

Di Guordyne

Jim White Calf - Chief medicine man in charge of ceremonies. Age 72.

Engaged in many horse stealing frays on other tribes. Admits scalping at least one enemy and has scalp to prove it.

Chewingblackbones - Assisting medicine man. Age 71. Admits scalping two Indian enemies. Leader of medicine pipe ceremonies.

Three Calf - Famous warrior. Age 72. Fought roving band of Indians from an open flat all day alone. At sundown his adversaries invited him to feast with them. Said they couldn't kill a crazy man.

Mike Day Rider - Joined army at 19 to fight Sitting Bull. Age 67. Helped army quell labor uprising of railroad laborers 1894.

Ridesatthedoer - Age 72. Claims to have held off a band of the enemy with a butcher knife while his brother escaped. Doesn't say what happened then.

Louis Champine - Age 71. Scout for U. S. Army while they were cleaning up western outlaws.

Aims Back - Age 66. Leader of medicine pipe ceremony.

Arrow Top Knot - Age 75. Noted Indian Sage and philosopher.

Weasel Tail - Age 78. Scalped his first enemy when 18 years old.

Robert Many Hides - Joined the army when 20. Helped quell trouble on railroad in 1894.

Black Weasel -

John Spotted Wolf -

Eli Grandysee

Middle Rider -

Juniper Old Person -

Mud Head -

Busty Bull -

Stabs By Mistake -

Shoots First -

Yellow Kidney -

Among Indians a name is given for deeds of valor and bravery so one Indian may have several different names. To show friendship or for adoption an Indian may give one of his names to another and it is customary for the one receiving the name to give his most prized possession to show that he knows the significance and honor of the name he receives. This is an Indian custom.