana State college, casting 339 votes for him over 202 for Landon in a presidential poll conducted on the campus last week. Thomas follows with 10 votes and Lemke with 3.

Due to its number rather than its political interest, the freshman class has the biggest representation of any class with 119 votes cast, 73 of which went to Roosevelt, 42 to Landon, 3 to Thomas and 1 to Lemke. Landon, however, drew his biggest support from this group.

Sophomores were more undecided but the Democrats claimed a victory over the Republicans with 41 votes to their 39. Thomas and Lemke each drew 1 vote from this group making a total of 82 sophomores who expressed their opinions.

Landon was outnumbered almost two to one in the junior class with only 26 votes in comparison to Roosevelt's 44.

40 seniors went for Roosevelt, 23 for Landon, 1 for Thomas and 1 for Lemke, totaling 65 seniors who voted.

Five graduates went Democratic and one lone Republican supported his man, while 212 people voted who failed to state their class. 136 of these voted for Roosevelt, 71 for Landon and 5 for Thomas.

Only 43% of the student body voted at this poll, but it is believed that the results show a fairly accurate cross-section of the prevalent opinion on the campus.

Dean Milam Will Be Speaker And Honor Guest At A Banquet

Dinner Given By Home Ec Club To Be Occasion Of Talk

Dean Ava B. Milam of the Oregon State College at Corvallis will be the honor guest and speaker at the annual Home Economcs Club banquet on October 29. Arrangements for the dinner which will be held at the Baxter Hotel are under the general direction of Vivienne Finley, president of the club.

Dean Milam has made two visits to the Orient, during which she served as visiting professor in several universities. She travelled, studied Oriental home life and schools and colleges. She is the author of "Student Homes In China" which was published in 1930 by Columbia University. Her close contacts and study of conditions in the Orient enable her to give first hand information thereof. A study trip to various parts of the Orient is being planned for the summer of 1938 under the direction of Dean Milam.

The Home Ec Club banquet is an annual affair which is attended by all Home Economics students who are automatically members of the club. The entertainment is under the direction of Janet Starring, and the sale of tickets is being conducted by Helen Hollandsworth.

NOTICE

All freshmen will meet at 7:30 tonight in pajamas in front of the Bozeman Hotel.

Montana State Campus Is Becoming Musical

Montana State campus is evidently becoming more music minded. The orchestra has grown from thirty members to forty and more than can be accommodated have registered for the chorus of the "Messiah."

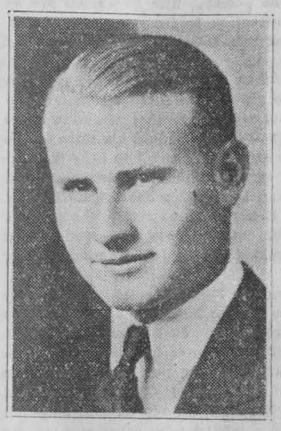

Last year at this time, the highest number of the chorus reached sixty-six while this year one hundred and forty-four have registered and only one hundred and ten will be taken in. The reason for this is that books of music and orchestration are so expensive and there is no place where rehearsals can be held for so large a group of people. Every Monday night from 7:30 to 9:00, rehearsals have been and are to be held in the lecture room of the Engineering building. From the looks of things the "Messiah" is promising to be a real musical event of December.

There are four other important musical programs being given within the next two months. On Armistice Day the orchestra is playing at the Ellen theater. Not all members will play as the theater space is limited. Mr. Goodsell is giving a violin concert the 29th of November. This wil be his 47th two hour program. On the 6th of December a stringed group consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Goodsell, Janet Baker and Mr. Dyche will give a concert. On December 13th, the Sunday after the "Messiah," the whole orchestra will appear together—programs will be out in a few days.

Details concerning the other musical events will be given in the future.

Scribe Uncovers Data On First Grizzly Game

Tomorrow as the Bobcats for the 40th time take the field against Missoula we may well wonder what the first of these games looked like.

Football was organized at M. S. C. in 1897. Reading in the EXPONENT of Oct. 1897 we feel the atmosphere of that early contest. As a preparation went forward for the first game we find the following, "The college has a very efficient football team considering the fact that not more than 2 or 3 of the boys have ever seen a game. The average weight of the team is 155 lbs. . . It has been suggested the students get up a college yell. . . Especially do we need a

Tour Of Campus Reveals Frog Pond That Once Saw Many Bloody Battles

Have you ever taken an extended tour of our large and lovely campus? If you have, then you have found that especially inviting spot behind the Chemistry building—the Frog Pond. You modern students have doubtless forgotten, if you ever knew, that this neat little nook is packed with legend and erstwhile tradition of our beloved M. S. C.

Here, fierce and bloody battles were fought; here gallant heroes jousted and permitted many a blot on their escutcheon in defense of a pretty maid and the honor of the state (college).

Once upon a time, as all good stories should begin, this place was not the picturesque spot it now is, but was a rough and slimy bog. And across this bog the Frosh of bygone days vied with each other at the ends of a tug of war rope. The weakest side got a ducking for its reward. Frequently, both did, just for fun. And were they all lovely to look at, with a lily pad over one ear and a frog up a pant leg.

Now all is dead and gone. The old battle ground has been smoothed and bedecorated into a tame little retreat for moonlit nights.

Think, Freshmen, what you've missed. If you had matriculated ten years ago, you might have had the opportunity to win fame and fortune. Now, humph, I guess we'll have no more complaints from the two bit section.

The Eye Of Montana's Sport World Is Again Turned Toward Butte And Annual Fray Between State Schools

Pep Assembly Was Called On Tuesday Enthusiasm Shown

Welcome Is Extended By Gagner On Behalf Of Butte Citizens

A lively pep assembly was called Tuesday, October 20, in the gym. As the students assembled, the band played several selections, telling ahead the atmosphere which was to follow.

The assembly was opened by Howard Eliason, Commissioner of Demonstrations, who started the ball rolling by suggesting that the student body sing "Montana". Yells were then given under the talented leadership of Heinie Atwood, who seemed well pleased with the way the student body represented itself.

Howard Eliason introduced Coach Croft, the new football coach for Montana State, who talked about the team, and the Butte game. Pat Dolan was introduced to the student body and gave a short talk upon certain important pointers concerning the Butte game.

Albert Zupan, captain of the team for the Butte game, came to the fore and gave a short analysis of what the team would try to do next Saturday. In order to hold the atmosphere, Heinie Atwood again conducted a series of yells and songs. The pep which was shown was only an inkling of what will take place at the game in Butte.

Howard Eliason, presiding officer, then introduced Mr. Gagner, Chairman of the chamber of commerce program from Butte. Mr. Gagner offered a witty welcome to the Bobcats,

Intercollegiate Debate Has Opening Dates Set

Montana State College again enters intercollegiate debate with two teams contesting against entries from other western colleges in the Annual Rocky Mountain Forensic League conference. Dates set for October 29 and 30 will provide two days of major league debating on the most vital question selected, for a number of years.

Resolved: "That the democratic party should not be returned to power in the November election," furnishes controversial material to an infinite degree. Opinions arising from propaganda, indiscretely released, conflicts with occasional truths expounded by oratorical politicians to the extent of necessitating profound perusal of statistical information to obtain basic facts and principles upon which logic and debate technique may be employed.

Members of the men's division will be chosen this afternoon. Mary Ellen Wiggenhorn and Brownie Green will take the stand for the women students.

Under technical advice from Dr. Slagsvold of the economics department, the teams have been instructed in economic figures of the Democratic administration, concerning financial conditions prior to, during, and at the end of the presidential term. Bert Hansen, of the English department, has coached the team members in the technique and presentation of their material.

Smarting From A Series Of Defeats In The Annual Affair, The Cats Want Results

Sport Pages Throughout State Give Bobcats A Very Small Chance To Win, But Anything May Happen To Change Matters

Once again Montana's sportlight is turned toward Butte and the annual Bobcat-Grizzly football classic!

Smouldering under a succession of defeats at the hands of the Grizzlies and driven by the taste of Tiger blood, the Bobcats leave for the mining metropolis Saturday morning to bring back to Montana State's trophy room the state football championship for 1936.

Not conceded a chance to win throughout the sport pages of the state, the Bobcats will be fighting a heavier team than they have faced so far in the conference. Due to the university's drive for athletes which has extended as far East as Chicago (whence came Fessenden) Montana State will also be up against a club of reputedly better ball players. Sports observers have not yet discovered the actual manpower of the foreigners, but some critics wager that a great deal of the muscle is to be found between the ears.

It is anticipated that no less than seventy-five percent of the student body will take the trail west. The Northern Pacific has scheduled a special train to Butte tomorrow morning—leaving at 7:00—and the rates are the lowest that have ever been made for the "Butte Special."

The Bobcat parade will feature the morning's program through the business section of Butte. Every group, organization and activity on the "Hill" at Montana State will be represented and from all indications it will be the biggest parade ever to be staged by the Bobcats in Butte.

Advance reservations placed with Butte's hostelry promise greater difficulty in obtaining accommodations for those students who plan to stay over in Butte. The Finlen has its quota of luncheons and dinners already scheduled. A glance at the list of those who have luncheons schduled might lead us to believe there is an interastate sorority convention afoot.

Win or lose Montana State promises the greatest amount of support ever to be given a Bobcat football team. The Bobcats may be outweighed, but they WON'T be outplayed!

Campus Walks Are All Decorated With Traditional Slogans

Signs Are Painted On Walks To Arouse School Spirit

Students arriving on the hill for 8 o'clocks yesterday morning were met by painted sidewalks voicing "Down with the U" "Eat bear meat" "Smash 'em cats" and other "fighting phrases" intended to arouse the "ole school spirit" and grizzly antagonism.

The painting of the walks is a tradition that is not listed in the handbook and no organization openly admits sponsoring the practice.

Those responsible for the paint smearing probably have good intentions, but the campus was shocked by the treatment of the new quadrangle. A "Yea cats" on the back of quad A is not exactly intelligent, nor does it add greatly to the beauty of the structure.

President Atkinson, in a statement to student prexy Grinde, announced that recurrences of the incident would not be tolerated. President Atkinson requests, if paint must be smeared, those smearing refrain from coloring the school buildings.

Fred Skoog Locates A Specimen Of Rare Bug

In what entomologists at Montana State college term one of the most valuable scientific "finds" in recent years, Fred Skoog of Bozeman, senior in the entomology department at the college, last week collected seven specimens of an insect that is so rare that it is believed that not more than 100 specimens exist in the entomological collections of the world.

Skoog made his discovery in the Gallatin canyon and immediately after he showed his specimens to department members, an expedition was organized and several more specimens were collected.

The insect belongs to the family Grylloblattidae and is one of the few insects that has come down through the ages without changing its bodily structure, department entomologists explain.

Grylloblatta resembles somewhat the cockroaches, crickets, earwigs, termites and trout flies. While other commonly known insects have been developing such special adaptations as legs fitted for digging or special breathing apparatus to enable them to live under water, Grylloblatta has clung to the same form for millions of years. In studying the Grylloblatta, students of evolution might

AS THEY SAY IN COLORADO
(Silver and Gold)

WE WRITE AS WE PLEASE

Before we get any further into the year, and before we become any more deeply involved, it would probably be a forward-looking step to write into the records at this point a statement which may perhaps prevent mis-placed criticism in the future. We do not wish to shirk our responsibility; we certainly intend that no other body shall suffer from any inaccuracy we might commit, or from any attitude we may profess.

To students, to faculty members, to citizens of the state, to state legislators, to all whom it may concern: The Silver and Gold is the official organ of the student body. The Silver and Gold is NOT the official organ of the University of Colorado in any sense; does not represent the opinions of regents, faculty, or administration; and the same are in no way responsible for what may appear in our columns.

The editorial columns of The Silver and Gold are completely free from any form of pre-publication censorship—a feather in the University's hat for being liberal, and a tender and potent responsibility for the editors. We have accepted that responsibility with a full consciousness of its gravity, and it is farthest from our desire to attempt to evade it. If blame be due, it is upon our shoulders that it rests, and not upon the back of the administration, the faculty, or the regents.

Our opinions are our own, and we will stand by them. They are not the opinions of the University, abstractly or concretely. Our blunders—and we intend that they shall be few—are our own, and we alone must suffer the penalties which blunders incur. If The Silver and Gold should wave the red flag, it may be set down that the man who proclaims the University to be a hot-bed of radicalism and subversive elements is either stupid or mis-informed—and probably both.—rlp.

SMUTTERINGS

All this talk about the Butte game is fine—however there's one thing I'd like to have definitely cleared up by Saturday—it's that ol' bogey the weather. How about it gang? Can't something be done?

—S—

With freshman selections nearly out of the way—we can think for a minute about the oncoming general election — a casual thought amongst the important, don'tcha know.

—S—

Then there's the politician who says "To everyone who supports me in the election I will give a lollypop—so vote for me and you'll be voting for a sucker."

—S—

FAIRY TALE: Once upon a time there was a college student who just couldn't let his Math' assignment go, and stayed home from the Butte game on account of it.

"FRAILITY thy name is——"

"Darn him," she growled to herself. "I'm through with men. I hate him!" He came in then. She flushed and whispered to her friend.

"Gosh! Isn't he just the handsomest thing?"

—S—

A fine assembly enjoyed last Tuesday—and what of the fair young maiden who so inspired the flirting eyes (mostly eyebrows) of the bass singer of the junior high quartet. tsk oh task!!

—S—

Remember girls "You can't eat your cake and have it' too!"

—S—

Don't miss the rally and dance Friday nite—even if you have to get someone to take care of the children.

—S—

There is much discussion about the "beef trust" on the Grizzly team. Maybe we ought to send our live stock-judging team over instead of the gridsters.

—S—

Concerning the above however remember the adage "all the grace of a cow—and just as smart." (point enlarged upon by Captain Zupan at the last assembly).

—S—

The Pep club is seemingly working out plenty fine—however the value of the pillows is still rather vague to some. If it stays cold maybe the Pep members can use them to cover up with Saturday.

—S—

"No, I can't go out with you tonite—I became engaged to Jack last nite."

"O. K. then—how about next week?"

Will the lad with the cute lil car please refrain from parking it on the army drill field—a platoon of men drilling the other day didn't notice it and one of the men stubbed his toe as he stepped over. You can realize how serious that would be—throwing the whole platoon out of step.

—S—

The only red, white and blue buoy in the world is in Baltimore Harbor just off Fort McHenry. It marks the spot where Frances Scott Key wrote the words to the "Star Spangled Banner".

—S—

Editing a paper without ruffling someone's feelings is like winking at a girl in the dark; lots of exercise, but no results.

—S—

'I have a dual personality."
"Go chase yourself!"

—S—

"Well," as Lady Godiva said as she rode home, "I'm nearing my clothes."

So be good lil boys and girls at Butte—and if you don't do that at least give that team of ours your help—every dern one of yuh! 'Cuz after all you want to be able to say you helped them win.

"On to Butte"

EDITOR'S MAIL

Dear Editor:

I think the Exponent is a fine college paper and is doing a great deal of good on the campus, but I certainly dislike the way in which you allow members of one organization to throw insults at members of another through your pages. I suppose that Mr. Finn started it all by that remark about the Conservatives being the ones who failed to come down out of the trees. Of course, no red-blooded American could take that insult lying down. The trouble is that the idea of insults and slams is going so far as to give this Freshman Class an independent feeling. Some members feel that they can do anything and get away with it as long as the upper classes are scrapping. That is definitely going too far and is, really, the result of the disagreement between Mr. Finn and the Fangs.

Before I go further, I wish to say that I do not disapprove of either the Septemviri nor of the Service Organizations. I believe that in the past they have kept up the traditions of M. S. C. very well. That is an opinion based, of course, upon hearsay. One certainly would not get that opinion by visiting our campus today. It would seem that the traditional green cap is going out of style. Only a few of the Frosh bother to wear, or even carry, their caps with them. Not only do they fail to uphold this old tradition, but some of them deliberately enter the Front Door of Main Hall, sit on the forbidden benches and even go so far as to refuse to show up to help whitewash our famous M. That is certainly a ridiculous situation. To make it even worse, the Fangs have been deprived of their only way to enforce traditions—the paddle. The Freshmen are as free as the wind. They pay no attention to the mere words of a Sophomore Is that not proof that something is definitely lacking in our mechanics of enforcement?

Must we forego all our Freshmen traditions just because one obstinate upperclassman refuses to see that he has made a mistake and do his part to remedy it? It is easy to see that Mr. Finn made that ruling in regard to the paddles because he laid his faith in the fact that Freshmen should have enough school spirit to keep the traditions up. Surely he can see by now that many of our Freshmen don't begin to understand what sacred thing school tradition is. Surely he can understand that it is his place to return the paddles to the Fangs and let them do their duty. If he is not broad-minded enough to see this, it is about time that the Septemviri were looking for a new leader.

If, however, he is obstinate, and the Fangs have to go on as they are, it is the Freshman's place to realize his responsibility and to do his part in carrying on our traditions. Just think, classmates, that now you are beginning a four year course in this school. The upperclassmen and the teachers are watching you critically. Your success in the future depends upon the showing of school-spirit and realization of duty now. Don't let these days slip by and leave an impression of being a shirker and a person who cares nothing for the school! Come on Freshmen and show your loyalty!!!

Yours,

A FRESHMAN

Editor's note: As a rule we do not publish anonymous letters but Freshy hit the nail on the head so squarely we couldn't resist publishing the manuscript. (By the way, my freshman friend, how would you like to write a few editorials for us?)

Under-Water Vacuum Cleaner Used On Pool

Baton Rouge, La.—(ACP)—An under-water vacuum cleaner! That is the device that has been employed at Louisiana State university, for washing out the swimming pool while it is full of water.

A man dons a diving helmet and goes to the bottom to "vacuum cup" the trash that gathers. The same water can be used for several weeks at a time. A great saving. But the water is not motionless; it is going in and out of the pool at the rate of 750 gallons a minute and passing through a purifier. A solution of copper sulphate keeps algae from forming.

Time Magazine Finds Students Hale, Hearty

That the Class of 1940 which is this week beginning studies at America's universities, is 300,000 strong nationally, averages 178.03 centimeters tall in New England, and faces such complex facts as a student body of 42,850 persons enrolled in New York university, a president at Harvard, who at the moment is on vacation in Europe, and difficult scenes at Columbia where striking members of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paper Hangers joined President Nicholas Murray Butler's academic procession as it wended its way across the campus to opening ceremonies, is revealed in the current issue of Time Magazine, published today.

"Born amid the crash of arriving trunks and the scratching of multitudinous pens on official blanks, was an entity known as the Class of 1940,55 the Time article reports. "Its 300,000 members, according to a survey made at University of Illinois, are better nourished and better developed than their predecessors, 87% of them being in 'good-to-excellent physical shape.' Its New England members, according to the Journal of the American Medical Association, are the tallest group of human beings in the world, 178.03 centimeters (circa 5 ft. 10 in.). First official act of the Class of 1940 as it gathered in its new colleges was to hear addresses of welcome and counsel from its new presidents, newsworthy presidential soundoffs.

Laramie, Wyoming boasts of the girl who is registered for civil engineering. Couldn't we have done that quite some time ago?

Every seat in Memorial Stadium, including the 10,000 wooden bleacher seats, has been sold for the Iowa-Minnesota Homecoming at Minneapolis. The game is to be played on November 7. How a crowd like that would look on our stadium!

Minnesota has been in conference championship circles 10 times since the league first opened its football rivalry in 1895. Only Michingan has been in the chartered midst move, having laid claims to 13 titles.

The Varsity, student daily at the U. of Toronto, is not only conducting a dating bureau, but prints a blank for registering with the organization on the front page of each issue.

Field hockey, the newest of the popular women's sports, is now played in 31 countries of the world.

Canada and 31 states are represented in the Freshman class alone on the campus at Arizona.

Fourteen football players have enrolled in the introduction to nutrition course at the University of Arizona, and eleven other boys in the class bring the total to 25. Football players seem to be going scientific in an attempt to form a well-balanced diet.

Freshmen of the 1940 class at the U. of New Mexico can wear corduroy pants. They were given this privilege recently because of the economy of the practice.

Students at the University of Illinois who wish to drive on the campus must pass a chauffeur's examination.

The Art Department Is Now Holding Exhibit

A very modern exhibit of color prints by contemporary American artists is being shown in the art department of Herrick Hall. This exhibit shows a great variety of subject matter, technique and approach.

From this collection of twelve prints, the art students had the privilege of selectng one to remain in their department. By a large majority vote the print "High Yaller" won. It is a young negress dressed in a brilliant yellow dress walking at a springing pace down 126 street in Harlem. Behind her stretch the typical brownstone steps of the district. The picture is interesting for its spontanuity, color and unusualness.

Another picture which was favored was "the Nosegay" by Peggy Bacon. It is a delightful and amusing bit of pastel work depicting a New York vendor pinning a nosegay on his horse. Miss Bacon insists she really saw the incident.

The exhibit will be open to M. S. C. students for another week.

Challenge College Girl To Improve Her Looks

Here I come with a big challenge for every college girl. On our campus you know there are about two boys for every girl, and some mighty, mighty nice ones too. What do you say to this: Let's all try to dress to please the boys this year. We might as well admit the fact because every one of us does it anyhow. So let's make a declaration and dress to please the mighty male. This is my challenge and I'd be willing to bet that you will all be either too lazy or too conservative (remember the assembly and the crack about the conservatives) to accept it. However, while there's life there's some faint glimmer of hope; so let's go. Let's all organize to show the male of the species that all the good looking, well-dressed girls in the world didn't go to Bryn Mawr, Smith or Vassar, but a goodly number of them still come to M. S. C. Let's show them we know how to improve on this old frame mother nature gave us. Let's knock them cold!

I know what you are saying now. "Why are you picking on us? Why not make the boys do something instead of our doing it all?" So I'm also asking the boys to help us. Tell us this much will you boys? Or maybe I should dare you to do so. Tell me what you want the girls to wear? In what ways do you want them to improve? Any suggestions you make will be printed in this column; providing they are not absurd. In other words, I dare you to tell me sensibly how you like the girls to look, dress, act and what have you, on or off the campus. Just send suggestions, anonymously if you so desire to the Fashion Editor, % the Exponent office. I assure you they will be given a just amount of my valuable time.

And girls, now is also the time for you to air your pet fashion peeves. Just send them to me and

Parkins Returns From Attending Convention

Bill Parkins, president of the local chapter of Tau Beta Pi, honorary engineering fraternity, returned last week from the national convention held this year, jointly at Cornell university, Ithaca, and the University of Syracuse, Syracuse, New York, Oct. 8, 9, and 10.

The convention was the climax of a two months trip for Parkins during which he visited Boulder Dam, and the San Diego and Dallas expositions. He also attended the national convention of Pi Kappa Alpha, social fraternity at New Orleans and spent some time at Washington, D. C. While in Washington he met Matt Pakkale, former Motnana State student and Rhodes scholar, who is now continuing his studies at Harvard university.

With the states included in this trip, Bill has now visited all the states in the union, not to mention Alaska, Canada, and Mexico. On the return trip he took a plane from Buffalo, N. Y. to Butte and is now a real advocate for travel by air.

The Faculty Will Hold Discussion Of Issues

Believing students of Montana State to be interested in social and economic issues that face the voting public this election, Dr. Kraenzel announced yesterday that a discussion of referenda and amendments will be held Tuesday, 4:00 in room 304 Lewis Hall.

Members of the faculty will discuss the 8 hour day amendment, marriage ammendment, state insurance of public buildings, and the county consolidation amendment. Students are urged to attend and take an active part in the discussion.

Dr. Kraenzel stated that the purpose of the discussion is to familiarize students and all others interested with the issues which will be decided at the polls next month.

New Course Offered, Six Students Enroll

Six students are enrolled in a new course which is being offered in the Zoology department known as Wild Conservation. According to the instructors the course is a tough one offering with most of the already established biological subjects. Limology, Parasitology, Economic Ornithology and Mammalogy, as well as Fisheries and Big Game Management.

The enrollment must necessarily be small in comparison with other courses due to the amount of personal attention and field work required.

The purpose of this course is to prepare men to go into the field of research, forestry, to enter the Bureau of Fisheries or the Biological Survey. Great interest has already been manifested by those already professional in the work who wish to enlarge their knowledge.

Montana State College is particularly well situated for offering a conservation course in that it is in the center of one of the largest big game ranges as well as in the heart of the Missouri river headwaters which produces more trout than any other place in the world.

Hostility To Education Caused By University

Bethlehem, Pa.—(ACP) — According to claims made by Dr. Edgar S. Furniss, dean of the Graduate School of Yale University, hostility to higher education, as shown by attempts to suppress intellectual freedom, is indirectly the responsibility of the university itself.

Dean Furniss holds the university responsible for the prevailing opposition to higher education because of its failure to instill the tolerant attitude and the abiliy for real thought in its graduates, many of whom are now leaders of most of the movements for suppression.

"Heresy-hunting associations are supported by those who have passed through our institutions of higher learning. Demand for the regulation of the intellectual life of the university comes chiefly from its own graduates."

The universities have been too absorbed with their task of training students to discharge adequately the function of education "of liberating their minds and increasing the scope and penetration of their thinking."

Dean Furniss believes that the vocational function of the university should not be taken away from it. Institutions of higher learning are obligated to serve society. A feature policy that should be adopted by schools is the teaching of proper appreciation of the spirity of learning.

"Delight in and tolerance for thought cannot be imparted by exhortation," he maintains. "They must be acquired in the classroom as a by-product of study."

"It should be the task of every university from this time forward to make the study of every subject in its curriculum, even the most specialized and technical, an educational experience which enlightens and liberates the mind. Training and education can be fused together in any department worthy of a place in an institution of higher learning."

REPEAT 1932

Lincoln, Neb. — (ACP) — Do you know the predominant reasons that students attend certain universities? Surveys on this subject are always interesting even though they may not always be scientifically accurate.

Dr. S. M. Corey, professor of educational psychology and measurements at the University of Nebraska, made an extensive study of this situation insofar as his own institution was concerned, and these were the answers, in the order listed:

Recommendation of high school teachers and administrators.

Proximity of the university to the student's home.

Family influence.

Prestige of the institution.

Economy.

Availability of desired courses.

Influence of friends.

"Of the seven students who gave 'influence of athletics' as their reason," says Dr. Corey, "Five rank in the lowest psychological test and none in the highest."

Freshmen Ignore The Hints On Green Caps

Some time ago we came out with the statement to the effect that this year's freshmen were A-1, the best ever. However, we're thinking seriously of retracting it because they seem to have developed the greatest curse of a college student—they can't take it.

The majority of the freshmen girls disdainfully ignore the suggestion of the insignificant upper classmen that they follow in the footsteps of their predecessors and wear green tams. Are they afraid that a tam will detract from their flawless beauty, or do they labor under the impression that a freshman girl to be popular (and later prominent) on the campus must be sophisticated instead of a good sport? We've noticed a few girls who are clever enough to leave the sophistication act to those who have been here long enough to handle it, and in the meantime they concentrate on making a good impression by being out for everything with a smile and some pep. That's the stuff that will bring in the returns.

Nineteen out of a possible seventy-two freshmen boys are afraid to call themselves a freshman, or else they, too, are too absorbed in their delicate beauty.

For the benefit of the whole class, tams and caps are to be carried on the head and not in the hand or on the table at home. If freshmen continue to be proud, we'd like to remind them of the proverbial fall.

Inquiring Reporter Is Interviewing Students

In an endeavor to feel out student sentiment on the major political issues the EXPONENT is conducting a "question and opinion" campaign amongst the undergraduates of Montana State.

Your inquiring reporter after extended inquiry concludes that at the time of writing Landon holds favor amongst the Ags and Roosevelt finds support among the future engineers.

SAM BARER: "Roosevelt is doing just as much good under the present conditions as any other president could and he deserves another term. Accumulating a national debt? Yes, but the U. S. income is $60,000,000,000 annually and when we get back on our feet we are not going to pay any more than we are now to get back on our feet."

GEORGIA HEISICK, a member of Pi Phi, favors Roosevelt stating, "Mr. Landon is too much 'big business' and has the support of the moneyed gentry. This talk of the county going 'communistic' has no grounds what-so-ever."

GASPARD DESCHAMPS, a representative Ag student: "The present administration has done enough harm already without doing more. The backbone of any country is centered around agriculture and when the 'Reciprocal Trade Agreement' came into effect it was a direct blow to the farmers. How do you think they feel now that they have no protective tariffs on grains and other commodities coming from canada."

DAVE COCHRAN: "'100% Landon:' The Republican party is more fundamentally sound than the Democratic and their morals are better. One of the foremost questions in today's campaign issues is the national debt, and the present administration has let that get entirely out of bounds."

Two Teams Are Tied For First In Volleyball

Continuing a scoring spree that started against the Sigma Chi volleyball sextet, the Sig Alph squad trounced the O. B. representatives in a wild match of three games, to maintain their position as an undefeated team in the Intramural Volleyball tournament. The A. G. R.'s and the S. A. E teams are tied for first place, each having three victory scores and no black marks in the defeat column.

The O. B.'s fall into second place with a tally of three good and one bad games. Kappa Sigma maintains the post at third having one defeat overshadowed by two wins.

The smooth Omega Beta team opened the tourney with a flashy start to bring the Kappa Sigs their score in the "lost" column. Score: 15-10, 15-13.

Following the opener, the stands watched the A. G. R.'s take a nice win from the Lambda Chi's to the tune of 15-4, 15-6.

The Pi Kaps bowed to the S. A. E. six in the final game losing on the short end of 15-3, 15-10.

Independent players forfeited a game to the Sigs by not putting in their appearance for the scrap.

On the second day of the schedule the Kappa Sigs claimed a default from the Faculty and the O .B.'s claimed the scalps of the L. C. A.'s. P. K. A. and the A. G. R.'s played the full three games to finally give the victory to the Ag boys.

The Kappa Sigs and the O. B.'s raised their percentages easily by forfeits from the Independents and the Faculty.

The games, won and lost, and the teams' averages are listed below:

SIDELINES

Last Saturday proved to be the Waterloo of the hopes of two conference teams in their fight for the conference championship. However to replace them there appeared on the football horizon a new star, the co-champs of last year.

Denver U and Brigham Young fell before the onslaughts of the two state schools of Utah while Colorado U was triumphing over Colorado Mines to step into the undefeated class.

This week another ten of the conference teams step onto football fields throughout the Rocky Mountains in hope of bettering their standings in the conference.

The spotlight of this week's big show can rest but one place however. That is at Logan where the two undefeated teams, the Utah Aggies and the Utah Utes, go into action. This is the big game of the year. It will determine which team will go on to win the championship.

It should feature a hard battle between the Aggies star back, Kent Ryan and the Utes' mainstay, Newell Call. They are both good men and will be at their best.

Western State meets Greeley State at Greely. If the Teachers from Greeley show the brand of football they showed against the Montana Aggies, Western should not be hard to beat. However Western may have an ace in the hole and be able to beat Greeley. Our choice is Greeley.

Colorado U mets Colorado State at Fort Collins. We believe that the university boys will continue their comeback to the championship by topping the Aggies. Colorodo university should win by at least two touchdowns.

The Utah Aggie-Ute battle is the battle that will be most evenly fought. A winner can not be picked for this game.

Colorado Mines meets Colorado college in a battle for the cellar position. With all of the injured men back in the line-up, Bully Van de Graff's College boys should go to town. We predict a victory for Colorado college by at least three touchdowns.

Denver university, although being stopped last Saturday, should be all set to go tomorrow and should top the Cowboys by at least two touchdowns.

Now we turn to that awful fate of seeing how our last week's predictions came out.

Denver university lost to a greatly underrated Utah university by a large score. The boys from Denver had an off day and could not get started so the boys from Salt Lake really made it a holiday.

Brigham Young found that they could not withstand the passing attack led by Kent Ryan of Utah State. They seemd to be left flat footed as the Aggies pulled play after play over their strong team.

Colorado State found that the Wyoming Cowboy's defensive attack was at its best and the Aggies were very lucky to hold Wyoming to a scoreless tie. The Cowboys made the biggest gains in yardage but lacked the scoring punch.

Colorado U ran wild over the boys from the Mines. The Orediggers held well for the first quarter but they were unable to stave off the attack of the veterans who started the second quarter.

Greeley State topped a poorly organized team at Bozeman. The Cats were unable to stop the Bears attack at any time. The Cats, however, played tough ball and Greeley did not win without its share of injuries. Willett, Stroup, and Norris starred for the Montana team while Merriman starred for the Teachers.

Capt. Newell Call is the boy that kept Utah U fans jumping in their seats all this year. He is a brilliant triple-threat man and is the best all-around man seen at the U for a long time. He is a serious competitor for any All-Confernce quarterback.

The center of the Montana State line will be up among the finishers of the All-Confernce race. Willett, Stroup, and Norris have been outstanding all season in their play. They are exceptionally hard hitters and make it interesting for any opposing backfield men.

Scores For All Of The Bobcat-Grizzly Games Since Team Was Founded Given

37-0 favor of the Bobcats!

This was the best score the cats ever tallied in a game with the U. It was in 1899 only two years after the founding of our team. Five years later the Grizzlies reversed the score 79-0, making that their largest score. This triumph ended a period of 6 successive Bobcat victories. With the exception of a victory in 1908 an apparent jinx settled on the Bobcats, only to be broken in 1929 by Dyche's 14-12 victory. Dyche's team again in 1932 came through for a rousing 19-7 victory. In reporting the game in 1929 the Montana Standard cried, "After 21 years the worm has turned." The game was mostly bitterly fought. In the first 7 minutes of play each side make a touchdown. In the second quarter two more touchdowns were tallied and from then on it was a deadlock. The talented toe of Ivar Twilde of M. S. C. kicked the 2 extra giving the Bobcats their winning margin. Since 1929 the jinx of Missoula has lessened its grip by the second Dyche victory. Tomorrow we hope Croft may bring home the 3rd victory of recent years.

Ten Foremost College Stars To Get Awards

New York, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The All-America Board of Football today announced that the Parker Vacumatic Pen has been selected as a special award to be given each week for the 9 weeks of the current football season to the ten outstanding college players in America. Each Parker Pen awarded will be inscribed with the words "All-America Rating" and will be accompanied by a "Card of Merit."

From the 90 players receiving this trophy pen, the All-America Board will select the All-America Team of 1936.

The present All-America Board of Football is composed of Christy Walsh, sports editor and syndicate writer, and the following famous coaches: Glenn S. "Pop" Warner, Temple; Howard Jones, Southern California; Elmer Layden, Notre Dame; and Frank Thomas, Alabama.

The board was organized after the death of the late Walter Camp in 1924. Since that time, its selections have been universally accepted as official by coaches, sports editors, and the football public.

Clark Park Tomorrow Is To Be Battleground

Tomorrow on the historic battleground of Clark Park in Butte, the Montana State Bobcats go into action against a big and fast Grizzly team from the Garden City.

The Grizzlies will be on their toes, ready to stop all Cat attempts to cross their goal. The Cats will be anxious to avenge their defeat last year and with a new coach and the student body there cheering them on they might be able to do it.

Led by Popovich, the feared ogre of the Grizzly squad, the boys from the U are expected to run wild over the Cats. They have not had an undefeated season, in fact, far from it. They have won two and lost two so far this season but in all their games they played consistent ball, sticking together as a football team should.

The Cats' record has been blurred three times this season. They have won but once and they have shown that they could play good football in but two games.

Noyes, another Butte High star of former years, will make things plenty tough for Bobcat backs. He is rated as one of the hardest tacklers and blockers in the conference. George Matasovic, of Chicago, should make things hot in the center of the line for the Cats. George is a hard man to get past and it will be interesting to watch him work as he is one of the sweetest players since the days of Wild Bill Kelley.

Lundberg and Whittingill will also be out there trying those booming end runs that have carried them far and wild all season.

Among the other probable starters will be Swanson, a smart player who goes better when the going is tough; Cosgrove, a hard hitting tackle; Forte, one of the few new men on the squad; Vogel, another new man; and Dolan, a hard fighting end.

On the bench are others that play smart football such as "Goofy" Jenkins, a boy who should make the going plenty tough for the Cats. Several boys from the mid-west, much sought after by many Big Ten scouts, wil also be out fighting for the Grizzlies.

A bright spot in the Cats' outlook is their hard hitting. Recent opponents have been seen resting about on the playing field and if the Cats hit as hard tomorrow as they did last Saturday, they may cripple the Grizzlies and win.

Francis Corbin was predicted by Paul Sczach, Grizzly scout, to be the man that will keep the Grizzlies busy. He states that he has never had the opportunity to see such a hard hitting tackler in action. Today should make it very interesting when the Grizzlies start those long sweeping end runs.

Bill Stebbins will also make it very interesting for the Grizzlies. Bill is very well known for getting in and dragging them down before they ever reach the line of scrimmage. However Bill received a leg injury that may hinder his playing. His punting will also serve to match that of Lazetich and if the game should become close, it will be this that decides it.

Alan Oliver is also another dangerous end. Swede is well known for the way he can drag down those passes and he will be needed greatly by Montana when they start heaving them at the Grizzlies' goal line.

Stroup will make it very interesting for Matasovic when they battle it out there in the center of the line. Stroup plays a hard offensive game and also makes it hard for the opponents on the defensive side.

Norris is another outstanding line man. He tackles hard and should be the boy that will make it interesting for Pop Popovich.

Willett will also be in there messing up the Grizzlies' plays and for this purpose the Cats have no better man.

Flash Taylor should cut loose tomorrow and show Popovich up as Taylor is no mean player when it comes to running. He is also a good passer and might make it darn interesting for the Grizzly secondary.

Zupan will also be out there fighting and Zup is always good for a gain through the line. It was Zupan's fight that won us the Colorado College game and he will be a needed factor Saturday.)

Grizzlies Favorites

Coach Croft of Montana State says that the Grizzlies will be the toughest game of the year and that the boys will have to be on their toes to win against them. However, he also states that the Cats are not beaten yet and that they may come out on the long end of the score.

Coach Fessenden says that the boys are not over-confident and that they should win unless they become so. Their record has been none too good but they play good, hard ball.

The sports writers favor the Grizzlies due to the power that they have and they do not expect the Bobcats to even come close. However, the student body has hopes and if they will get out and back those hopes the Cats will win this year's game. BE IN BUTTE TOMORROW.

Students Copy Themes But Repent Evil Deed

Toledo, O—(ACP)—Even instructors can make mistakes in judgment. Apparently this one underrated the freshmen.

Setting: an English class at the University of Toledo. Motivator: Instructor James M. McCrimmon, who had just delivered a vigorous speech on the "evils of plagiarism". Then he assigned the class a theme topic.

Upon grading the papers, McCrimmon found some amazingly similar work. At the next session of his section he said:

"There are four or five themes here which I am certain were copied. If the students who turned them in will come to my office after class to claim them, there will be no penalty."

When the class hour was over, McCrimmon returned to his office. Within an hour after, sixteen different students called to claim their themes.

Health Service

This regulation, which becomes effective at once, is in harmony with the general policy under which the health service was set up. At the time of the organization of this service in 1919, policies and rules were agreed upon by a group of five students and five faculty members. It was the general agreement that this should be a health service and not an accident service.

It will be recalled that last year the health service was relieved of the cost of accidents to students using motorcycles, and to students using cars for strictly pleasure purposes.

Health services have been established in most colleges and universities. A study of the costs and regulations shows that the fee at Montana State college is smaller than the fee collected in most institutions, and that there are fewer limitations on the application of the service than in many of the colleges. On the average, the health fee collected in colleges throughout the country ranges from $10.00 to $15.00 per year, while at Montana State college it is $7.50. In most cases, the records show a limitation averaging around $50.00 for any student during any one quarter. At Montana State college the bills are paid, so far as the money is available, for hospitalization, surgical care, and general nursing and medical attention for all acute ills.

The health service at Montana State college is carrying on a very excellent immuniztaion program. From the general statistics of the frequency of certain types of illness amongst student groups, it is evident that this campaign for the prevention of ills is cutting down the cost of sickness below what would have to be met if there was no such service provided.

As an illustration, it is found that the frequency of pneumonia cases amongst student groups is about one half of one per cent per year. At Montana State college this would mean six or seven cass per year. The records show that there have been fewer than this number of cases during the past seven years.

Along with the general recommendation passed by the social committee, they recommended that the health service advise students taking trips in autos to take proper precautions in protecting themselves. Students who make special or frequent trips in autos may purchase accident insurance for brief or long-

The second performer on the program given by the Butte Chamber of Commerce was Mrs. Courtney Proffett, vocalist, who sang several operatic selections. The program continued wth accordian solos played by Arthur Chapell. Mr. Chapell, with his "squeeze box", was very popular with the students, who urged him, with applause to render several selections.

This rare insect frequents only high altitudes where cold temperatures prevail. It is found under logs and stones, and often at the foot of rock slides. It feeds on small dead insects and is very difficult to rear in captivity. One scientist, who has made a study of Grylloblatta, found that the only way he could keep them alive was by surrounding the containers with cracked ice. Temperatures of very little above freezing are fatal to this insect and it is most active at near freezing temperatures or slightly colder.

The EXPONENT continued: "Besides the two games that have been arranged for between Butte High School and the college. . . there is to be one played at Missoula Nov. 25th. . . They have been organized at the U. for 2 years while the college team is to play its first game with the Butte school. The suits have come and now the boys can get better practice as there is little danger of getting crippled."

In the resulting game with Missoula the plucky but inexperienced Bobcats lost by 18-6.

And 39 years ago the students of M. S. C. were all ready being admonished to, "BE SURE TO SEE THE GAME NEXT SATURDAY." And we the heirs of the team of '97 join in the chorus, "ON TO BUTTE."

Applauds Sportsmen In Campaign Politics

New York City—(ACP)—Dr. William Mather Lewis, president of Lafayette College, thinks that sportsmanship should be substituted for the present "mud-slinging" of political campaigns.

Addressing the closing session of the nineteenth annual convention of the New York State District of Kiwanis International, Dr. Lewis said:

"The mud-slinging, personal attacks, and vituperation new being promoted by certain political campaign leaders is a disgrace, and their underhanded and moronic propaganda is an insult to the intelligence of the American public. Until we get political contests on higher planes, we will find it difficult to persuade men of the finest type to become candidates for office."

Four Year Course In Citizenship Required

Geneva, N. Y.—(ACP)—Dr. William Alfred Eddy, president of Hobart and William Smith Colleges, rocked the world of education when he announced a four-year course in responsible citizenship as a requirement for a bachelor's degree in his institutions.

Before an inauguration day audience 2,000 persons, including representatives of more than 150 colleges and universities and the judiciary of New York State, President Eddy said:

"We believe that the worth of the state in the long run is the worth of the individuals composing it; that irresponsible citizens cannot hope to set up a responsible government; that dishonest individuals cannot expect honest public finance; that jingolistic and bellicose peoples cannot operate a pacific League of Nations; and that aloof, fastidious scholars will not turn into alumni impassioned for social justice."

"The theory that a liberal education will make a citizen responsible automatically is attractive but untrue. The truth is that a student is infected by the enthusiasms of his campus, whatever they may be. Football, science, literature, or art claim his interest his life long; but where Main street and the town hall are treated as beneath the scholar's contempt, the alumus is, not unnaturally, equally prone to carry that contempt to the grave."

Declaring himself in favor of active promotion of athletics and every other form of activity on both campuses, Dr. Eddy said:

"I have ben puzzled at the notion sometimes expressed that enthusiasm for football is hostile to the intellectual life, as though the lethargy of the classroom would disappear if lethargy could somehow be enforced in the gymnasium. I fail to see how exuberance in athletics, dramatics, or social life inhibits intellectual activity."
