

Dual-Piano Recital Scheduled Here In Concert Program

Malcolm And Gooden Are Internationally Known

Scott Malcolm and Reginald Gooden, two-pianists, who will appear in the Montana State College gymnasium on Tuesday night, April 9, are among the foremost artists in their field. They have played extensively in Canada and the United States; in New York recital; and in Great Britain, including a recital in Wgmore Hall, London. Their high musical standing has been attained through their dual mastery of the keyboard and also through the transcriptions they have made for two pianos.

However, the association of these two brilliant talents is not of the life-long duration which the unity of their playing would suggest. They were born 3,000 miles apart—Scott Malcolm in Toronto, Canada, and Reginald Gooden in Tunbridge Wells, England. They did not meet until they were in their early twenties.

Their boyhood histories do not overshadow their artistic affinity. Malcolm's musical tendencies were noticeable at the age of three when he would pick out a tune with his finger. He was only five when he began to study piano, and from then on combined music study with his regular schooling.

Gooden, brought to the little Canadian town of Barrie near Toronto when he was eleven months old, displayed no tonal inclinations in his childhood. Instead, until the age of fourteen he was totally unacquainted with music. His ambitions were to become a sailor or a railroad engineer. The latter ambition used to lead him to steal a sectionman's "jigger" and go for long Sunday afternoon jaunts along the tracks. But when he did take up music his progress was so rapid that within a year he had a position playing the piano in his town's moving picture house. His earnings from this enabled him to go on with the serious study of music.

By the time Malcolm and Gooden met, Malcolm had been for several years a writer on a financial paper, and Gooden had almost—but not quite—deserted the piano for the organ. Their acquaintance began while both were studying with Ernest Seitz, eminent Canadian piano teacher. They became friends and soon began to play two-piano music, at first for amusement, then, as their skill and blend of tone became manifest, with a serious career in view—a career which has since taken them over many miles and to heights of artistic achievement.

Students will be admitted to this performance on their activity tickets.

Cast Is Chosen For Mary Rose, Spring Play By A.S.M.S.C.

The cast for "Mary Rose," one of Sir James Barrie's greatest plays, to be presented as the annual spring stage production of the Associated Students of Montana State College, has been announced by Bert B. Hansen, head of the dramatics department at the college.

Judy Wilson of Deer Lodge will play the part of Mary Rose, Luther Terrett of Billings will play the part of Simon, Eric Anderson of Bozeman will play Harry, Jean Duncan of Butte was cast as Mrs. Morland, Mrs. Otery will be played by Mary Lou Durland of Billings, Paul Johnson of Terry will play the part of Mr. Morland, the part of Mr. Amy will be played by Glenn Cooley and Elbert Herrick of Joliet will portray Cameron.

The play, one of the last written by Sir James Barrie, has been acclaimed one of the ten best contemporary dramas by critics throughout the world. The play deals with the disappearance of Mary Rose, a young bride, after going to a mysterious island soon after their marriage. She returns 25 years later, finds everything changed but herself and falls in love with Harry, who turns out to be her own son.

Laurence M. Gould Selected Principal High School Speaker

Dr. Laurence M. Gould, second in command and senior scientist with the first Byrd antarctic expedition, will be the featured speaker at the annual High School week to be held at Montana college April 25, 26 and 27, announces Professor Merrill R. Good, general chairman.

Now a professor of geology at Carleton college, Northfield, Minn., Dr. Gould is widely known as a scientist, explorer, lecturer and author. Dr. Gould's address, "With Byrd to the Bottom of the World," promises a wealth of information, adventure and entertainment for the students attending the high school week program, Professor Good said.

Dr. Gould illustrates his address with lantern slides and motion pictures taken during his two years spent in the south polar regions with the Byrd expedition. Only one address will be given by Dr. Gould during high school week and that will be at the general assembly the morning of April 26.

The Byrd antarctic expedition was not Dr. Gould's first foray at exploration. In 1926 he was assistant director and geologist for the University of Michigan Greenland expedition, and in 1927 he was assistant director and geographer for the Putnam Baffin Island expedition. Previous to those expeditions Dr. Gould had done considerable geological work in the Sudbury nickel region in Canada, and in the Great Basin area in the southwest United States.

In 1916 Dr. Gould entered the University of Michigan and in the summer of his freshman year he volunteered for service in the ambulance corps. Next came service overseas in which he participated in the St. Mihiel and the Meuse Argonne offensives. In 1918 he was with the Italian army and later with the army of occupation at Cologne, Germany. He was decorated by both the Italian and French governments.

Re-entering the University of Michigan in 1919, Dr. Gould was graduated in 1921. After graduation he taught at the University of Michigan and received his doctor of science degree in 1925. He has been professor of geology at Carleton college since 1932.

Radio Station Offers Scholarships and Training To Seniors

Two scholarships in radio training for agricultural seniors in land grant colleges are being offered by station WLW of Cincinnati, Ohio.

The scholarships are worth $500 each and the two winners will be given six months training at WLW from July 1 through December 31, 1940. The $500 will be apportioned in weekly salary checks but each student will be required to remain with the station for the entire training period.

Full particulars are posted on the bulletin board of the agricultural building.

Seniors Urged To Obtain Montanan Activity Lists

Carl Peters, editor of the 1940 Montanan, yesterday urged all seniors to obtain activity lists as soon as possible from the Montanan office and return them immediately so that the senior section of the yearbook can be sent to the publishers.

Mr. Peters traveled to Billings over the week end to supervise the new color printing which will form a prominent part of this year's annual. He reported that all class sections, fraternity, sorority, and quadrangle groups are in the printer's hands and that the book is coming along fine.

Marriage Relations Courses Begin Next Wednesday Evening

On April 3, 10, and 11, Mortar Board is sponsoring a Marriage Relations Course. This course consists of a series of evening lectures to be given in the lecture room in Roberts Hall at 7:30 on these evenings, and is open to all junior and senior men and women and those underclassmen who are engaged.

Many colleges offer a course in marriage relations as a required part of their curriculum. The need for some such course has long been felt on this campus, and Mortar Board is attempting to satisfy this need to some extent. Popular and competent speakers have been secured to lecture on subjects in which most interest was shown in the campus poll held last quarter.

The program of lectures and speakers is as follows:

June 3—Courtship and Engagement, Rev. Wm. Reeves.

June 10—Marital Adjustment, Dr. Harold F. Hollands.

June 11—Hereditary and Biological Aspects, Dr. Paul L. Eneboe.

This course should be of great general interest and benefit, and it is hoped that as many as possible will take advantage of the opportunity to attend the lectures.

Alpha Zeta Chooses Seven New Members

Howard Vange Replaces Mikkelsen As Chairman

High School Week, with most of the student body registered for participation, is less than four weeks away, and preparations for the numerous phases of the three-day activity are fully under way.

Montana State College will be host over a thousand high school students who will gather in Bozeman April 25-6-7 to compete in scholastic contests, to be entertained by various campus groups, to hear a nationally known explorer and lecturer, but chiefly to examine Montana State College and learn what it has to offer them.

New Chairman

HOWARD VANGE . . . replaced David Mikkelsen as men's chairman for High School week.

Howard Vange is men's general chairman, succeeding Dave Mikkelsen, who left school to accept a job. Helen Briggs is women's general chairman, and Mr. Merrill R. Good is faculty general chairman, supervising the entire program.

Lloyd Jensen, student chairman of the Special Details committee, has announced that over a thousand students have volunteered for service, and that preference lists are now in the hands of the various committee chairmen. Students should be prepared to be called upon by the chairmen of the activities for which they registered, he said.

Gymkhana, the exhibition put on by the Physical Education department, alone will include about 400 additional students, according to Mr. Schubert Dyche, faculty chairman. Gymkhana is a spectacular demonstration and parade of athletic sports and activities by both men and women. A display of horsemanship, under the direction of Mr. Arthur Post, of the Agriculture department, is a part of Gymkhana. Paul Johnson and Sara Cole are student chairmen of Gymkhana.

Dr. Laurence M. Gould, second in command and senior scientist with the first Byrd Antarctic Expedition, will be the featured speaker at High School Week. Dr. Gould illustrates his address with motion pictures and slides taken during his two years spent in the south polar regions with the expedition. Assembly arrangements are made by a committee with Dr. Schilling and Rolland Breed as chairmen.

Kenneth Sire, student chairman of Open House committee, announced a new and greatly expanded program of Open House for this year. The college will go on display in two parts, the first on the afternoon of April 25, and the second on the evening of April 26. Several new departments and new ideas have been adopted. Sire stated that a new principle of display is being used this year. It consists of having MSC students actively engaged in "selling" the college to our visitors by accompanying them around the exhibits and promoting interest and enthusiasm by asking questions and stimulating discussions with the students conducting the exhibits. In other words, "break the ice" for the high school people. This function will be performed by the students.

Chemical Society Will Meet April 1 For Interesting Discussion

The Montana Section of the American Chemical Society will meet in the Chemistry Building at 8 p. m., April 1. Dr. T. B. Douglas will be the speaker and will tell of the measurements and results in his research upon collisions between molecules. The talk is entitled "Measurement of the Collisions between Oxygen and Water Molecules". It is of interest not only because of the general importance of collisions upon rates of reaction but also because of the methods employed, particularly the use of sound velocity in determining the number of collisions.

Dr. Douglas joined the staff of the chemistry department last fall, coming from Ohio State University where he received the doctorate degree in physical chemistry. Previously he was at the University of North Carolina in Chappel Hill.

The meeting is open to the public and all who are interested are cordially invited to attend.

Pre-Election Spirit Quiet As Primaries Only One Week Away

Without the usual fanfare accompanying an all-school election all students will march to the polls in Montana hall next Friday to elect the governing body for the forthcoming school year.

The unusual quietness is attributed to the change in the constitution last year which makes it necessary for any candidate to submit his or her application for office to the president of the student body one week before elections. This application is passed on by the student senate and primary elections are held the following week.

Exception to this rule are the candidates for the editorships of Montanan and Exponent which must be passed by the board of publications.

Due to the fact that Dave Mikkelsen, president of the Engineering council, has left school, no date has been set for the election of the editor of the Montana Engineer. It will probably be held within two weeks.

A new office will be on the ballot this year. It will be Commissioner of judging teams. In an overwhelming majority last quarter it was decided that a new senate member would be added to the student senate to look after the interests of judging teams. The final ballot was 270 to 36 for the measure.

Students Warned To Pay Fees To Avoid Late Payment Fine

Students with a respectful regard for the size of their bank accounts will make a point of visiting the treasurer's office some time in the near future to pay their tuition. This is due before five o'clock on Wednesday, April 3. The fee for late payment is $2.00.

By the same token those who are beginning to worry about geology and systematic botany would do well to drop their burdens before next Tuesday, April 2, after which it will cost them $2.00. The fee for entering a drop and add card until then will be only $1.00.

Bouquets, Professors

In the recent professor rating questionnaire sponsored by the student senate several interesting factors were revealed. Although actual figures or names may not be made public it was decided to publish some of the contrasting results.

Montana State college is lucky. It is lucky to have such a large comparative number of excellent instructors. These facts were brought out in the recent survey. In fact M. S. C. rated as much as 100% more than other schools in faculty cooperation. Imagine a school where a person must schedule a conference with a professor in order to talk to him. Imagine a school where professors have one or two office hours per week to advise students and then conveniently disappear during those hours. In a nationwide poll this was found to be true in a great many cases—especially in the larger institutions of learning.

Such is not the case at M. S. C. If an occasional professor is not disposed to give as much attention to extra instruction as might be expected then he is the exception rather than the rule. Again, we are lucky to have a fine cooperative group of teachers to lead us to higher learning.

Spring Quarter Warning

Some forty years ago our hopeful parents brought forth in this state an institution dedicated to the proposition that young people are probably basically intelligent in spite of indications to the contrary. In their optimistic ignorance they believed that, given the opportunity, the youth of Montana would hook its wagon to a star and do its damndest to become the collective president of these United States. Time has done a good bit to correct this erroneous impression, but some people still suffer under the delusion that an education is the desire of their off-spring's heart—born witness to by the fact that we pay for the privilege of working for the faculty instead of being paid by the W. P. A.

Of course, there are some people who come to college to learn something instead of merely to pledge a fraternity. And M. S. C. has a lion's share of these. But for those of us who perhaps, carry books more for the impression which they will make upon the professor than for the impression they will make upon ourselves a word in time may save a lot of cramming.

Spring quarter is notoriously a hard quarter, due to the fact that although the faculty continues along the same vein, the students have a hard time keeping from making dates with the weather. But mid-quarters and finals roll around with regrettable regularity, even when the florists sell daffodils and systematic botany students flit over the hills after crocuses.

It's difficult—even the Exponent knows that—to study Sociology when the sun is shining, but it's hard too, to read the whole book the night before the final. Let a word to the "wise" be sufficient and don't let picnics interfere too much with study hours, for a good night's sleep does more good for a report card than all the wattle that was ever burned on the altars of erudition.

Tip For Pat Dolan

The Gettysburgian of Gettysburg College relates the story of the wrestling coach who patiently tried to explain the fundamentals of the grunt and groan art to his only mildly interested pupils. None seemed to understand, and the light of learning burned low. Finally in sheer desperation he wrote in bold white letters across the gym ceiling: "If you can read this you're in the wrong position."

This Anecdote Smells

Smelly story: One recent evening, Prof. Clarence Gaines of St. Lawrence University made his usual right turn at number 20 Pine Street and climbed the steps to his home. As he opened the door he paused to admit what he supposed was the family cat.

Shortly afterwards his wife called to him to let the cat in. Although recalling that the animal had already come in, he dutifully opened the door, peered out, and saw the cat waiting at his feet. Thinking he must have been absent-minded, he admitted the cat and dismissed the incident.

But the incident would not be dismissed and presently a very unpleasant odor permeated even the remotest corners of the Gaines home. The first arrival was a skunk, and to add dismay to surprise, although they searched diligently, the animal could not be found!

Thus is explained Professor Gaines' departure from his customary attire and even the hornrimmed glasses the next morning.

Unfortunate Story

Several years have elapsed, but the story is still a good one. A Cornell University undergraduate, fascinated by the epic proportions of the feat, determined to pay his university bill of $243.50 entirely in pennies. Investigation at a local bank revealed that 24,350 pennies could be procured in exchange for bills. The resultant sack of copper coins was hauled to the treasurer's office and stacked before the proper window, whereupon an incensed treasurer informed the panting student that pennies in that sum were not legal tender and could not be accepted.

Undaunted, our hero returned to the bank, planning to deposit his pennies and get the cash to pay his bill. It seems, however, that the banks had an unfortunate rule to the effect that pennies could not be accepted for deposit unless wrapped, so in desperation the student was forced to hire a bank clerk to wrap the coins. For the small sum of $8.00 the clerk worked the greater part of the night, and by morning the pennies were ready for deposit.

Armed with the necessary cash a much chastened student returned again to the treasurer's office, feeling much relief at the prospective ending of an unhappy episode. Only to find that an additional fine of $5.00 had been slapped against his account for late payment of fees.

What Is "Flumadiddle?"

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Dictionary Dope: The newest volume of the Dictionary of American English being published by the University of Chicago is handing down to posterity many words and phrases dear to the hearts of slang-minded collegians.

For instance, "flunk" is defined as "complete failure in a course, examination, or an etcetera." "Gas" is unpretentious talk, especially of a political kind.

"Flumadiddle" is also included in the latest volume, which includes words from "flinty" to "gold region." It even includes "gin palace," which is a "grog shop of a pretentious or gaudy appearance."

Wonder if they've added the latest fad of the collegians, "goldfish eating"?

Plenty of Jobs

Madison, Wis.—(ACP)—The nation's collegiate job-hunters can take heart—there are at least 251,000 jobs "going begging" in the nation!

That fact has been revealed by the University of Wisconsin's Dr. A. H. Edgerton, who has just completed an exhaustive survey of the employment situation in 29 states.

"Amidst the scarcity of work opportunity last year, more than 251,000 good jobs were discovered going begging in 29 states," Dr. Edgerton said the survey showed. "These 251,000 jobs were uncovered in the 12-month period ending Dec. 20, 1939. There may be more today, for somewhat improved business conditions have increased demands for workers trained to fill the better positions."

Two words—"adequately trained"—were blamed by Dr. Edgerton for the unfilled jobs, and they spelled the difference between employment and unemployment for at least a quarter million men and women, he said. This does not mean merely that they must be skilled in technical processes of occupation, he explained, but it does mean that they must possess the fundamental knowledge on which those processes are built, and that "they must be able to adjust and adapt themselves to changing conditions."

Personality and adaptability are the yardsticks by which the qualifications of applicants are being increasingly measured," Dr. Edgerton explained. "If rudimentary education is based upon the three R's—reading, 'riting, and 'rithmetic—the acceptable personality depends upon the three C's—courtesy, courage, and cooperation.

"With few exceptions, a wellrounded personality is more essential to success than either a brilliant intellect or a highly-specialized training, since a prime requisit is the ability to adjust to people with ease," he maintained. "There are too many cases in which young men or women have specialized for certain jobs to the exclusion of all else on their horizon, only to have the jobs swept away."

Courtesy ordinarily is given first place by the employers, and of the three C's it is the most important.

Chances for employment promise to be better this spring than they have been since 1930 for men and women ready for training for better positions. Dr. Edgerton declared.

No Marriage Relation Courses Needed

Pittsburgh, Pa.—(ACP)—Professors at the University of Pittsburgh don't need marriage relations courses!

This was brought out in a survey of marriage figures among the elite of the faculty; 93.8 per cent of the University's professors are married as compared to the national marriage rate of only 61.1 per cent.

To put this into a more concrete examaple, nearly nine and one-half profts out of ten are married. The national figures, taking in even the Ozark mountains, average only six persons out of ten. The marriage rate among profs doesn't carry over to other university employees, however. Only 67.4 per cent of the officers, faculty, and clerical assistants of the University are married. This is still above the national figure.

Letters To The Editor

This column is maintained for the purpose of allowing students to express their opinions on various matters. Such statements are not necessarily those of the MONTANA EXPONENT and are not printed as such but all letters which arouse sufficient interest to show that they represent the opinions of several students in a legitimate sense will be printed at the discretion of the Editorial Board.

Dear Editor:

May I have the privilege of using your column for the unburdening of student souls? Thank you.

My one and only purpose in writing this letter is to "debunk" the literary efforts of our "Ilustrious?" freshman, which were printed in the March 6th issue of the Exponent.

As the author's statements clearly show, he attended "Sweethearts" with the word, comedy, torn from the title of Musical Comedy, fixed firmly in his mind, can you imagine the poor boy's disillusionment when in place of straight "slap stick" style, the play was a comedy in its true sense?

Mr. Wallace says, and I quote, "Ray Lakey's performance was the only thing that kept me awake." I wonder how anyone in this condition of lethal stupor can so intelligently analyze a situation that he can give any but destructive and fallacious criticism.

The author also says, "For the largest part, it sounded like a recitation of lines, not acting". Well; so acting is a process of projecting sounds. If Mr. Wallace hadn't been so tired, and had opened his eyes, I'm sure he would have seen some acting even if he couldn't hear it. But then, maybe he was indulging in his marginal snoozes during the greater part of the play.

Most o this other statements are such obvious fallacies that I won't bother to go into details.

However, May I close by correcting another of the author's statements? He states, "I've never seen anything worse". May I answer him with this question? "Has he ever seen anything?"

Constructive criticism is alway welcome—destructive criticism is the best known measurement of ignorance.

Paul Greiner Nears Graduation At Randolph Field

Completion of their basic phase of flight training as Flying Cadets of the U. S. Army Air Corps at Randolph Field, Texas, is near at hand for a former Montana State College man.

Flying Cadet Paul E. Greiner, 1013 Utah Ave., Butte, '39 Lambda Chi Alpha, lettered 3 years in football, on Exponent staff, is among the 240 student pilots scheduled to be transferred from the "West Point of the Air", Randolph Field, to the Advanced Flying School, at Kelly Field, about March 22, for a final three months course of flying instruction before being awarded their wings and commissioned as Second Lieutenants in the Air Corps Reserve.

These Flying Cadets started their military aviation career in October, 1939, when they were selected for elementary training at one of nine civilian flying schools cooperating with the Air Corps in its expansion program. A total of 5,500 airplanes and pilots to fly them will be on hand by June, 1941, according to Major General Henry H. Arnold, Chief of the Air Corps.

Sixty-five hours of flying time were

Little International Plans Great Show For Audience May 21, 22

One of the outstanding activities of the college year, the Little International, will be held on May 21 and 22. Barr Zeidler and Jim Roan, co-managers of the 1940 show, announced Monday.

"The show this year will be large than during previous years", Zeidler said: "One performance will be given on May 21 for the members of Future Farmers and 4-H organizations in this vicinity and the students of Montana State College. The second night will be devoted to the townspeople and members of the Montana Stockgrowers' Association who will be starting their annual convention in Butte the next day."

The "Vince Memorial Watch", presented by Mrs. Sarah Jennings Vinke of Fort Collins, Colorado, in memory of her husband who for many years was connected with the animal husbandry department of Montana State College, will again be awarded to the grand champion showman. As in former years Alpha Zetta, agricultural honorary fraternity, will award a pen and pencil set to the reserve champion showman.

As in the past, 50% of the award will be made on the basis of the fitting of the animal during the five weeks previous to the show and the balance on the quality of the showmanship which the student displays.

Members of the committee who are assisting Zeidler and Roan are Wil-logged by the Montana State College Cadets during their first three months of training, more than half of it being solo. They were then transferred to Randolph Field for another three months course, this time flying low wing monoplanes, embodying many of the characteristics of a modern day tactical airplane.

Aerial acrobatics, night flying and instrument flying are stressed during this secondary phase of training which consists of 75 hours flying time, only a small portion of it being dual instruction.

The final step in the training of these future military pilots is the three months course at Kelly Field, where formation flying, day and night navigation, and advanced instrument flying are the main subjects of the curriculum.

During the nine months of the training course, Flying Cadets receive a salary of $75 per month in addition to their living expenses. Following graduation, and the receipt of their commissions in the Air Corps Reserve, these new pilots will be assigned to tactical squadrons of the expanding Air Corps. Their salary will be increased to slightly more than $200 per month.

Unmarried men between the ages of 20 and 27, who have two years of college education are exempt from the mental examination for appointment as Flying Cadets.

liam Lodman, and Jack Fritz, entertainment; Kenneth Sire, president of the Agricultural Club; Clifford Vaughn and Arnold Berglund, ringmasters; Earl McKamery, Bob Lee, Ben Hill, program; Glenn Cooley, publicity; and Ralph McCall, F. M. Harrington, J. O. Tretsven, faculty advisors.

Harvard and Williams rank first and second respectively in the percentage of living alumni listed in "Who's Who".

Cast Is Chosen

Th eplay is the first ever to be repeated as a college production by Hansen. He first presented it here in 1930.

It will be offered four times this year during high school week, the week of April 22—twice for college students and townspeople and twice for high school students.

Much of the effectiveness of the production depends upon lighting for each scene. All lighting effects are being taken care of by two senior electrical engineering students, and scenery is being constructed by the play productions classes at the college under direction of Mr. Paul Davee.

Selection of the cast was most difficult, Mr. Hansen said, but he now feels he has perhaps the best characters for the individual roles which he could possibly get not only from the Montana State college student body, but from the entire city of Bozeman.

Last week Miss Hapner and the High School Week scholarship committee, under the direction of Roger Earto and Vivian Cowan packaged and mailed the scholarship lists to high schools throughout the state. They mailed 18,299 tests to 93 different schools.

The returns from these tests will be coming in next week. From these returns will be chosen contestants who will participate in single subject events during high school week. The highest student in each subject from school will be invited as a delegate.

During high school week there are 44 events for which medals are given. There are three medals awarded in each one.

Opening the spring season of fun is the W. A. A. Carnival which will be held in the gymnasium Friday night. A special feature of the Carnival will be the sideshow which will include a variety of entertainment including hula hula dancers with grass skirts and leis.

Saturday night the twenty-five beauty-queens will be presented at the annual Montanan Beauty Queen Dance. Bing Crosby is making the selection of the five queens this year and his choice should be good.

Twenty-Five Beauty Queens To Be Presented At Annual Montanan Dance

Saturday night, March 30, in the Baxter the boys and girls of M. S. C. will have an opportunity to see twenty-five of the most beautiful coeds on the campus come tripping down the long stairway at the annual Montanan Beauty Queen Dance.

Dancing to Heinie Mockel's super band will begin at nine p. m., and later on in the evening, presentation of the five queens will be made. This year's queens are being chosen by Bing Crosby, star of radio and screen, from the pictures of twenty-five girls representative of the pulchritude to be found at Montana State.

Chaperones for the occasion include Dean Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Louis True.

Arrangements for the big affair are being taken care of by several members of the Montanan staff including Carl Peters, Lloyd Schmitt, Vivian Cowan, and Clayton Boisvert.

The annual Montanan dance is probably the most outstanding semi-formal held in the spring, and it is certainly the most colorful. It's one which none should miss under any circumstances! Tickets will be on sale at the door tomorrow night at 75c a couple.

100 Couples Attend First Frosh-Senior Dance in Gymnasium

About a hundred couples danced under the false ceiling which was made of twisted purple and white streamers at the Freshman Easter dance which was given in honor of the seniors, Saturday night in the gym. Completing the decorations was a huge net filled with balloons and suspended from the center of the ceiling.

The feature of the evening was the presentation of Vivian Cowan as the "Mommy of the Freshman Class". Waldo Emerson, freshman class president, presented Vivian with a gold locket in behalf of the class. On the back of the locket was the inscription "from the class of '43" and a "V" was set in the center of the front of the locket. Vivian is a member of the Chi Omega sorority and was chosen from the five sorority presidents by an election held by the freshmen.

Chaperons for this occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Lou Howard and Dean Harrison. Heinie Mockel and his band furnished the music for this dance which is the revival of an old tradition of M. S. C. which has not been carried out during the past few years.

The committee in charge consisted of Kay Sullivan, Mary Edsall, Alyce Jane Watson, Marvin Porter, Clarence Christiansen, and Waldo Emerson.

Modes of the Moment

By Toni Whitcomb

Feels like spring, looks like spring, well, it must be spring—we hope! This spring business is true as I write this, but don't blame me if winter has returned by the time you're reading this. Granting that spring is here and if you're a normal bunch of girls you like to have clothes that harmonize with the weather when you trip off to school.

The first requirement is a pastel or dusky shade wool jacket of some sort or even a whole suit of the same description. A plaid or stripe jacket is worn with a plain color skirt and vice versa. Your skirt can be a deeper shade than the jacket or your jacket can match deeper tones in your skirt. Consider a cardigan neckline on your jacket for these are very attractive worn with a white sharkskin "dickey"—the little round collar outside.

Skirts are stunning in a variety of materials—a smooth rayon gabardine, a soft wool, a heavy sharkskin. They are usually circular or multi-gored and there is an emphasis on front fullness. Often we find the fullness springing from beneath large pockets. These latter add much interest, with a narrow belt run through them.

For wearing with the skirts we have a number of suggestions. The popular "hobo" shirt of last year is still with us—louder than ever. Soft cotton knit sweaters with turbans to match are just plenty nice. As a change we like a pink cotton fleecy cardigan—cousin to the sweat shirt. And more on the dressy side we find a rayon tiny polka-dot shirt with bishop sleeves.

Match your anklets to some color in your jacket or your blouse, slip your feet into moccasins or saddle shoes and you're all set. This same jacket and skirt can be made into a smart town outfit by adding spectator pumps, a pastel felt snap brim, and white do-skin gloves.

Basketball Tourney To Be Held In Gym This Week

Coach Brick Breeden has a treat in store for local basketball fans. Although somewhat rushing the season backers of the team will have the privilege of seeing what next years team will look like with the addition of the strongest freshman squad seen here in years.

As a finale for spring basketball practice Breeden has planned a round robin tournament which will last for five days beginning next Monday and running through Friday. Starting at 5 o'clock each evening two games will be played. The squad will be divided into four teams composed of six play players each.

At the end of the tournament each player will be asked to give the individual rating of all other players in the tournament. From the results of these rating an all-star team will be chosen and will prove a valuable aid in choosing next years squad.

Men out for spring basketball are: Brickley, Bodley, Bowman, Farrell, Hall, Jorgenson, May, Menzel, Mizner, and Robinson from this year's squad and Anderson, Bradford, Brooksle, Cascaden, Cluzen, Clawson, Dogterom, Jacques, Nelson, Rooley, Richardson, Scabad and Wilcox forming the remainder of the squad.

Dyche Sets April 10 For Spring Football Practice Date

With prospects of an excellent football squad next fall Montana State will dig out its football mole skins and inaugurate spring football practice on April 10th. Coach Schubert Dyche expects a large turnout as he prepares to welcome 13 returning letterman and a host of newcomers. The sophomore prospects are the brightest in years and these men are expected to give the veterans plenty of stiff competition before starting berths are definitely assigned. Dugan, Dogterom, Markuson, Anderson and Clawson were all outstanding freshman squad members and are the men expected to give the veterans the most competition. The following are the veterans and returning lettermen from the squad of '39: Bradford and Scharmota ends, Berg, McGeever, and Burke tackles, Duly and Cluzen guards, Lovera, center, Phelan, Stone, Vaughn, Farrell, and May backs. These men will form the nucleus of next year's squad.

An outstanding schedule has been drafted for the coming season. Five home games, three at Bozeman and two at Butte, will feature the schedule. Bobcat Day will be held on October 5th, when the Bobcats tangle with the North Dakota State Bison eleven which last year defeated the Cats in a thrill packed, exciting game, also played on Bobcat Day. Montana State's arch foe, the Montana University Grizzlies, will attempt to gain another victory over the Cats in a game to be played at Butte on October 19th. The other game at Butte, to be played at night, will be with San Jose State on Sept. 24th. The Cats have a rigorous schedule for next fall with not a soft touch in any one of the games.

PING PONG TOURNEY TO BE COMPLETED

Participants in ping pong for points in W. A. A. can complete their requirements by getting in the rest of their practices and playing their tournament games. It will be a consolation tournament, those who have not played their games that were scheduled last quarter may play them now and those who have played theirs will be in the running for championship.
