Roehm and Dunbar Receive Distinguished Teacher Awards

Dr. Gladys H. Roehm, professor of home economics, and Dr. Robert G. Dunbar, professor of history, received the Montana State College Alumni Association Distinguished Teacher Awards at the college honors day assembly Monday.

Dr. Roehm has been a faculty member since 1949. The ability to develop a close relationship between research and homemaking has made her a favorite with home economics students, and her talent as a poetess and dramatician has made her a sought-after advisor for student programs.

Dr. Dunbar has been a faculty member since 1947. His students feel that he makes events of the day a vital part of their lives.

He is also a popular speaker throughout the state.

Both Dr. Dunbar and Dr. Roehm have served on many student and faculty committees.

Chosen for the awards by a committee of students and faculty, each received a certificate of merit and $200 in cash.

The program was initiated by the alumni in 1956 as a means of focusing attention on classroom teaching of undergraduate students.

Faculty eligible for the award included all faculty members who have been on the staff at least two years, who rank instructor or above, who are not deans or department heads, and who devote a major portion of time to classroom teaching of undergraduates.

Students nominated faculty members through the student senate and faculty made nominations through the division deans.

'Ondine' To Run Thru Tomorrow

There are two performances remaining of the spring quarter theatre production of "Ondine" at the Student Union Theatre. Montana State College students with activity cards will be admitted free, however all seats are reserved. These reservations may still be made by phoning college extension 282, or in person at the box office, which will be open today from 2 to 5. The curtain is at 8 p.m. All attending are requested to be seated at this time as the explanations in the first few minutes of the play are necessary for understanding and enjoyment of the remaining hour and a half, according to a Dramatics Department spokesman.

Church Board Will Appoint REW Heads

Anyone interested in working on next year's Religious Emphasis Week committees is asked to stop in and leave their name with Pat Anderson, Religious Coordinator, Room 316, SUB, reports Dave Kimball, ICC President.

General chairmen and committee chairmen will be named in the future and committees will be formed before the end of spring quarter.

Approximately 125 students served on committees for this year's REW under the direction of general chairman Leroy Gilbertson, Lee Phillips, and Ann Sandberg, Kimball said.

100 Students to Show In 26th Annual Little I

An even 100 Montana State College students will show animals in the 26th annual Little International Livestock Show to be held in the physical education center arena this weekend.

Since the middle of April, the students have been spending many hours weekly preparing their animals for showing. Animals to be shown are sheep, horses, swine and beef and dairy cattle.

In addition to the 100 animals to be shown in the rings, about 15 students will enter horses in four performance classes—hackamore reining, western pleasure, bit reining and equitation.

Many awards are to be presented the top showmen this year. The Grand Champion Showman will receive the animal he showed and each division winner will be given the animal of his choice, from the division in which he showed. These animals are donated by various livestock organizations and registered breeders from the state.

Plans Made For Annual Women's Day

Chairmen for Women's Day have been appointed and plans are well underway for the annual event which will be held June 7th in the Gymnasium. The general chairman of Women's Day is Sonja Larson of Deer Lodge. To help her with the plans and arrangements are Ruth Kotaki of Glasgow, courtesy; Marge Griffin, Billings, arrangements; Dotie Anderson, Dillon, awards; Carla Lockwood, Corvallis, publicity; Jean Lenon, Kalispell, professional; Ruth Breeden, Bozeman, pageant; and Phyllis Owens, Bozeman, music.

Women's Day was founded in 1923 by Mrs. Ina B. Herrick, Dean of Women at that time. Her idea in starting the now traditional event was to publicly recognize women, undergraduate and alumnae of MSC, for their achievements.

At 11 p.m., June 4 the Pre-Women's Day assembly will be conducted in the SUB Theater. All women students will be excused from classes and required to attend.

Social Scheduling

Scheduling for all social affairs to be held Fall Quarter 1959 will be held on May 21, 1959, in Room 317 of the SUB at 5 p.m. Nothing will be scheduled next fall, according to Commissioner of Social Affairs Phyllis Noel.

Phi Kappa Phi Initiation Held

Phi Kappa Phi initiation banquet was held Tuesday, May 11, at the Student Union Building. Edwin G. Koch, President Montana School of Mines, was guest speaker.

Phi Kappa Phi is an honorary society composed of members from every department in American Universities. Its purpose is to emphasize scholarship and character. Membership is taken from the upper ten per cent of the junior class during spring quarter. Members have a grade point average of more than 3.25.

Phi Kappa Phi sponsors the all-school honors day assembly each year at MSC.

New initiates are: Deanna Cada, Mrs. Edna Conkey, Mrs. Roberta Cook, Lloyd Crook, Dennis Frisbie, Raymond Fritz, Robert Gary, Mrs. Loneta Huits, Delano Lawin, Joann Overgaard.

Nigro Named to Reign Over the 19 Junior Prom

Joan Nigro was crowned 1959 Prom Queen at the annual dance on Saturday night in the SUB ballroom. Joan is from Hardin, Montana, and is a member of the Student Board, and Alpha Tau Omega, Nursing Honorary.

A crowd of over 1000 persons enjoyed dancing to the music of the fourteen-piece Billy May band and many more listened as was broadcast over Radio Station KBMN. The band was under the direction of vocalist Frankie Miller. Decorations carried out the theme of "Red Sails in the Sunset."

The band members were very appreciative of the students' response to their music, according to Junior Class President Dave Smith.

Editorially Speaking . . .

Quality Kept Secret

Possibly one of the outstanding presentations of serious music in the history of MSC was presented Sunday night by a group which nearly outnumbered the audience. The occasion was the annual concert of the MSC Concert Chorus and the newly formed Community Chorus. Under the direction of Maurice Casey the two groups threaded their way through Beethoven, Brahms, and Verdi with a precision and power that pushed MSC music to new standards. When the concert was finished, no doubt existed in the minds of Casey, the audience, or the chorus members who had spent the afternoon in practice that MSC can produce music to compete with the best anywhere.

But why the deep, dark secret about this concert, as well as the symphonette concert last quarter and the performance by this same group Tuesday? Does the Music Department think that by letting publicity for their concerts filter through underground channels they can secure a more elite audience? They may have succeeded. The audience at the vocal concert and, even more the case of the symphonette concert earlier, were so elite as to be almost nonexistent.

Congratulations to chorus members and to Maurice Casey. And, in the case of future concerts, may we suggest that the rest of the world be allowed to share the secret.

Short Story Contest Open

The importance of campus writing receives a boost this week with the announcement by Escapade Magazine of a $1,000 short story contest for college and university students.

"More than a contest," says Douglas Allen, editor of Escapade, "this is a search for new talent. Our magazine has become identified with fiction that hurdles the time-honored barriers of taboos and slick plot rules in order to tell a good story better. We are interested in finding young writers with fresh ideas and styles."

Formal announcement of the contest is made in the August issue of Escapade, now on sale.

First prize of $500 will be awarded for the best short story submitted, and prizes of $125 will be awarded for the next four stories chosen. Escapade will also award $100 for each additional story, not in the top five, that the editors feel is acceptable for publishing in the magazine.

"I would suggest," Allen said, "that entrants study a copy of Escapade to become familiar with our format and the type of material we are using. At Escapade we do not believe in a formula for the short story. While we prefer the upbeat story, our first and last consideration is that the story will be of interest to the reader of above-average intelligence."

Contest rules are included in the August issue announcement, and the winning story will be published in the June, 1960, issue of Escapade.

... one small voice

By GEORGE SLANGER

Man's eternal struggle to rise to something above himself sets the tone for "Ondine," MSC's latest dramatic production.

Playwrite Jean Giraudoux has followed the style of Lewis Carroll who, in his Alice in Wonderland, leads the audience through a set of philosophical exercises by means of a story which appears on the surface to be only light, charming and very thoughtful. In this case, the story concerns a knight errant who marries an ondine, a water spirit who, in taking her human husband, enters a binding agreement with the god of her water realm. Alas, the human knave proves too human, the supernatural eternal happiness a youth of Ondine proves only supernatural, and the terms of the agreement are tragically fulfilled.

All of the Grace

Director Joe Fitch's cast does an adequate and occasionally brilliant job of leading the play through its various levels. Ellen Missel in her role as Ondine provides all of the grace, lightness and airiness the role demands, the early scenes, Ellen's presence raises the pitch of the play which drops as she leaves as surely as if a switch were thrown.

Playing opposite Ellen as handsome knight is Bruce Jackson who looks like a college freshman with considerable acting talent who needs time to polish. The part of Hans is a demanding part for a freshman in his first major role and credit must be given to Bruce, even though part was played with an ease ability more latent than obvious.

Act II proceeds smoothly with veteran Neal Roberts in full control of the part of Lord C. Berlin. Ann Dunbar provides exception to the high quality of Fitch's casting job in her role as the princess Bertha who is Hans to the ondine and wins back only to lose him again, time to death.

And Behind the Scenes

The mystic effects and the illusions provided by the court musician (Pat Alsop) are by means of the sometimes transparent "scrim." The effects depend strongly on lighting effects and to neglect a comment on Bryce Missel's scenery and lighting effects by Steve Sev would be to leave a job half done.

Allow us to emphasize because of the paper deadline was necessary to review a rehearsal and not a bona performance. It is possible with the benefit of an audience the few parts which showed strain, such as that of Hans of Aususte and Eugenie snap into place.

"Ondine" proves a delightful written play, well cast and produced. But it is Ellen Missel in the title role who provides spark and life for the show.

Editor Appointed New Paper Staff

The new staff for the 1960 edition of the EXPONENT has been announced by Tom Olson, newly appointed editor.

Associate editor will be Bracken, sports editor will be Kemp Wilson, Marge Mear will serve as news editor, Dieruf will be campus editor, Harriet Meras will write news, feature editor will be Marty Eudy, photography will be Lauren Buckland, office manager will be Ann Schuler.

The EXPONENT business staff will be headed by Craig.

Language Symbolism Invades Realm of Modern Teen-ager

By NANCY PLACE

In the maturation of the human body, no area is more typical of symbolism than is the age of living in the wonderful world of the teen years. Everything imaginable is symbolic of SOMETHING. The teen-ager thrives on this connection of everything to everything no matter how unrelated the two objects may be.

Language is of no exception. A common ordinary telephone conversation between two teen-age girls might run something like this.

"Janie! I met the neatest hunk of man in this whole wide world! He wears the sharpest clothes, is the slickest dancer, drives the most devastating bomb. To put it mildly, he's nothing short of being tremendously fabulous! I'll just have a spasm if he doesn't ask me to the Junior Prom!"

Or take the conversation between two cool cat hot rod fans.

"Hey, Joe."

"Yeah, Pete."

"Found a real hot deal on some new carbs, need three on that rod of mine ya know."

"Yeah, I know, Joe."

"Goin' to the dance Saturday night?"

"Nope."

"How come, Pete, ya busted?"

"Don't feel like goin'."

"What ya goin' do then?"

"Ah, that stupid girl of mine wants to see that vegetable of an Elvis Presley. Hell, I'd just as soon work on my three carburetors."

And then there is the Mutual Admiration Society between male and female where the girl wears a big globby hunk of gold metal around her neck and he wears her ring on his little finger; both of them have identical shirts, in his size of course, so that the girl looks like she's walking around in her grandfather's night-shirt, and they trade pillows so that they can have the pillow the other used to dream on, and the boy gives the girl a small bottle of his shaving lotion (if he shaves!) so that at night she can dab a bit on thus insuring sweet dreams of her "one and only," and the girl has a clear plastic umbrella with the boy's pictures on the underneath side to brighten up rainy days, and the boy paints his name on the driver's door of his car, the girl's name on her door and the car's name on the trunk, and they trade jackets, and write each other's name on their arms in ballpoint pen during class—and this goes on, and on, and on! The whole life is built on a foundation of love, life, and lipstick. It may seem so supercilious that it's almost sickening, but to the teen-ager there is no other way.

Honorary Doctor Conferred Upon MSU Graduate

Miss Dorothy Green of Helena, executive secretary of the University of Montana, will receive honorary Doctor of Letters degree at the 1959 Commencement exercises to be held June 10 at Montana State College, announces President Roland R. Renne.

Miss Green became secretary of the office of the Chancellor of the University of Montana in 1929 and when that office was abolished she became executive secretary for the university system.

Her combination of keen mind, organizational ability and initial personality enabled Miss Green to gain and hold the respect of the administrative staff of the several university units," President Renne said. "Much of the stability which our system of higher education has had in the past 30 years is the result of Miss Green's dedicated work in the central office."

Besides her business ability, Miss Green is also an accomplished musician. After graduation from high school in Helena she attended Montana State University for two years and then studied music in Berlin with violas her major instrument. This was followed by further study in Chicago under Leopold Auer, Michael Piastro and others after which she traveled extensively with musical groups. Later she acquired a business education.

Miss Green lends her talents to both business and music to community service in Helena. She is a member of the board of directors of the Helena Symphony Orchestra and she has assisted all string groups which have been much to the cultural background of Helena. She is a past president of the Business and Professional Women and of the Optimists.

Even with her numerous civic activities, Miss Green finds time to encourage young people in their musical education by teaching two or three unusually good students.

Miss Green is a member of Alpha Kappa Gamma, a teachers' honorary and of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

MSC Geologists Receive Grants For Summer Geochemical Study

Two Montana State College geologists have received grants from the Geological Society of America to study geochemistry of the Rocky Mountain area during the summer months.

Dr. John Montagne, assistant professor of geology, will complete field studies he began four years ago in the Saratoga Valley between Medicine Bow and the Park ranges of southern Wyoming. The work is part of a U.S. Geological survey to study the history of glaciation and recent geological events in Jackson Hole and other areas surrounding Yellowstone Park.

Dr. Robert Foster, assistant professor of geography and geology, also received a grant from the society. He plans to study corundum bearing rocks in the Madison range and will try to work out the origins of these aluminum oxide deposits.

Both Dr. Montagne and Dr. Foster will do their field work during eighth quarter leaves from the college.

WUS Car Wash Termed Success

According to Lennie Pfister, co-chairman of WUS, approximately $85 was cleared at the car wash in front of the SUB Saturday, May 9. This brought WUS funds to a total of $616. The efficiency of this year's car wash was increased by an automation line.

A street dance on June 5 in front of the SUB will be the next project of WUS.

WESTERN'S WAGENAAR clips off the 220 yard low hurdles with a record breaking time of 24.7 seconds. Wagenaar established the record of 24.8 seconds at last year's Invitational Meet. Eight records were shattered in Saturday's meet. The meet was completed before the rain had a chance to dampen the Cat cindermen again. MSC's thinclads won their first meet of the season, compiling 64 points to outlast oncoming Western, who tallied 55 points.

2nd Annual Women's AAU Track Meet To Be Held Here Tomorrow

A flood of recent entries assures a huge field here Saturday for the second annual Montana AAU track and field championship meet for women. Time trials are scheduled at 10 a.m. on Montana State's Gatton Field and the meet begins at 1 p.m.

Joan Williams, director of the meet and a staff member at MSC, reports that entries already have been received from 145 girls and she anticipates several more, which means the field is more than twice as large as last year.

The latest team entry is from Butte, which entered 16 girls. Other towns that will be represented and their number of entries are Ennis 20, Fairfield 12, Hot Springs 20, Three Forks 16, Belfry 10, Laurel 12, Whitehall 10, Sonnette 2, Miles City 6, Townsend 4, Cody, Wyo., 8, Lovell, Wyo., 4, and five from Montana State College.

Last year's meet was won by Hot Springs and Ennis was runner-up.

The entry list is extremely heavy in the dash events. According to Mrs. Williams, 34 entries have been received for the girls' 50-yard dash, meaning that it will be necessary to run several trials Saturday morning.

Probably the outstanding returning contestant is Phyl Miller, MSC junior from Townsend. She will defend titles in the women's shotput, javelin, discus and baseball throw.

Another top performer is Carol Breshears from Ennis. She is defending champion in the girls' baseball throw and 50 meter hurdles.

Gerry Murphy, MSC sprint

star from Anaconda, now attends school at Fresno State College so new champions are assured in the women's 50 and 100-yard dashes and 80 meter hurdles.

Championship events for girls are limited to contestants 12 to 17 years old, while any age contestant can participate in the women's events.

Girls' events are: 50-yard dash, 100-yard dash, 50-yard hurdles, 300-yard relay, baseball throw, running high jump, 8-pound shotput, running broad jump and javelin throw.

Women's events are: 50-yard dash, 220-yard run, 440-yard run, 880-yard run, 80 meter hurdles, 440-yard relay, baseball throw, running high jump, 4 kilo shotput, discus throw, running broad jump, javelin throw.

MSC to Resume Big Ten Rivalry

Montana State College resumes its basketball rivalry with a Big 10 Conference school next winter after nearly a 30-year layoff.

The Bobcats meet Purdue University at Lafayette, Ind., on December 29, after playing Loyola of Chicago in the Windy City on the previous night.

In the last meeting of the two teams in 1931-32, Purdue defeated MSC, avenging a defeat by the Golden Bobcats during the 1929-30 season. MSC stands 0-2 in its series with Loyola of Chicago.

MSC Rolls To First Cinder Win of Year

Jim Roban and Larry Chanay turned in outstanding performances to lead the MSC cindermen to the winning of the MSC Invitational. MSC tallied 64 to gain the winning margin over Western Montana with 55. Northwest Nazarene College of Nampa, Idaho, scored 19½; Rocky Mountain College had 10 points; Northern 6½, and Eastern and Carroll each scored two points.

Jim Roban was the meet's high individual scorer with 12 points. Jim broke his old record of 145' 6" in the discus with a toss of 149' 3½". He also won the shotput and placed third in the javelin.

Larry Chanay broke two records in the sprints turning in times of 9.8 in the 100 yard dash and 21.6 in the 220 yard dash. MSC's Duane Delger also bettered an old recording, clipping off the 440 yard dash in 51.8 seconds.

Other top point getters in the meet were Len Broz, winning the high jump with a leap of 6 ft. 3½ in.

Barney, Wagenaar, and Varland also got in on the record bettering. Barney established new records in the 880 yd. run and mile, clipping off the 880 in 205.2 seconds and the mile in 4.45.5 minutes. Wagenaar ran the 220 yd. low hurdles in 24.7 to break the record set by himself last year. Varland won the broadjump with a record breaking jump of 22 ft. 8 in.

This was MSC's last home appearance of the season with road trips remaining to Spokane where they encounter Whitworth and ending the season against Idaho State at Pocatello.

Scott and Nauman Keep Rodeo'ers Riding High in College Competition

The MSC rodeo team traveled to Pocatello, Idaho, for their rodeo several weeks ago. ISC won the rodeo with Colorado State University second and MSC third.

"We didn't do quite as well as we would have in the past, but we did have three winners at Pocatello," reported Bob Miller, rodeo team coach.

Jo Ann Nett won the barrel racing and all-around cowgirl awards, and Bill Nauman won the calf-roping. Nauman also had the fastest calf-roping time of the rodeo with a time of 14.2 sec. Other MSC men placing in Idaho were Eddie Scott, who won the go-around of calf roping, one of steer wrestling, and threw the fastest steer of the rodeo with a time of 6.5 seconds.

Larry Thomas placed third in one round of steer wrestling, John Nelson took third in steer wrestling, Shawn Davis copped fourth in bull riding and Dollie Hughes took first in goat tying.

Last week the team went to Laramie, Wyoming, and next week two rodeos are scheduled; one at Chadron, Nebraska, and the other at Brookings, South Dakota.

Cheerleaders to be Selected Tues. in Fieldhouse

Spring quarter try-outs for next year's cheerleaders will be held in the Fieldhouse on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, May 19, 20, 21, at 5 p.m. According to Hallie Paisley, Cheerleader-elect Tuesday is slated for practice, Wednesday for try-outs and the final selection scheduled for Thursday. From zero to five cheerleaders will be picked, depending upon the calibre of those trying out. Traditions Board members will act as judges.

Another try-out session will be held next fall for those not picked now and for incoming freshmen and transfer students.

It is hoped that many students will be interested so that MSC will be justly proud of its cheerleader section and that the best possible cheerleaders are selected.

The selection is by no means limited to girls. Boys are encouraged to participate, according to Paisley.
