

PRESIDENT GRINDE OUTLINES THE STUDENT SENATE PROGRAM FOR THE COMING YEAR

Senate Will Investigate Duties Of Members Same Schedule of Meetings Will Be Retained For Coming Year

In an interview this week, student president, Fred Grinde announced the plans and policies to be included in the associated students program for the year. Plans considered by the student senate brought to light a need for the revision of present regulations together with strengthening the organization by the addition of new committees and commissions to more completely cover the duties of student government.

The senate plans a program of investigation to justify the existence of the various offices of the senate and active participation in enforcing the duties allowed to each of the officers.

A program of regular senate meeting consisting of one social and one business meeting per month has been agreed as sufficient to transact the business duties of the commissioners. Argumentation and discussion of the matters at hand will bring about definite conclusions at the social meetings in order to simplify the routines of the business meetings.

Five students and five faculty members will be named as a Student-Faculty Committee, to act in the capacity of a "gripe" board for the settlement of difficulties and student-faculty problems. Elimination of strained relations existing between the faculty and the student body, will be a subsidiary purpose of the committee.

A thorough investigation of the constitution of the Associated Students with the purpose in mind of eliminating any weak or superfluous sections and articles will be conducted under the sponsorship of the entire senate.

A saving to the entire student body will be accomplished by a revision of the existing handbook and activity ticket system, whereby the use of individual coupon books and permanent student handbook will be emphasized.

Treasurer Releases Report On Revenue From Activity Fees

Estimated Income Budget To Be Divided Among Eight Groups

Students of Montana State College will get their "money's worth" in opportunities and benefits to the extent of about $24,780, according to estimates released by the treasurer's office regarding 1936 activity fees.

From this total, athletics will receive $11,800 to cover expenses incurred in carrying out an extensive intercollegiate and intramural program. The cultural fund, swelled by the additional half dollar granted last year from the activity fee, will amount to $2,478. Revenues from this new source will be diverted to a fund expressly designed to promote additional entertainment and educational features presented by outside groups. Associated men students $590, associated women students, $295; Exponent $1,770 and Montanan $4,720 are also included in the grants. The college band has $2,124 to complete the year, including allotments for the annual band trip through the state during spring vacation and the purchase of instruments, uniforms, and music supplies. Agriculture judging teams fill their budgets with $826 taken from the student activity fees. This latter fund has been increased by an addition granted by the student body last year. $177 will be used by the Art department to promote Art interest on the campus.

These figures were based on an estimate made by R. R. Cameron of the activity fees paid by 1180 registered students.

V. E. Iverson Gives Horticulture Talk Before Local Clubs

Occasion Signalized Florist Show Opening, Will Be November 6-7

The influence of horticultural work on the philosophical and practical side of life was emphasized by V. E. Iverson of the horticulture department in a lecture given before the local service clubs during a special program signalizing the Montana florist show which will be held in Bozeman today and tomorrow.

Don Langohr, local florist speaking in behalf of the show, urged every Bozemanite to see the free flower exhibition which will be held in the Northern Automobile show room today and tomorrow. Flower exhibits from every part of the United States will be on display, including a special feature by Elmer Smith, Adrian, Mich., one of the largest chrysanthemum breeders of the world.

"Man has been fascinated by the wonders of plant life and has used this knowledge to advantage in developing a finer philosophy," Iverson said. "Interest in horticultural work has been evidenced in both the civilized and uncivilized world since the beginning of time. For ages people have been developing a taste for things which appeal to their better nature—the finer qualities of life."

Tracing the development of horticulture Iverson explained how primitive man became interested in plants because of their food value. The next step was the discovery of their having medicinal properties. Self educated observers soon found that study of botany provided much information for the mutual benefit of mankind.

Alexander the Great, Genghis Kahn and Tiglath-Pileser I of Assyria, great militarists of their day, took trained scientists with them to find and take home interesting plant material, according to Iverson.

"Little did ancient observers realize they were furnishing the basis for a study of plants which led to the large accumulation of facts we have today," he said. "The study of soils and their fertilization, especially soil acidity or alkalinity on different species of plants, effect of length of light exposure on growth and reproduction, and many other physiological problems have so influenced methods of growth that results of scientific research are now highly beneficial to the florist business."

R. O. T. C. Honorary Announces Convention

Scabbard and Blade, an honorary organization of advanced R.O.T.C. students, recently announced plans for the 20th biannual national convention to be held at Raleigh, North Carolina, November 19-21.

The national society embodies members from all of the major colleges in the United States participating in military development. Seventy-eight companies enroll two thousand active members yearly, drawn from the leading men active in a sound program of national defense.

To preserve and develop the essential qualities of good and efficient officers, and to prepare educated men to take a more active part in the military affairs of the nations," has been outlined as the main purpose and ideal of the organization. Subsidiary operations, performed by the society, promote an annual pistol and rifle match in which each of these seventy-eight companies are eligible for competition. A publication, printed quarterly, offers information to the students and the public as to the activities of each department and to spread intelligent information concerning the military requirements of the country.

Students At Texas Try To Abolish Censorship

TEXAS STUDENTS FIGHT FOR FREE PRESS. BATTLE 'RED' INQUIRY

Austin, Tex. (ASU)—University of Texas students are waging a battle for academic liberty on two fronts.

They are carrying on a vigorous campaign to force abandonment of an edict providing for the censorship of their newspaper, "The Daily Texan." Simultaneously, they are meeting the challenge of the super-patrioters who are seeking to paint the university "red" and shut off all progressive opinion.

The censorship ban was imposed by the Board of Regents during the summer, barring all discussion of "national, state and local political questions" from the editorial columns and subjecting other material to administrative scrutiny.

In the midst of their statewide campaign against the ban, the students discovered that a legislative "investigation" had been launched, with an organization known as the "Progressive Democrats" the main target of the inquiry.

"We're just democrats," the students repeated to the bewildered snoots.

The probe is still going on.

Debate Squad Back From Boulder Meet Of This Last Week

Many Different Questions Were Discussed During 3-Day Session

Montana State's debate team returned last Sunday evening from the Forensic meet held Thursday, Friday and Saturday in Boulder, Colorado, the home of the University of Colorado. The debates all being matters of no-decision, the squad came home empty.

The critic judges were kept busy and amused by the differences in political sentiment among the delegates. The Montana delegates were surprised at the number of students leaning towards Socialism, Communism and Fascism.

Speeches following a banquet Friday night were hailed as being near perfection.

Saturday morning the delegates attended the Parliamentary meeting at which amendments on the subjects of monetary policy, farm subsidization, munitions control, Federal control of public utilities and others were discussed. Delegates sat in the left or right wings according to their political creeds.

Mr. Hansen and his debaters returned to MSC with the feeling that student interest in public affairs should be aroused to a greater degree on the campus.

Board of Publications Holds Its First Meeting

Jack Harper presiding, the Board of Publications held its first meeting of the year last Tuesday noon at the Baxter Hotel.

It was decided that the Board of Publications should have the supervision of the editing of the blotters which appear on the campus every year. The profit from this enterprise to go to MSC athletes procuring the right from the Board to solicit advertising for the blotters.

James Finn, Editor of the Montanan, brought up the subject of the Exponent soliciting advertising outside of the city claiming that statewide Montanan advertising suffered by the Exponent's recent solicitation in Butte. The matter was discussed and dropped. It was pointed out that the paper suffered locally from Montanan solicitation and that if the Exponent was to be prohibited from outside solicitation it would be only fair that the Montana be excluded from local solicitation.

Bill Graff asked permission of the Board to publish the student directory and was granted permission providing the hometowns were included.

WHAT PRICE CONSISTENCY?

Last week letters were received by fraternities from the president of Septemviri asking their support in persuading the freshmen to wear their green caps.

As paddling is still a common practice in fraternity houses on the hill, several of the bodies were puzzled as to precisely in what manner they were to give their support to the traditions honorary.

The Fangs are represented in all the houses and have been concerned with the green cap issue since its inception. They have cooperated with Septemviri and have met with the known results. The question arose did Septemviri intend that the Greeks support the Septemviri mandate in the same manner that several groups have succeeded in getting one hundred per cent attendance at school functions such as painting the "M"?

If so, then Septemviri is not consistent with their edict abolishing the paddle on the campus proper. It is hard to believe that Septemviri would unarm the Fangs and then promptly appeal to the fraternities to enforce the wearing of the green by means of the slapstick.

IS THE DOSE TOO GREAT?

Some medicines if prescribed in the right amounts, heal the sick, and in general render a great service to mankind. Frequently we read, however, that a few unfortunate souls have succumbed because an overdose of some medicine had previously been given the victims.

Today the college student need not worry about knowing too much. The average student has a sincere desire to learn; he realizes that the demands of employment fields must be met if he is to obtain even a measure of success.

A teacher who assigns a great deal of work may feel that he is doing it for the student's own good. He forgets that only two out of ten are

SMUTTERINGS

—Orke—

A wonderful time was had at the Ag' or Harvest Ball. The only thing was the utter tired feeling the next day—after picking up and setting down your feet for an evening on that floor. If that floor was like glass it was frosted glass—yousah!

Wouldn't it be a joyous act
Of undiluted bliss
To smash the goof who greets
On the phone with "Who is ziss?"

Yes that would be a lot of fun
We all kno that is true
But what about this other bird
Who always says "Guess Who."

The ol' six week roundup has just ended—and amid torn hair and darkened eyes most people finally caught up. Then there's always next week's grades to look forward to.

No man ever lives up to the reputation he likes people to think he has.

A good friend of mine just told me that after having watched people meddle in other people's business for several years he has reached a conclusion—that is that if he were ever lost in the middle of the Sahara, with no one to help him, we would need only to start playing solitaire and immediately some dusky Arab or someone would be there telling him to put the black jack on the red ten.

Now that shows that, doesn't it?
Also if you get purple skis with green polka dots, don't forget to get them long enough—it's going to be a long winter and we might as well have a long ski.

Are you still a Republican?

EDITOR'S MAIL

Dear Editor:

The other day I was wandering down the corridor in Montana Hall when all at once it occurred to me to find out what our student council was doing this year. I walked over to the Council Bulletin Board. For those who do not know where that bulletin board is, and I would like to bet that less than 10 per cent of the students do, I will explain. This board is at the head of the stairs just inside the main entrance of Montana Hall and opposite the stairs leading to the Exponent office. However all this is getting away from my story.

I looked at the board. Three sheets of paper were tacked inside the glass case. I started to read. It seems that on November 25, 1935, the august members of our last year's student council discussed social regulations for women. On December 19, 1935, there was a proposal to bring a series of concerts to our campus, and on January 9, 1936—That's this year—the Ag Team put in a petition that more funds be raised for their annual trips. A new system of presenting candidates at the annual nominating assembly in the spring, whereby each candidate for president and vice-president of the student council would give a five minute speech to the assembly, was being considered. After this date there seems to be no news concerning our governing body.

If I remember correctly a few of these proposals were acted upon last year so I assume that more meetings were held after January 9, 1936. After reading this treatise on ancient history a great fear suddenly smote me. Do we have a student council this year? Yes, I remembered that the members were elected last spring. Where then, have they been the last month or so? I tip-toed silently away for fear the echoes of my footsteps would possibly awaken slumbering members.

But I was not yet satisfied. Has the council held any meetings this year? What great problems has it been grappling with? Do its members realize that "time marches on"? I finally realized that I could go on wondering indefinitely, but I knew there must be an answer to my musings and finally decided that possibly the key to the bulletin board had been lost or that possibly the secretary's typewriter was "on the blink". Such a solution would explain the great dearth of news since January 9, 1936, and my faith in humanity was once more restored. Perhaps then, the council has had some meetings this year. My only hope now is that the key to the bulletin board, if lost, will soon be found.

Signed,
Just Curious

HIS job is to look for trouble before it happens. He is one of many who inspect telephone apparatus regularly, even when nothing is wrong. His work is called "preventive maintenance." This work is of the highest importance. It helps to prevent interruptions to the service; often forestalls costly repairs, or replacements; helps keep telephone service at highest efficiency. To plan this work requires management with imaginative foresight and the ability to balance the many factors involved in the maintenance problem.

Dr. Mills Is To Publish A Compilation of Data

"Birds in Montana in Relation to Agriculture and Sport" is the title of a publication by Dr. Mills, professor of entomology, which will appear in bulletin form the early part of the year.

In compiling this valuable information Dr. Mills has studied the predatory and so-called fish-eating birds from the view point of food habits, value and harm through literature of renown, as well as extensive observation. Some birds whose value has been disclosed are: hawks, owls, pelicans, herons, gulls, fish ducks, as well as those rare ones deserving protection, the whooping crane and trumpeter swan.

Adding value and brilliance to the bird study are a series of photographic illustrations by Aentra Weydiemer and numerous authentic plates drawn by Martha Wallace, junior in the entomology department.

Montana State Exhibits Former Football Glory

Now that Minnesota's mighty winning streak has been cut short by the valiant Wildcats of Northwestern and Montana has concluded its famous winning streak of three games by losing to Oregon State Beavers, we bring into the limelight a winning streak unparalleled in Montana Collegiate football.

This was the winning streak of ten straight games shared by the teams of 1929 and 1930. During these two years under the expert coaching of Schubert Dyche, the Bobcats' eleven continued winning from the time that they beat B. Y. U. in 1929 until they fell to the Grizzlies in 1930. During this time they defeated the Grizzlies once and Wyoming twice. Incidentally we meet Wyoming this weekend and it may be the starting of another winning streak.

In this period the Cats scored one hundred and sixty-two points to their opponents' fifty-five. They topped the strongest team the Mount St. Charles College has been able to boast. They also beat Regis College of Denver in a game that still has the old timers in Bozeman talking about it.

The Grizzlies boast of a winning streak of three straight games while the smaller but more valiant Cats can boast ten straight games. However the 'three straight' Grizzlies must be given credit for cutting short this winning streak.

The games played and the score are listed below:

Bobcats	1929	Opponents
13	B. Y. U.	12
14	Grizzlies	0
13	Wyoming	0
6	North Dakota	0
7	Mount St. Charles	0

31	Centerville	0
25	Anodes	0
7	Idaho U.	6
26	Regis College	19

Annual Cross Country Won By A.G.R. Team

Robert Thompson last Saturday paced the field in 16 min. 58.5 sec. to win the annual crosscountry run, registering sufficient points to place the Alpha Gamma Rho team first on the team listings with 17.6 points.

Lambda Chi Alpha finishing nine men copped second with 16.6 points; Omega Beta, third with 5.9; SAE fourth with 5.8; Sigma Chi fifth with 4.2; Pi Kappa Alpha sixth with 3.1 and the Independents last with 2.9 points.

Kittens Will Attempt To Tame Grizzly Cubs

This week the Montana State Bobkittens go west to Missoula to avenge the beating that the Montana Bobcats took from the Grizzlies. Included in the line-up of the new Bobkitten team are many former high school stars such as Vollmer, Holloway, and Yovetich of Butte and Peterson of Miles City. These boys also intend to avenge the defeat the Kittens suffered at the hands of the Cubs in the last game played.

The squad is in good shape with all the injuries occurring to the third string men. They have plenty of tricky plays and know them and have been able to work them consistently against the reserves. They also have had several scrimmages last week although the weather has forced the coach to work the team indoors most of this week. They showed that they have plenty of fight and showed good offensive gains in the game with the varsity reserves which the varsity won 13 to 0. In other words they are set to win Friday and should give the Cubs a good battle.

Men making the trip are: Holloway, Roth, Dolley, and Pappin as ends. Ogren, Moe, Goab, Huffine as tackles. Quist, Vollmer, Reavley, and Hanna as guards. Peterson, Montfortan, and Feld as centers. Krevic and Borden as fullbacks. Sutich, Hendy, Smith, Morin, Vaughn and Binder as halfbacks. Gates and Yovetich as quarterbacks. Accompanying the squad to Missoula are Head Coach Breeden, Assistant Coach Overturf, and Manager Richardson.

The captain of the squad for this game will be Bill Holloway, an end from Butte.

SIDELINES

This week-end will see four of the strongest teams in the Rocky Mountain conference go into action while four of their smaller brothers will attempt to climb out of cellar positions.

Saturday will see Utah U go into action against the Colorado U Buffalos in the hope that they will be able to know them out of the leading position. Utah U plays good ball but it is doubtful if they can knock the Buffs out of the running. Our choice is Colorado.

Utah State will meet the hard fighting Aggies at Fort Collins. The Aggies are far down the conference winning line but they always put a valiant if not winning team on the field. However we expect that Kent Ryan will lead the Utah State boys over the Colorado team by at least two touchdowns.

Brigham Young University will try to pull itself out of its losing slump against the Colorado Mines squad. The Ore-diggers are extremely weak and it is certain that B. Y. U. will win by at least two touchdowns unless the breaks all go against them.

One Team Undeafeated

Since last week the race for first place in intramural volleyball has narrowed down somewhat but the winner has not been decided yet. At the moment the S. A. E's are out in front with six games won and the O B's and A G R's are tied with six games won and one lost each. The Kappa Sigma team have gone down since last week, their percentage now being .500. This was the first team to complete its volleyball schedule of eight games.

The standings of all the teams up to Wednesday night is shown below:

Team	Won	Lost	Pct.
S. A. E.	6	0	1.000
O. B.	6	1	.857
A. G. R.	6	1	.857
Lambda Chi	5	3	.625
Kappa Sigma	4	4	.500
Sigma Chi	2	5	.285
Pi Kappa Alpha	0	5	.000
Faculty	0	5	.000
Independents	0	5	.000

Montana State meets a hard fighting and fast moving eleven from the Wyoming Cowboys' school. Wyoming has won but one game and that has been against the weak Colorado Mines squad and Montana's lone conference win was against Colorado College, a much stronger team. However the Cowboys have neither been outfought or outplayed all season and

Conference Standings

Utah State	4	0	1	1.000

Utah Univ.	4	1	0	.800
Greeley State	3	2	0	.600
B. Y. U.	2	2	0	.500

the Cats can watch for some of the trickiest plays in the conference. Wyoming should win this by at least one touchdown.

Paul Snow of Utah U makes a bid for an all conference post by his performance in last week's games. His far and fast punting even in a dense rain was no small factor in Utah's victory over Brigham Young.

Much to the surprise of spectators last Saturday's game at Denver between Utah State and Denver was a flop. Of course the score was tied indicating a well fought game (?). Both teams muffed many scoring chances within the ten yard line and Denver missed several attempts to cross the unblurred goal line of Utah.

Alex Drobnitch of Denver will certainly give all other backs a tough battle for all-conference. He was all over the field last Saturday breaking up many Utah State passes and backing the line well.

We all agree on this... cigarette paper is important. For Chesterfield we use the best paper that we can buy. It is called Champagne Cigarette Paper. It is made from the soft, silky fibre of the flax plant. It is washed over and over in clear, sparkling water.

A lot of the pleasure you get in smoking Chesterfields is due to our using the right kind of cigarette paper. Chesterfield paper is pure, and it burns without taste or odor.

Chesterfield

They're Milder and They Satisfy

Remember this... two things make the smoking quality of a cigarette—the tobaccos and the paper. The Champagne cigarette paper on Chesterfields is tested over and over for purity, for the right burning quality. Another reason why Chesterfield wins.
