

'M' Day To Be Oct. 7

Freshmen Will Scale Slope of Mount Baldy

Weather permitting, the 32-year-old tradition of brightening up the "M" on Mount Baldy will be carried out the morning of October 7. All freshmen (you lucky people) are required to come. Wear your freshman hats. Class dues of one dollar will be collected at the foot of the hill.

If the whistle blows at 6:30 a.m. there will be "M" day and if the whistle doesn't blow at 6:30, classes will be resumed as usual.

Students having no other way of transportation to the foot of Mount Baldy will be taken out in trucks which will leave Hamilton Hall at 7:30. The trucks will proceed down Cleveland street to Willson and on down Willson to Main and from there on out to the "M".

The Spurs and Fangs will collect dues from the freshmen. This money will be put into the freshmen treasury.

All freshmen should wear their "working clothes" and bring all of the old brooms and mops that are available.

The "M" itself is the largest single block letter of its kind in the world being 240 feet in height, 100 feet wide and covers 16,500 square feet. The letter is laid out in such a position on the hill so that it can be seen for many miles. It was built in 1916 by the class of '18 as a lasting monument to the spirit and industry of their class and also as a mark of their devotion to MSC.

There will be a dance at the Student Union ballroom "M" eve.

The "M" Club will supervise the Bobcat tribunal at the flagpole on "M" day. All offenders of the "M" day regulations will be prosecuted at the tribunal. Tribunal will start at one in the afternoon.

Watch for posters and pamphlets for further information.

College, Student Presidents Welcome MSC Newcomers

MSC is beginning another great year, and to all students returning for another year in Bozeman, I extend a hearty welcome.

Our Alma Mater is enriched this year with a fine spirited group of Freshmen, eager to build and enforce the legacy of traditions which will be entrusted to them.

We are all back for another year of endeavor in the building of our minds and bodies, and the school is doing its best to maintain facilities that will prepare us well for the future. We have a great many well-trained new faculty members and construction has begun on a much needed library building.

All of us, students and faculty alike, together can build a new post-war spirit and esprit de corps in our studies and towards our mother campus.

To the entire faculty, to all returning and new students, and to the returning school spirit, I'm happy to say WELCOME to Montana State college.

President Associated Students

Organization of Exponent Staff Will be Tonight

An organizational meeting of the Exponent staff will be held tonight at 5 p.m. in the Faculty Lounge of the SUB. All students who are interested in any phase of newspaper work are asked to attend. Experience is NOT a requirement.

Montana State college welcomes new and returning students to the campus with the hope that each of you will have a good year.

You will find much construction in progress. Our new library building is being erected just west of the Student Union Building, our double street through the center of the campus is being surfaced and repairs and improvements have been or are in process in several of our buildings. These permanent improvements are indeed welcome, but they cause some inconvenience and confusion at the moment. Our very large enrollment has created serious parking and traffic problems, and it has been necessary to set up certain regulations for more efficient traffic movement and order. Your sympathetic understanding and cooperation will be appreciated.

Montana State college needs additional buildings and improvements to maintain its good standing and to render most effective service to the state. We are hoping for a favorable vote in November on the issue to increase the millage levy on property for financial support to operate, and on the bond issue to finance construction of additional classrooms and laboratories. We will continue to make every effort possible to improve the quality of our instruction and research work.

We hope 1948-49 will be an especially beneficial and happy year for each of you.

Val Glynn New Dean of Students

Val G. Glynn, graduate manager of athletics and assistant public service director, was named dean of students effective August 1. In his new position Glynn will take over the duties of dean of men, formerly performed by Dr. Klemme, and will also act as general coordinator of all services that deal directly with the students, including health service, housing, admissions and similar activities.

VAL G. GLYNN

A Bobcat football, baseball and basketball star in 1924-28, Glynn pitched for the San Francisco Seals in the Pacific Coast league for three seasons after leaving MSC only to have his promising baseball career cut short by a hip injury.

Exponent Welcomes You

The Montana Exponent extends its own welcome to the president and to the faculty, old and new, and to all the new students as well as a welcome back to the old students of Montana State college. To the people of the community of Bozeman, the Exponent again enlists their cooperation to further continue the friendly spirit between the students and the people of Bozeman.

To the new freshmen students who are possibly bewildered and somewhat confused from placement tests, registration, rush week and the general beginnings of college, MSC offers another step in the life-time span of education and experience. Different as it may seem from high school, college is an investment. You may be going to school to have fun and to play; you may be here to study and to fit yourself for life; and you may be here only because you do not know what else to do. It is your problem to adapt your college life to fit what is your desire to reap in return. For in the true sense of the word you are on your own in effort put forth and reward received.

The freshman week which you have just gone through is designed to give you the best possible guidance and assistance in the first right step. With only the advice that "what is well begun is half done" the Exponent greets the 1948-49 college year and wishes all the students and faculty a happy and successful year.

Exponent Policy

"This is the first issue of The Montana Exponent. It will be published every week of the school year with the exception of mid-quarter and final weeks and when holidays interfere with a scheduled Thursday publication date. The staff of this paper, which is your paper, will endeavor to maintain and improve the quality and standards of the Exponent which received the Third Award in the Oregon Journal College Newspaper competition last year.

In order to achieve the purpose of this paper, the staff will strive to cover as thoroughly as possible and publish as quickly and accurately as possible the varied news items and elements of interest of the student body of MSC. In order to do this, we shall need the cooperation of all the various organizations and the support of the student body, individually and collectively. Therefore any assistance in news coverage from individuals, groups or organizations of students and/or faculty that will enable our paper to be better and more well rounded will be accepted and appreciated. In return we shall always strive to publish the best possible school paper.

The editorials and letters-to-the-editor columns are for the purpose of student opinion and comment. Such material published will be a combination of contributions of staff members and various students and faculty. Always glad to receive constructive criticism, the Exponent will take the following stand concerning editorials and letters to the editor:

1. Material will become the property of the Exponent.
2. Letters to the editor must be signed and the contributor's name published.
3. Material will be edited for spelling. The editor reserves the right to refuse to publish any material submitted for reasons of libel or slander or lack of printing space.
4. It will be understood that the editor or the staff may not be in agreement with the views and text of such material but their publication will be an exertion of the American system of free press.

Freshman Traditions

From the hustle and bustle of freshman week, the editor would like to bring to view two things. The first is the college tradition that all members of the freshman class wear green hats for a designated period. The freshman class is to be congratulated on their initial willingness to observe this tradition.

A great number of high school letters are to be seen on athletic sweaters. This is Montana State college, not Smithville high school; therefore all high school letters should be removed from the sweaters.

The editor would like to thank those members of last year's staff who gave time and effort during a busy freshman week to enable the publication of this issue of the Exponent.

Wayne Chestnut in RIGHT NOW

Overnight, Montana State college becomes a city within a city. In one day the summer peacefulness of this burg increases by 3000 inhabitants to make it a lively city.

It seems ironic to think that these 3000 newcomers every fall are here for an education and nothing else. In one day the bars, boom, theatres are overflowing and the once peaceful town is starting on another nine months seige.

I have often wondered if this town would dry up and blow away if it were not for the local brain factory. Along with this, I have wondered if the people of this town realize that almost all of these annual immigrants have been working in other parts of the state and then coming to Bozeman to spend all. Maybe this is the hard way to look at it but all a person can see actually is the face of things.

At least, the big race is on again. I would like to say good luck to the freshmen. I hope they don't get trampled.

Ground is Broken for New Library Building at MSC

Ground was broken September

14 for the new Montana State college library, the first state financed brick structure to be built on the campus since the erection of buildings financed under the 1920 bond issue.

Located just 120 feet west of the student union building and facing Garfield avenue, the new structure is financed from funds allocated to the various state institutions for post-war construction which accumulated during the war years. To make room for the library, the gray stone wing of the old mathematics building will be torn down in the next few days.

The new library will be 70 by 135 feet extending north and south. Increased building costs do not permit the carrying out of original plans for the structure. However, a reading room wing extending west along the Garfield avenue front of the building will be added when funds are available as will a southern extension for added stack space.

With the new library the college will have double the storage space it now has in the present library in Montana hall. About 204,000 books will be available to the students in the new building.

The library will have four floors with book stacks located in the basement and attic. On the main floor will be reading rooms, staff working quarters with added reading rooms on the second floor.

While actual construction will begin as soon as the basement is dug, it is expected the building will not be completed for approximately a year.

53rd HOMECOMING—

Carol Kelly, Keith Wright and John Gander.

Members of various organizations are presently planning law decorations as well as parade floats to compete for the trophies. Sigma Alpha Epsilon is defending the parade championship this year with the Kappa Delta's holding the plaque for last year's best lawn decoration.

Engstrom pointed out at last week's meeting that with the Bozeman Grizzly game in Butte following weekend, many of the groups building floats for the Homecoming parade plan to enter them in the annual Butte parade. These groups will be assured competition from Montana State University, as their homecoming slated for the same dates as MSC.

"If we are blessed with the weather we had for last year's Homecoming in Bozeman," Engstrom concluded hopefully, "we can assure one and all a bigger and better Homecoming at Montana State college."

Cats Roll Over Bisons 0 in First Home Game

Crushing ground attack, led by Montana State college half-marshall and Brisbin, completely smothered the North Dakota Bisons 33 to 0, here at Gatton Field last Saturday afternoon. During three plays after the initial kickoff, the Montana State team piled up a 26 to 0 lead by halftime and never permitted Bisons to penetrate MSC territory until the final period.

Black Milt Clawson plunged, needed two yards for Bisons' first six, after Buzz left half, had done the setup with a thrilling 58-yard Hooper, bucking a stiff B. failed in his attempted punt. With inches to go, back Johnny Gardiner over for the second tally first period.

Quarterback activities allowed Hall and McGillen to each for Montana's Blue and during over his own left Adam Marshall raced 70 yards into the endzone. Willertered. Jim McGillen, sophomore quarterback, completely smothered the North Dakota eleven, a smooth bootleg clearing for 32 yards and a touch-Willson made it seven.

Fox paved the way for touchdown of the fray intercepted aa Bison toss. L. Fox, and Clawson alternating carrying the ball, moved cats down the field. Marcent the last five to pay Willson converted again.

One Act Plays to Be New Feature Of Homecoming

"The Happy Journey", "The Box and Cox" and "Climb the Golden Stair" are three one-act plays which the dramatics department will present Friday evening, October 8, in the pavilion as part of the Homecoming attractions. Well known Thornton Wilder is the author of "The Happy Journey". A former Montana State college student, Gene Feist, wrote "Climb the Golden Stair" with a Montana background as the setting.

The plays will be held in the pavilion and will be produced in the "round". This will be the first time that salon or area theater has been done at MSC during regular school sessions.

This type of theater has become famous through the Washington Penthouse theater and is being widely used by both professional and amateur companies.

The production of the three one-act plays will be an experiment to see if this type of drama is interesting to the student. If well received, the pavilion will be used for each quarter's production this year.

Students may attend the plays on their activity cards.

3,000 Students Register for Fall Quarter

A total of 2,934 students have been registered for enrollment at Montana State this fall quarter, according to figures released by the Registrar's office Monday noon. This is a slight increase over the 2,803 who matriculated last spring.

While this enrollment is above the figure of that last regular college session, it is slightly below the 3,102 of fall quarter a year ago.

A one-day record was established last Friday with 1,517 students receiving their class schedules. Thursday, 666 collegians had registered, while on Saturday morning a total of 710 were enrolled.
